MRS. NATION AND KANSAS.

In a recent interview ex-Governor John P. St. John, of Kansas, made the following statement regarding the temperance policy of Mrs. Nation:

"Mrs. Nation's position on the liquor question is like John Brown's position on the slavery question, and although her methods are unusual and unrefined, she is a true reformer and is justified in using any means to abate the joint nuisances in Kansas. While she may be technically guilty of trespass in destroying the jointists' property, the destruction of property which is being used notoriously in violation of the law is no crime. The action of Judge Hazen and County Attorney Nichols in prosecuting Mrs. Nation, while the jointists go unpunished, is a disgrace to the state of Kansas."

This is the view any fair-minded person must take of the matter. If it is illegal to sell liquor in Kansas it is the state and local officers and the "jointists" who should be prosecuted, not Mrs. Nation. The temperance people want to see the law enforced and as the officials will not do their sworn duty the people are perfectly justified in taking the law into their own hands and enforcing it by any means which may present itself. Illegal selling of liquor is no less an infraction of the law than is illegal distilling of liquor. When government agents find an illicit still they at once smash and destroy everything connected with it, and if any of the "moonshiners" are caught they are given terms in prison. Therefore, if the government has a right to stop and punish illicit making of liquor, the people have the same right to stop the illegal selling of it, and the temperance people are right in their crusade, though a little unusual in their methods.

NOT A FALSE VIEW.

We are firm in our belief that Columbia county's sun is just rising. The rays of light are already beaming forth with a distinctness which banishes all skepticism regarding the future commercial worth and importance of our resources, and gleams of hope pour forth with such radiance as to inspire greater faith in the future of what is well known and universally acknowledged to be the richest in natural resources and genuine latent wealth of any county in all Oregon. Here are boundless opportunities for all classes—the laborer, the capitalist, the mechanic, the professional man, the business man, the miner. Where resources are so abundant so also must be great activity, and the development of the Pacific Northwest has reached so great a degree that a universal clamor goes up and out for new fields of exploration and new scenes in which to launch the enterprises which capital hungers for and necessity demands. Within the borders of this county are all these things found. Here and now is the golden opportunity. The sounding of the praises was seemingly slow in bringing its results, but we believe the signal to strike is given by the noiseless, yet certain movements of the different railroads in declaring their intention to penetrate the interior of our domain and open a market for our latent resources, numerous and valuable. Disinterested, yet conservative thinkers take no less favorable view of the matter than the writer, whose every interest is here, and who has a right to regard these matters in their most favorable light. Circumstances certainly warrant the belief and defend the expression of hope for the future greatness of the county. With sixty miles of frontage upon the mightiest stream of the Pacific, with over four hundred thousand acres of fertile domain, with an area containing nearly eight billion feet of merchantable timber, with lands adapted for all agricultural purposes, where crops never fail through drought or where damage never comes by floods, where coal, iron and oil are known to exist, and where a living comes almost without an effort. Should we wonder at our greatness or marvel at our prospects? Let us ask: Are we overzealous in our anticipations?

"To Senator Geo. W. Proebstel is due most of the credit for securing the large appropriation of $50,000 for the Eastern Oregon State Normal School in our neighboring town of Weston."—Milton Eagle. This will account for the senator's position in the late senatorial fight. Senator Proebstel was told that if he did not vote for Mr. Mitchell the Normal school appropriation bill would never get out of the committee room. There is often a whole lot of argument in a mere hint.

If a man wants to fill his cup of anguish until it slops over, let him undertake the task of pleasing everybody for a short time, and he will realize how futile is the task. If he goes into politics, he is called unpatriotic. If he saves his money and lays it up against a rainy day, he is called a miser; while if he casts his "dough" upon the waters, he is accused of expecting a whole bakery to return to him in a few days. If he stands manfully for his rights, he is a target to be shot at, and if he does not stand up for them he is trodden under foot worse than the husband of a female suffragist. The only way in which a man can please everybody is when he carries a heavy life-insurance policy, which pleases his creditors, and then turns his face to the wall and expires. Then the people who before had denounced him hang around and say complimentary things about him that would make him scream with delight if his poor deaf ears could only be unstopped for a brief period.

The caucus is one of the methods and practices adopted by political parties to organize and govern without confusion the workings of the party. It is just as reasonable and necessary that a caucus should be held by the members elected to the legislature to nominate a party candidate as it is for the electors of a county or state to hold conventions to nominate candidates for the several state and county offices. To dispense with either invariably leads to confusion and sometimes a failure to elect. The delay in electing a United States senator has an influence on legislation which should not exist, and which can be avoided in no other way than to promptly elect a senator before matters of legislation have progressed to any extent. The only possible way to elect a senator promptly is for the party members to assemble in caucus, and each submit his candidate and vote for him, the one receiving the nomination to stand as the party candidate before the legislature.—Corvallis Gazette.

If Mrs. Nation continues her joint smashing crusade it will be in order for Kansas joint keepers to replace their glass bar furniture with polished steel plate mirrors. Harveyized steel bottles, boiler iron whisky barrels and cast iron beer mugs. It will also be necessary to replace ornamental wood bars with something built of granite. As a sanitary precaution joint keepers in that state will feel impelled to swap their winter suits for one that is bullet proof.

The scramble for Columbia county's timber lands, which is every day becoming livelier, is evidence of the value which is being placed upon this portion of our resources by lumbermen, speculators, and those engaged in the wood business. Scarcely a day passes which does not bring numerous persons to this place in search of these lands.

England's war in the Transvaal is costing her $1,365,887 a day and has been costing that much ever since it commenced, and pessimistic war experts do not figure on the war closing before next July. War and glory are expensive luxuries sometimes, but England must have them if they do come a little high.

Last Monday Teddy Roosevelt laid down the rifle and bowie knife to pick up the senatorial gavel, and hereafter, instead of slaying mountain lions he will devote his time to killing the aspirations of ambitious senators who hope to congeal themselves to their constituents by securing large appropriations.

JUDGED BY APPEARANCES.

In the Youth's Companion of February 14th, will be found a very interesting article from the pen of Andrew S. Draper, president of the University of Illinois, entitled "Ideal Public Schools." Among other things President Draper shows that the schools, teachers, pupils and citizens of a community are judged by the appearance of the school building. Read what Mr. Draper has to say in regard to the importance of good looks: "We are very likely to judge of a school by the looks of the school house. We may make a mistake, but we are very likely to be right. If we see a building that is attractive, with trees about it and with some green sod and a flowerbed in the summer-time and a whole and bright American flag floating over it, we shall be likely to find that things are about as they should be inside. If the building looks ugly and the grounds are unkept and the flag ragged, we shall be likely to find that the school house is dirty and unhealthful. We shall also be likely to find that the teacher is lazy and the pupils listless and the work of little account. "There may be cases in which this is not so. Clothes do not make the man, it is true, but in normal business conditions clothes indicate the qualities of the man* * * So a rickety and particulary a dirty school house is almost as certain proof of a weak school, as a four-days'-old beard, a dirty shirt and baggy trousers are commonly indicative of a cheap kind of business man. People who know the value of a good school will provide a good home for it, and in turn the good will help the school to grow better."—Belmont, (Wis.) Bee.

A County Hospital.

Considerable encouragement is offered for a county hospital, not an institution necessarily to be owned by the county, but one within the county that the benefit might remain at home. Dr. Cliff has been tendered a liberal offer by the Goble railroad people to act as their physician and surgeon, and there should be a place provided at home for the care not only of the unfortunates who fall victims to daily accidents there, but throughout the county. There is considerable money sent away from home annually for the care and support of our maimed and afflicted, and the proposition to corral and keep at home all such outlays is certainly meritorious and should meet with both moral and financial assistance. Let's organize a board of trade or some kindred association and make an effort in our own behalf. A good hospital at St. Helens would be not only a convenience, but a financial aid to the county and community.

Late News from Clatskanie.

Marshall Shearer has moved his family to Deer Island to try farming for awhile.

J. A. English and wife spent a few days at Forest Grove visiting their daughter and friends at Pacific University.

A boy arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Geary on Tuesday, which is being tenderly cared for in its early experience.

In school district No. 15 L. Leonard was elected school director to succeed Charles E. Rice, and in the Marshland district Henry Colvin was elected his own successor, with James Graham re-elected as clerk.

The household of E. R. Barnes and wife, at the end of the Lower Beaver bridge, welcomed a small boy last week, which has the very unusual experience of being able to see its great great grandmother, representing the fifth generation. Mrs. Lowe, sr., now making her home with her daughter, Mrs. G. W. Barnes, fills that position, while her daughter, Mrs. C. H. Jones, is the great grandmother. Unusual as such an event is, there is a similar one in the advent of a boy born to Mrs. Carrie Schneider, whose grandparents are S. C. Tichenor and wife, whose great grandparents are C. C. Lee and wife, and whose great great grandmother is yet living in California. The moral of this story is: If you want to live long and well, move to Clatskanie or its vicinity.

The annual school meeting here was attended with some interest as is usual. Each district has its anti-tax element who do not like to pay tax to educate other peoples' children, but in this district that element has so far proved to be a minority of the voters. The sentiment is pretty general here that the standing of the schools should be maintained even at some personal sacrifice. Two good men were placed in nomination for school director to succeed John A. English, who declined to again be a candidate. The position of each candidate was fairly stated and the ballot showed the election of Hon. N. Merrill, who had announced himself in favor of all the school we could possibly afford. Our district is somewhat in debt, but it was felt by those present that the debt could be gradually lifted. S. C. Tichenor was re-elected school clerk.

Strikes a Rich Find.

"I was troubled for several years with chronic indigestion and nervous debility," writes F. J. Green, of Lancaster, N. H. No remedy helped me until I began using Electric Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicines I ever used. They have also kept my wife in excellent health for years. She says Electric Bitters are just splendid for female troubles; that they are a grand tonic and invigorator for weak, run-down women. No other medicine can take its place in our family." Try them. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed at the St. Helens Pharmacy.

Good Cough Medicine for Children.

"I have no hesitancy in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says F. P. Moran, a well known and popular baker, of Petersburg, Va. "We have given it to our children when troubled with bad coughs, also whooping cough, and it has always given perfect satisfaction. It was recommended to me by a druggist as the best cough medicine for children as it contained no opium or other harmful drug." Sold at the St. Helens Pharmacy.

THE COUNTRY SCHOOLS.

In the cities the most the citizens have to do with the schools is to vote for certain officers and pay the taxes. The result is that in most cases the city schools are managed by experts, and are brought to the highest state of efficiency. Country schools, on the other hand, are managed on the principle of home rule and are often controlled by those who are utterly ignorant of modern educational progress. Sometimes the school is really run to suit the notions of men or women who think only of some selfish end, and who will ruin the work of a term if they cannot have their own way. One of the first steps in improving the school is to adopt this system in place of the old district system. Instead of having two or more schools put the districts together and have one good graded school. The small ungraded schools in a densely populated community are relics of bygone days, for the history of education tells us that as early as 1833 Horace Mann abolished the old district system in Massachusetts. The ungraded schools in densely settled districts are as much out of place as a cycle in a hundred acre wheat field. The result would be fewer and larger schools, fewer and better teachers. The teacher would be kept longer in the same schools, would be far better managed and better in every respect. Under the town system a board of three or four intelligent persons manage the schools instead of those whose only thought is to get a teacher at the lowest possible wages. Farmers need to learn about the needs and the development of the schools of today, so as to co-operate with teachers in improving the schools. When in the city they should try to learn something on this point. They should visit the teacher's institute and also consult experienced school officers. Such will give the rural people more insight into the new education than any other agency in their reach.

A Gentle Hint.

In our style of climate, with its sudden changes of temperture—rain, wind and sunshine often intermingled in a single day—it is no wonder that our children, friends, and relatives are so frequently taken from us by neglected colds, half the deaths resulting directly from this cause. A bottle of Boschee's German Syrup kept about your home for immediate use will prevent serious sickness, a large doctor's bill, and perhaps death by the use of three or four doses. For consumption, hemorrhages, pneumonia severe cough, croup, or any disease of the throat or lungs, its success is simply wonderful, as your druggist will tell you. Get a sample bottle free at the St. Helens Pharmacy. Regular size, 75 cts. Get Green's Prize Almanac.

At Honest Medicine for La Grippe.

George W. Waitt, of South Gardiner, Me., says: I have had the worst cough, cold, chills and grip and have taken lots of trash of no account but profit to the vendor. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the only thing that has done any good whatever. I have used one bottle of it and the chills, cold and grip have all left me. I congratulate the manufacturers of an honest medicine." For sale at the St. Helens Pharmacy.

Remarkable Cure of Rheumatism.

The editor of the Vindicator has had occasion to test the efficacy of Chamberlain's Pain Balm twice with the most remarkable results in each case. First, with rheumatism in the shoulder from which he suffered excruciating pain for ten days, which was relieved with two applications of Pain Balm, rubbing the parts afflicted and realizing instant benefit and entire relief in a very short time. Second, in rheumatism in thigh joint, almost prostrating him with severe pain, which was relieved by two applications, rubbing with the liniment on retiring at night, and getting up free from pain.
