Copeland, Astoria; Auditor, A. B. Little, Clatskanie; Surveyor, Dr. H. C. Hill, St. Helens; Coroner, P. A. Forbes, Seaside; Commissioners, W. D. Case, Pittsburg.

FEBRUARY 22, 1901.

There will be no colored men in the next house of representatives. Mr. White, of North Carolina, who goes out on the third of March, will probably be the last of his race for many years to occupy a seat in the national legislature. The restriction placed upon negro suffrage in the southern states will prevent any one from being elected to either house of congress. They are growing scarcer and scarcer in legislative bodies in the South, and by and by will have no representation there. People who are interested in this subject should go to Washington and see the last of the Mohicans before the session closes. Twenty-five years ago there were a dozen colored men on the floor of the house, and two or three in the senate. Some of them were able, upright and useful men. Bruce was the last and the best of the colored senators and White closes the career of the negro in the lower house.

Mrs. Nation is still at it in Kansas, and has become a subject for national discussion, overshadowing for the time, every other question. The reason for the "masterly inactivity" of the Kansas saloon men lies in the fact that they are unlawfully conducting their "joints," as their liquid emporiums are styled. The anti-liquor law in that state became such a dead letter that the "joint" owners finally plucked up sufficient courage to conduct their resorts openly. They are not so much to blame as the officials who have permitted these "joints" to operate contrary to the statutes of the state. Men would steal, kill and conspire in brazen openness were it not that the law stands out of the way, and if Mrs. Nation would turn the attention of the temperance people toward impeaching the state, county and township officers, the liquor question would solve itself. The men sworn to exercise the laws, and who willfully lend their assistance, by their inertia to law-breaking, are worse than the men who commit the crimes.

The public does not realize how rapidly conditions are improving in the Philippines. The president recently spoke of the progress as "marvelous." Acceptance of American authority and establishment of local self government are proceeding in provinces where heretofore the insurrectionary spirit has been most manifest. The president thinks the adoption of the Spooner bill, formally confirming by act of congress his course in organizing popular government in the archipelago, will have a beneficial effect in that it will be notice to the Filipinos in that the policy is to be permanent. Everywhere, as fast as the Taft commission can cover the ground, municipal administration is being successfully inaugurated in the complete possession of the Filipinos. Upon these city or town governments it is to be built the political organization of the provinces. Then will come the recruiting of native troops to maintain order and punish crime. The Taft commission went to the Philippines in the expectation that the work of organizing local government could be practically completed in two years. The first year is not yet ended but the progress is such that it is believed it will be accomplished within the stated time.

One of the reasons why the administration wishes the recognition of his right to intervene and veto put into the Cuban constitution is the conviction that the island government will need a powerful ally to avert the load of debt which Spanish and French bondholders will try to place upon it as soon as formed. The American peace commissioners who went to Paris were not long in finding that the protection of this debt was a paramount issue at the French capital. In the negotiations it developed speedily that if the United States would assume any responsibility for these bonds or would guarantee that the new Cuban government would assume them the other terms of peace would not be difficult. A powerful lobby on the part of French holders of "Cubans" made known its presence. The American commissioners resisted from the beginning the pressure to have this debt ever considered. Proceedings were prolonged by the various attempts of the Spanish commissioners to bring the matter into discussion. The amount involved is about $400,000,000. This government has reason to believe that almost immediately after the Cuban nation is recognized the French and Spanish bondholders will begin pressure upon it through their governments unless the United States stands between.

DEPRECIATIONS by the Creek Indians have been reported periodically ever since Andrew Jackson's time, and yet the government is asked to deal leniently with them.

The Beaver Creek Flume and Lumber Company, of which Charles Mayger, C. E. Runyon and T. J. Cleaton are owners, is building the longest flume flume in Oregon. It starts at Beaver creek, where a dam has been built near the lumber mill of Messers Bros., and runs to the Columbia, a mile below Quincy. Four and one-half miles of it have been completed and it is expected to be in operation by May 1. It is four feet wide and three and one-half feet deep and will carry a load of twenty-six inches at the butt and 100 feet long. It taps a good timber country, where there is excellent logs for piling and a large amount of cedar. The company has received a contract for furnishing the piles for three rafts for the Robertson Raft Company and a shingle mill and a saw and door factory will be built near the end of the flume. The company will also put in a general store at the same place. -Astoria Budget.

The demand for work horses continues good. Most of them are being bought for logging camps and seining grounds of Oregon, Washington and British Columbia, although a good many are intended for the Alaska trade. -Senator Matlock, of Pendleton, who is buying for Dawson City, says a great many horses are needed in that country, as much heavy freighting is done in the Upper Yukon, while many of the mines require horses to haul the large amount of wood needed. This wood is getting farther off the time, he said, "and so the demand for draft horses is likely to increase. The amount of firewood needed in that country is very large, as thawing machines are needed at many of the mines, while in the town of Dawson alone the consumption of wood is tremendous. A little saloon will consume two cords a day during the long winter, and so the wood bill of a saloon alone will run into thousands of dollars a year, as wood is worth $25 a cord, laid down in Dawson."

The Astoria Budget says "the county court is having a vast amount of trouble with the reports of the road district supervisors for the reason that the expense accounts are not made in detail and in many cases the receipts books have not been sent in so that the accounts could be checked up. The clerk was instructed to notify the supervisors that no bills would be allowed in the future unless they were itemized." This same condition of affairs exists to some extent in Columbia county, and until Clatskop county adopts the plan suggested by the court of this county, and has printed and sends out to the supervisor blanks upon which the supervisor can make a detailed report of his work, the same to be sent to the county court a few days before each regular meeting, trouble will continue to exist. The county court must have some system before it can expect absolute correctness from the supervisor. Encouragement is a good deal, and the slight expense incurred in furnishing the officers with the necessary blanks for his reports is repaid tenfold in time and trouble.

Some of our people greatly depreciate the general timber land grabbing operations which were inaugurated principally by foreigners in this state last season and are still flourishing and will probably thus continue until every acre of desirable timber land will have been located. However, there is a brighter view to be taken of this matter and we see it illustrated forcibly in the cheering announcements coming from the various parts of the state to the effect that the Columbia from Kalama to Vancouver, a triangular fight for possession of the right of way of the Portland & Puget Sound Railway, was begun in the superior court of Clark county last week. A petition for condemnation of the right of way was filed by the Washington & Oregon Railway Company January 23, Edmund Rice, of Olympia, is president of this company, and E. H. Guie, of Seattle, represents it as counsel, and the concern is supposed to be acting in the interest of the Northern Pacific Railway Company. The Portland and Puget Sound Company, which is the present owner of the Washington & Oregon Company to condemn and take its property. The Columbia Valley Railroad Company intervenes, as it claims rights superior to those of the Washington & Oregon Company in the right of way sought to be taken by the last-named corporation. The matter was heard by Judge Miller, at Vancouver, and he took the priority of claims under advisement for a few days, calling a jury for March 14 to fix the value of the property. The same proceedings were taken before the same judge in Clatskanie county, the cases being the same in the two counties.

It is very evident that one or more lines of railway are soon to traverse the territory in Clatskanie and Clark counties, Wash., along the north bank of the Columbia from Kalama to Vancouver. A triangular fight for possession of the right of way of the Portland & Puget Sound Railway, was begun in the superior court of Clark county last week. A petition for condemnation of the right of way was filed by the Washington & Oregon Railway Company January 23, Edmund Rice, of Olympia, is president of this company, and E. H. CLATSKANIE ITEMS.

Stephen Tichenor, Jr., and wife have gone to Mayer, where Steve is finding employment at the shingle mill.

Hugh Murray's household has added a daughter to be cared for along with his brother and sister. It is being well taken care of.

John English was unfortunate while working near the old mill, to fall off a bridge and injure his knee, keeping him in the house or on crutches the past week.

Emil Menke, living outside of town, was unfortunate enough to dislocate his ankle a few days ago while working in a field at his mother's. He is at rest for a few days.

Mrs. D. C. Aldridge left the first of the week on her return to Portland, where she will make her home for the present with her son, Albert, who is employed there.

Mrs. E. W. Conyers had the misfortune to fall one evening last week and dislocate her wrist, causing considerable suffering. She will be compelled to wear it bandaged for some days to complete repairs.

It is encouraging to see steam coming from the Bryant mill in town after some months of quiet. John Palm is doing some sawing to get out material to replace the mill burned near the mouth of the Clatskanie.

Rev. L. E. Rockwell, of Portland, presiding elder of this district, held the usual quarterly meeting services Saturday and Sunday, preaching at Quincy in the morning and here in the evening. He is an able speaker.

Mrs. C. H. Wheeler is visiting her parents this week while waiting the arrival of a steamer at Astoria to return to Nehalem bay. Miss Millie Conyers expects to go back with her to spend some time nearer the salt sea breezes.

Harold Syverson, formerly of Quincy, was in town Tuesday on a brief business trip. Harry is disposing of his logging outfit, expecting to look after the interests of a new steamer, of which he is part owner.

The Macabees gave a dance on the evening of St. Valentine's Day, which was more of a social than financial success. Mrs. Perrine served refreshments generously, and Miss Louise Barr and sister furnished music, which was all that could be desired. We have heard of no dance yet scheduled at Clatskanie for the 23d, which is an unusual omission.

A couple of our citizens indulged in a sparring exhibition one day last week, during which they seemed to lose their temper for awhile, and were requested by the marshal to stop proceedings at once. He did not seem to fear that they would hurt each other, but being on the road in sight of the school house, thought the effect on the rising generation might not be wholesome.

A dime social was held at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. Hall on Tuesday evening of last week which was attended by enough people, old and young, to fill up the rooms to a comfortable limit. The evening was pleasantly occupied in playing games and listening to music, and in questioning music, it should be noted that the former on mandolin and guitar by George Conyers and sister, Laura, was very greatly appreciated and formed a very considerable part of the evening's enjoyment as testified to by the enthusiastic applause received. George is a natural musician, and in quite too reluctant through modesty to entertain his friends as often as they would like to hear him, which remark applies to his sister also. Those at this social appreciated and enjoyed the opportunity of hearing them play together. Some light refreshment followed later, and about midnight all had started for home, declaring that they had spent a pleasant evening.

A number of our citizens took a day from their ordinary duties Saturday a week ago to do what they could to help the Tichenor Mill Company clear away the logs and rubbish deposited over and around their mill site at the time of the destructive washout there. Most of the day was spent in getting out the donkey engine, which is handled about a mile above, and by extraordinary good luck and judicious management, the engine was brought nearly all the way and would have made the entire distance had not an accident to the machinery interfered. This was later repaired and the machine has been doing effective work since, and in quite too reluctant through modesty to entertain his friends as often as they would like to hear him, which remark applies to his sister also. Those at this social appreciated and enjoyed the opportunity of hearing them play together. Some light refreshment followed later, and about midnight all had started for home, declaring that they had spent a pleasant evening.

A Gentle Hint. In our style of climate, with its sudden changes of temperature—rain, wind and sunshine often intermingled in a single day—it is no wonder that our children, friends, and relatives are so frequently taken from us by neglected colds, bad colds resulting directly from this cause. A bottle of Boecher's German Syrup kept about your home for immediate use will prevent serious sickness, a large doctor's bill, and perhaps death by the use of three or four doses. For consumption, hemorrhages, pneumonia, severe coughs, croup, or any disease of the throat or lungs, its success is simply wonderful, as your druggist will tell you. Get a sample bottle free at the St. Helens Pharmacy. Regular size, 75 cts. Get Green's Prize Almanac.

The claim of other cough medicines to be as good as Chamberlain's are effectually set at rest in the following testimony of Mr. C. D. Glass, an employee of Bartlett & Dennis Co., Gardiner, Me. He said: "I had kept adding to a cold and cough in the winter of 1897, trying every cough medicine I heard of without permanent help, until one day I was in the drug store of Mr. Honkleman and he advised me to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and offered to pay back my money if I was not cured. My lungs and bronchial tubes were very sore at this time, but I was completely cured by this remedy, and have since always turned to it when I get a cold, and soon find relief. I also recommend it to my friends and am glad to say it is the best of all cough medicines." For sale at the St. Helens Pharmacy.

A Convincing Answer. "I hobbled into Mr. Blackman's drug store one evening," says Nesley Nelson, of Hamilton, Ga., "and he asked me to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism with which I had suffered for a long time. I told him I had no faith in any medicine as they all failed. He said: 'Well if Chamberlain's Pain Balm does not help you, you need not pay for it.' I took a bottle of it home and used it according to the directions and in one week I was cured, and have not since been troubled with rheumatism." Sold at the St. Helens Pharmacy.
