A New Treatment.

Another mode of treating the drink habit is said to be in successful operation in Paris where three physicians—Dr. Raspelet, Thebanes and Broca—announce that they have discovered a new serum. Of 37 cases treated, 23 were cured and 12 were improved, only 10 failing to show improvement. The serum is obtained from horses that have been dosed with alcohol until their systems are drenched with the poison. When administered to patients the serum revives natural repugnance to alcohol, which continued use has broken down.

ECZEMA'S ITCH IS TORTURE.

Eczeema is caused by an acid humor in the blood coming in contact with the skin and producing redness and inflammation; little pustular eruptions form and discharge a thin, sticky fluid, which dries and scales off; sometimes the skin is hard, dry and fissured. Eczeema in any form is a tormenting, stubborn disease, and the itching and burning at times are almost unbearable; the acid burning humor seems to ooze out and set the skin on fire. Salves, washes nor other external applications do any real good, for as long as the poison remains in the blood it will keep the skin irritated.

BAD FORM OF TETTER.

"For three years I had Tetters on my head, which caused me to be unable to work. I tried all kinds of medicine, but it did not help me. I was only cured by S. S. S. I have since seen many signs of my old trouble."—Mrs. L. B. Jackson, 1414 McGee St., Kansas City, Mo.

S. S. S. neutralizes this acid poison, cools the blood and restores it to a healthy, natural state, and the rough, unhealthy skin becomes soft, smooth and clear.

S. S. S. cures Tetters, Erysipelas, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum and all skin diseases due to a poisonous condition of the blood. Send for our book and write us about your case. Our physicians have made these diseases a life study, and can help you by their advice; we make no charge for this service. All correspondence is conducted in strictest confidence.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW.

Business Fully Equal to That of a Corresponding Period Last Year.

Bradstreet's says: Though some measures of business volume and value make unfavorable comparison with a year ago, and speculation is certainly on a reduced scale in nearly all lines, other registers of trade activity are still very favorable and it is hard to resist the conclusion that, with few notable exceptions, the actual business of the country is as a rule fully equal to if not slightly in excess of the corresponding period of 1899. This, too, in the case in spite of the distinctly depressive tendency exercised by the present presidential campaign.

Prices of staples as a whole are firm, after a sustained advance for a month past, succeeding a summer of quiet stagnation, but unhealthiness of the short side in speculation has been brought forcibly to the attention of dealers in a number of staples, notably hog products and flaxseed.

The event of the week in the iron and steel trade has been the taking of 150,000 tons of rails by the Pennsylvania at $26 per ton, announced on Friday. This action, which will probably be followed by other companies, disposes of the steel rail puzzle satisfactorily to the rail-makers, and constitutes another element of strength to the industry generally. Despite a decrease of over 20 per cent in the current pig iron production from four months ago, furnace stocks are reported increasing and prices are very weak.

Wheat, including flour shipments, for the week, aggregate 4,292,585 bushels against 4,459,167 bushels last week.

Business failures for the week in the United States number 210, as against 177 last week.

Failures in the Dominion of Canada number 36, as compared with 18 last week.

ANCIENT INDIAN ARSENAL.

Great Store of Arrow Heads Discovered in Connecticut.

Among the collections of Indian relics owned in Connecticut probably the finest, with one exception, is owned by Herbert Southam, who lives in the town of Durham. A large part of them were found by Mr. Southam himself as he is a confirmed relic hunter and knows many of the caves and camping grounds used by the tribes of the State. White flint, black flint, rose quartz, red and yellow jasper, lime stone and glass stone were the stones used in the manufacture of 3,000 arrow heads, varying from the size of a thumb nail to those nearly as large as a hand. His axes include the fine-grained, highly polished tool to the rough unfinished specimens. He has thirty of these, one of which weighs seven pounds, while the smallest turns the scales at sixteen ounces.

Of his eleven pestles the longest measures fourteen and a half inches in length. Gouges used by the Indians in working out the inside of logs which they had first charred, in making their canoes, number twenty. There are ten fine specimens of adze and two chisels. Of his three pipes the one he values most highly is short-stemmed, perfect bowled and was found a few miles from his home. It looks much like a common clay pipe of today excepting the color, which is that of red clay. The breast-plates are notched around the edges, a notch for each battle the wearer was engaged in. One of them can be counted sixty-five notches, denoting either a chieftain or one much given to fighting.

There are three war club heads and a dozen hide scrapers used in cleaning the hides from which their clothing and tents were made. Among the most interesting specimens to the ordinary man and which cause a peculiar sensation as their use is explained are the three scapling knives. A string of wampum was taken from a skeleton found in Portland. A red clay kettle is absolutely perfect. A bone ornament found in a cave is considered valuable, as but few of them are in existence. The drills used for making the holes for the leather thongs in their moccasins and skin canoes show great skill and patience, as they had nothing but stones with which they tapered these from about the size of a pencil down to a sharp point. Of these he has fifteen.

Brass arrowheads and a quiver divide honors with the two iron tomahawks. During a rainstorm two years ago Walter Lane sought shelter under a shingle rock at North Guilford, and while sitting there he discovered a number of arrowheads and what he believed to be the light of modern civilization penetrated the gloom of the cave. Their battle cry is: "Give back the throne to the young Emperor Kwang Hsu." They would have been taken from that spot.

How They Put Out Fires in Korea.

A fire in Korea is considered of slight consequence, unless a whole street should happen to be threatened. There is very little in a Korean house that can burn, except sliding doors and windows, and a few articles of furniture and clothing.

Generally the unlucky owner whose house catches fire endeavors to pull it down; that is, after he has carried into the street whatever property he cares to save. When several houses are on fire in danger the King sends out a hundred or so soldiers, who calmly view the bonfire, and offer help, if necessary. There is no water to work with, so these helpers generally bring along with them a ship's anchor, fastened to a long, thick rope; this they fix to the burning beam, then it is "a long pull, a strong pull, and a pull all together."

Sometimes the sparks, driven by the wind, fly across the road; then the Koreans climb up on their roofs, and stand in rows upon the upper edges of the structure. You will wonder what the object of this strange proceeding may be. Now the men quickly strip off their coats and the women follow suit with their large cloaks. They then wave rapidly together, in order to create a strong counter breeze to the one blowing.

One can almost imagine the Koreans to be strange birds, flapping their wings preparatory to taking their flight into the upper regions. While these odd proceedings are going on, prayers are offered to the spirit of the fire, as well as to that of the wind.

A Gentle Suggestion.

The neighbors on both sides had come over in Simpson's front yard, and were making remarks about passers-by and carrying on a desultory conversation. "The cause of the present hard times," suddenly said Simpson loudly, "is caused by women knocking men out of employment—in shops, factories, stores, etc. When you stop and consider the thing, one can't help but wonder why they should be big enough fools to do this."

"Probably it's because they become tired waiting for men to do something," gently suggested Mrs. Simpson.

The shoe must have fit Simpson, for Mr. Banks slyly nudged his wife and Simpson was silent for an unusually long time—Indianapolis Sun.

A Hypnotic Cure.

A New Haven clergyman seriously proposes to cure boys of the cigarette habit by hypnotism. He has been a deep student of psychological problems and has conducted a number of experiments in the laboratories of Yale University. He took one boy who was weak-minded from excessive smoking and put him under hypnotic influence. Then a strong lecture on the evils of the boy's habit followed. It is claimed that the subject is permanently cured.

Mushroom Crop.

The annual crop of mushrooms in France is valued at $2,000,000, and there are sixty wholesale firms in Paris dealing exclusively in them. In the Department of the Seine, it appears, there are some 3,000 caves in which mushrooms are grown, and about 300 persons are employed in their culture.

The average man likes to point to the good traits in his children as a heritage from himself.

STUDIED WITH KWANG HSU.

Fellow Student of the Chinese Emperor Visits San Francisco.

Leung Kai Tin, a fellow-student of Emperor Kwang Hsu of China, is in San Francisco. Even to see the Emperor is a rare privilege, denied the great majority of the almond-eyed. The fortunate Celestial who rubs elbows with his majesty is singularly honored by his countrymen. But he who breaks through the sacred inner circle and lives in daily communication with the Emperor of China is almost a divinity to the half a thousand million less fortunate subjects.

Such a dignitary is Leung Kai Tin, who owes the proud privilege of his personal communication with the Emperor Kwang Hsu to the fact that he is a pupil of Kang Yu Wei, greatest of Chinese scholars and reformers. It was Kang Yu Wei who first started the reform bee buzzing in the royal bonnet. The young Emperor finally lent a listening ear to the teachings of Kang Yu Wei. He became a pupil of that great teacher. This naturally made the Emperor eager to meet the most brilliant scholar of Kang Yu Wei. Among the young men brought into the royal presence were Leung Kai Tin and Leung Kai Tin. Leung Kai Tin was the younger brother, but equally clever for his years, and an ardent reformer.

When jealousy made it imperative that the young Emperor have less frequent councils with Kang Yu Wei it was decided to confine their intercourse to letters and to have these missives carried to and fro by some trusted friend of reform. Leung Kai Tin was one of those who bravely offered his services for this delicate and dangerous task.

When the Emperor saw that his reformers had endangered his own safety and that of his advisers, and that matters were nearing a crisis, he sent a secret message to Kwang Yu Wei, informing him of the peril that was threatening all reformers. He bade them fly at once.

Six of the most promising advocates of reform were butchered at the instigation of the Emperor Dowager before they could make their escape, but Kang Yu Wei, Leung Kai Tin, Leung Kai Tin, and several others managed to escape.

Leung Kai Tin came to the Pacific coast to carry the doctrine of reform to every city and village where his brother Chinese congregated. In San Francisco there are an especially large number of progressive Chinese, who believe that the light of modern civilization should penetrate the gloom of the East. Their battle cry is: "Give back the throne to the young Emperor Kwang Hsu." They would have been taken from that spot.

FLIES HAVE EYES TO BLIND.

Four Thousand in a Bunch on Each Side of the Head.

Whoever thinks the male suppurator animal finds no rest for the sole of his foot in the contemplation of what we, in the sublimity of our self-conceit, call "the lower animals." In our general ignorance of the housefly we do not know just how foolish and unaccountable the male is, but we may reasonably infer that he is as markedly deficient as usual, seeing that his eyes are so close together that they touch each other. That's always a bad sign. If you see anybody with eyes close together you are entitled to think little of his intelligence.

Electroplating the Dead.

Dr. Variot of Paris has discovered a process for embalming bodies which it is thought will prove a great success. He not only embalms but metallizes the bodies by the Ruolt process, just as it is done with a fork or a spoon. In this manner they can be preserved indefinitely, and in such perfection that the most imperceptible wrinkles and lines are reproduced, and the embalmed body has the appearance of a metal statue. The process is as follows: After a bath in pure carbolic acid, and being strongly rubbed with nitrate of silver, the body is submerged in a galvanoplastic (D) bath, after which a slight layer of nitrite is applied to it.—Lisbon O'Dis.

Gentle Sarcasm on Athletics.

With reference to the delinquency of the athlete at public schools, the Oxford Magazine has the following: "It appears that a few days back the vice-chancellor received the following letter from a gentleman: 'How much would I have to pay for the education of my son in your university? Let me know if I shall have to pay more in case my son, besides rowing, should wish to learn to read and write.'—St. James' Gazette.

Salt and pepper to taste. Return to the tomato shells, and put on the slices that were removed from the top, place a tiny piece of butter on each, and bake about 20 minutes.

MANY SUFFERERS

WHAT A LARGE NUMBER OF PEOPLE ARE ENDURING.

A Distressing Condition in Which Many American People Are Involved—The Only Way to Alleviate It.

From the Mountaineer, Waltham, N. Dakota.

The remorse of a guilty stomach is what a very large majority of the people of this nation are suffering with today. It is a well known fact that dyspepsia is a characteristic American disease and it is frequently stated that "we are a nation of dyspeptics."

It is a distressing ailment and because of its many forms is difficult to treat. Sometimes it is the result of improper modes of eating, improper food or mental worry and exhaustion; then again it may be sort of a depressed condition of the body and treatment should be directed to the restoration of the health, without special attention to the stomach. In other instances, the disease is evidently the result of inflammation of the stomach.

Anyone of these conditions produce a lack of vitality in the system, by causing the blood to lose its life-sustaining elements. The blood is the vital element in our lives and should be carefully nurtured. Restore the blood to its proper condition, dyspepsia will vanish and perfect health follow.

For example, in the county of Pembina, North Dakota, a few miles from Waltham, resides Mr. Ernest Snider; a man of sterling integrity, whose veracity cannot be doubted. He was formerly a resident of Landsdowne, Ont., but removed to the West and is now a prosperous farmer.

For three years he has been unable to do his work because he was ill with dyspepsia. "I became seriously ill about three years ago," he says, and consulted a doctor who gave me some medicine for indigestion. I continued to grow worse and several physicians were called at intervals who gave me temporary relief, but the disease returned with all its accustomed severity.

"The distress after eating made me dread meal time. At times I became so dizzy as to be unable to stand. I had sour stomach, heartburn, palpitation of heart, and weak nerves. The doctors disagreed as to the nature of my disease, but all agreed that the stomach was affected. I suffered intensely and life was a misery."

"I tried several well-known remedies, but was not benefited. I read in the newspapers articles regarding the wonderful curative powers of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and finally after some urging on the part of a friend, I concluded to try the pills. I purchased six boxes. This was five months ago. I had not taken all of the first box before I felt much relief, I continued taking the pills, and after using four boxes I was cured. I have none of those distressing symptoms now and am completely restored to health, and can do as much work as any of the laborers on my farm. I owe my restoration to health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and gladly give my testimonial, hoping it may prove beneficial to some persons similarly affected."

"By restoring to the blood the requisite constituents of life, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People renew the nerve force and enable the stomach to promptly and properly assimilate the food, thus speedily and permanently curing the dyspeptic. These pills are a specific for all diseases having their origin in impoverished blood or disordered nerves. They contain every element requisite to general nutrition, to restore strength to the weak, good health to the ailing. Physicians prescribe them, druggists recommend them and everywhere the people use them."

A Quaker Order.

"The funniest thing I saw during the war," said the colonel, "happened in my regiment. One of the capitalists had been a railroad conductor before the war. He was a good disciplinarian and kept his men well drilled. One day he had a squad of men out marching them by flank, when he turned to speak to a friend. When he looked again his squad, marching like veterans, were in the act of 'butting' into a high board fence. In the emergency he forgot for a moment that he was a soldier and became again a railroad conductor. Running forward towards the squad he shrieked at the top of his voice: 'Down brakel Down brakel!' He was one of the best soldiers, just the same, and led his men into many a hot fight."

Skagway printers have formed a union with 17 members, the first in Alaska.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly irritating the part with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. It cures all catarrhs in a few days. It is a sure cure for all cases of Catarrh. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O., Sold by Druggists. This is the meaning of every symbol, figure and ceremony—that man might know God and man's own future.
