JUNE 21, 1901.

LET'S STRIVE FOR PROGRESSION.

It goes without saying that the growth and prosperity of any community are in a large measure the product of that communal purpose which we dominate public spirit. Where this is lacking, or at most, manifest only by a few, development and steady, healthful prosperity comes tardily and often painfully. The man who is not actively and earnestly public spirited can hardly be called a good citizen. The climatic conditions in Oregon and the marvelous fertility of our soil make subsistence and ultimate competence so easy and certain that it would appear as if many of our people were content to look to these alone for prosperity, to the neglect of wisely-directed, active and energetic manifestation of public spirit. This has produced a marked absence of such a spirit and made it possible for a few selfish, avaricious men to dominate, until in many communities public spirit has ceased to be a factor in promoting prosperity, and the term "moss back" is no misnomer for no small number of our people.

The selfish man cannot be public spirited, for his selfishness determines him to do nothing which might directly or indirectly, presently or remotely benefit his fellows. As long as he can avoid it he will not improve his own lest he might advance the value of his neighbor's property. He always opposes any movement which embraces him. His utter selfishness precludes his seeing that the objects of a righteous selfishness are more certainly attained through an alert and active public spirit than otherwise. Public spirit, like charity, should begin at home. The citizens of this county must determine to make for the county what its situation, its environment and its established reputation render easily possible. Our county will certainly readily become the most prosperous and altogether most desirable place for any business pursuit in the state. This condition is thrusting itself upon us. Greatly, however, through a heavy burden of debt have our efforts to promote this condition been retarded. From this burden we are now almost free and it is to the interest of all who have a stake in the county's welfare to evince an earnest public spirit and unselfish interest in promoting and developing the many glorious advantages here possessed. Let each one determine that his shall be the best conditioned premises in the vicinity. Let him then take an interest in public improvements. Let us interest ourselves more in good schools and good roads. These are the foundation stones upon which a more congenial condition of affairs are to be builded. We need to assist in the establishment of industrial enterprises.

Each one must determine that he will, to the extent of his ability, give all material and moral aid necessary to promote any project of lasting benefit to his community or to the county. That was wise and reasonable advice which Jupiter gave to the carman who besought his assistance: "Put thine own shoulder to the cart." If we have this spirit we will readily find the ways and means which bring success. Where a right public spirit prevails mere speculation, extravagant expenditures and onerous obligations are avoided and no step taken will be regretted or need be retraced.

NOT FOR A THIRD TERM.

Senator Depew and one or two other prominent republicans have been doing some silly talking in the past two weeks about a third term for President McKinley. There will not be the slightest necessity for a third term. Mr. McKinley does not want a third term, as he has said.

There is no doubt at all about the great strength of the president with the people. He has given the country a courageous, clean and sane administration. The nation has prospered for the past four years in a greater degree than in any previous period of its history. There is an activity in all sorts of business at the present time, such as has seldom been seen in the past. Fewer idle persons, in proportion to population, are in the country now than were ever seen here before. The level of the country's wealth and prosperity is rising higher and higher. No other country in the world has a financial credit so high as that of the United States at this moment. The country's political and social prestige all over the earth is greater than it has ever been in any age.

Yet these circumstances justify no one in saying that the man who has just been placed twice at the head of the government, and who, to a greater extent than any other person in the United States, deserves the credit for the prosperity and the prestige which the country enjoys, will be given another four years of sway. Tradition is against the idea of a third term for any president. Mr. McKinley undoubtedly is against that idea. The antithird term sentiment is too well established by time and by the sanction of the people of all parties and all localities to be disregarded. Gen. Grant found that to be true long ago, although it was a few of Grant's unwise friends and not Grant himself who were responsible for the attempt to give him a third nomination. The corporal's guard of flatterers who urged a third term in the present case were, it is safe to say, giving offense instead of gratification to the patriotic and popular official whom they imagined they were honoring.

COLONEL BRYAN claims to not be satisfied with the decision in the insular cases. But he ought to be, because it has given him a change to revamp his old campaign speech about the empire.

INDEED, there are many evidences that the commercial importance of the varied resources of this county are becoming known and sought after. Especially is this the case with the timber, and not a great deal less so with mineral and especially coal. New commercial enterprises are being projected in this county nearly every week. Logging railroads and flumes are penetrating the forests of valuable timber, directly necessitating the outlay of great sums of money, which first benefits the laborer, then the timber owner and laborer combined, ultimately the entire community, by reason of the opening of a market for not only the timber, but the agricultural products. Telegraph poles, piling and railroad ties, too, are in demand here, affording a profitable market for the smaller trees, which have heretofore suffered destruction by reason of the insufficient appreciation of their commercial worth. Not only are these classes of enterprises taking firm and substantial rooting in the county, but more important, valuable and lasting ones are being promoted. Actual, permanent railroads, designed not only to transport logs and lumber, coal and mineral, but to serve as developers of the more remote regions of the county are forcing entrance to those parts. When once familiar with the conditions which are actuating this stir and strife for favorite places, then can we realize what is instore for the future.

AN unidentified exchange truthfully says that almost every town has among its citizens the man or woman who is forever complaining. He sees nothing good in anything at home, and is always inquiring why his home merchant can't sell as cheap as the merchant of another town. This man always buys away from home, unless he wants to buy on time. He always takes the paper from another town in preference to his own. In fact he spends all of his money with out-of-town enterprises and complains because those of his home town are not prosperous. It is one of the most unfortunate things which have to be met and overcome. The funny part of it all is that when it comes to what has been done the same fellow takes credit to himself for every success which his selfishness has retarded.

A MOST unusual instance of patriotic stoicism occurred while the president was at Santa Barbara, California. The residence of the chief of the fire brigade caught fire. The fire chief, who was on the street awaiting the coming of the president, was informed that his house was on fire. "Let it burn, he said, I can build another house, but I may never have another opportunity to see the president of the United States," and he stoically remained while his house burned to the ground. "I saw the president," said he, when informed that his house was in ruins. "I saved the lot anyway."

MORE inquiries are being received about Columbia county now than ever before. The possibilities for homes, for making money by various means, for profitable investment in timber and agricultural lands, and the productiveness of the soil and mildness of climate all combine to make ours a particularly favorite part of the state. All we lack is a few degrees more of enterprise on the part of our people. Persons seeking locations are not going to coax us long for a stopping place in our midst. The world is too wide for that. If we want them they want to know it.

BLESSED is the poor man. Pickpockets never bother him, and road agents give him a wide berth. The tax collector never hounds him. Nobody tries to borrow, and no one asks him to endorse. He never runs head over heels in debt, and is not robbed or harrassed by litigation. Burglars never invade his premises, and he sleeps in peace. When he dies nobody questions his will or attempts to confiscate his bones. Blessed, therefore, are the poor in pocket, for they get their money's worth.

WILLIAM REID, who built the Astoria & South Coast railroad several years ago, and who has just recently completed the Portland, Nehalem & Tillamook railroad, both on paper, is just now occupying his time telling the people of Portland what they should do to their free library. Reid's schemes remind us of the horse David Harum was attempting to trade away, and in enumerating its many qualities, said: "A woman can drive it as well as a man." Nothing that Reid attempts seems to go very well, either.

THE Albany Democrat says that the requiring of bonds from officials "is practical, not theoretical." It is practical only in that occasionally a few citizens have to pay for the stealings of an official whom the people of the county or state put in office. If the bond made the man honest there would be reason for it. Otherwise the loss should fall on the county or state. The people put the man in the place. Let them bear the loss, if any occurs.

WHAT'S the matter with the congressional delegation and Governor Geer immediately getting in a demand that the battleship Oregon be ordered to Portland for a short stay, to be present, anyhow, until after the Fourth. The big vessel is to leave San Francisco in a few days for the Bremerton, Wash., shipyard. If the vessel will come the people will make her proud she bears the name of this grand, good state.

AN exchange says that if a newspaper man knew how many knocks he received behind his back he would adopt another calling. Not so. The newspaper man who succeeds expects to be maligned by every law breaker, swindler and hypocrite, every carping critic and every lover of notority who is ignored, and in fact by all persons who do not agree with him in public and private matters.

A STONE thrown into the air will continue to go upward until the force that started it is spent; then it will fall. A state, county or city will continue to forge ahead just so long as its enterprising citizens see fit to push it to the front in a united and intelligent manner. If we are to succeed we must work for our own success.

WHISKY is a terrible thing, to be sure. But there is one thing to be said to the credit of whisky: It will let you alone if you let it alone, but gossip will hunt you up, whether you're in the game or not.

AN American general says the Filipinos are still living in the fourteenth century. This will explain why some of the fossils of the present century sympathize with them so deeply.

WHY DAIRYMEN PROSPER.

A Steady Income is the Result of Their Labors.

One reason why the people engaged in dairying are prosperous is because dairying is a cash business. There is no credit with the old cow. You feed her today and tomorrow she pays you back in cash. The dairyman doesn't have to tell his hired man that he can pay him when he sells his wheat, or when he sells a bunch of lambs, or when his peaches are marketed. He has the cash every week or every month. The dairyman need not run up a bill at his grocery or anywhere else. His business is a cash business, and he can pay as he goes. This is one of the basic principles of prosperity. Run up no debts, pay as you go. It gets a man in the habit of doing business on business principles, and when he does this he has started on the road to prosperity.

Again, the dairy business is a continuous business. It brings in cash every week in the year. The fruit man, or the wheat man, or the lamb man, or the steer man gets his money in large sums and at irregular intervals. This tends to extravagance in expenditure. When people have lots of money they spend lots, and when the source is cut off they feel it severely. The dairyman's income is more uniform and steady and he governs his expenditures accordingly. He is not flush at one time and totally strapped at another, but has a modest, uniform, continuous income, and is thereby made more prosperous.

Dairying is a safe business and therefore brings material prosperity to a person or a community. People have been financially ruined by fattening lambs or cattle, and, in some instances, by growing fruit or wheat. But no one ever heard of a man becoming bankrupt in the dairy business. These other businesses may at times bring a large profit, but there is a large element of speculation about it. The dairy business is almost devoid of speculations. It is rather slow, humdrum sort of business, but it is safe and one can put his money into it with the assurance of a modest profit from year to year. If crops fail in any other kind of farming the farmer is flat broke, but even if all the dairyamn's crops should fail, if he has a good herd of cows, he can buy all his feed and still pay expenses and have a small profit besides. Dairying may be a little slow, but it is sure.

LATE OCCURRENCES.

There was a $126,650 fire at Nome City on May 25th, news of which arrived at Port Townsend, by the steamer Nome City, Tuesday evening.

Ex-Governor Pingree, of Michigan, died in London at 11:30 Monday night.

Mr. W. S. Whedon, cashier of the First National bank, of Winterset, Iowa, in a recent letter gives some experience with a carpenter in his employ, that will be of value to other mechanics. He says: "I had a carpenter working for me who was obliged to stop work for several days on account of being troubled with diarrhoea. I mentioned to him that I had been similarly troubled and that Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy had cured me. He bought a bottle of it from the druggist here and informed me that one dose cured him, and he is again at his work." For sale at the St. Helens pharmacy.

Question Answered.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers' and grandmothers' never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. Get Green's Prize Almanac.

"I have always used it in my own family both for ordinary coughs and colds and for the cough following la grippe, and find it very efficacious." For sale at the St. Helens pharmacy.

QUIT THAT BORROWING.

"He Who Goes Borrowing Will Certainly Go Sorrowing."

A man who was too economical to take the local paper, sent his little boy to borrow the copy taken by his neighbor. In his haste the boy ran over a $4 stand of bees and in ten minutes he looked like a watery summer squash. His cries reached his father, who ran to his assistance and failing to notice a barbed wire fence, ran into that, breaking it down, cutting a handful of flesh from his anatomy and ruining a $4 pair of pants. The old cow took advantage of the gap in the fence and got into the cornfield and killed herself eating green corn. Hearing the racket, the wife ran, upsetting a four-gallon churn full of rich cream into a basket of kittens, drowning the litter. In the hurry she dropped a $7 set of false teeth. The baby, left alone, crawled through the spilled cream and into the parlor, ruining a brand new $20 carpet. During the excitement the oldest daughter ran away with the hired man, the dog broke up eleven setting hens, and the calves got out and chewed the tails off four white shirts.

You may as well expect to run a steam engine without water as to find an active, energetic man with a torpid liver, and you may know that his liver is torpid when he does not relish his food or feels dull and languid after eating, often has a headache and sometimes dizziness. Marcel Beaudray, defendant.
To Marcel Beaudray, the defendant above-named.
IN THE NAME OF THE STATE OF OREGON: You are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled action, in the above court on or before the 15th day of July, 1901, and that if you fail to so appear and answer said complaint, for want thereof plaintiff will take judgment against you for the sum of $75.00, with interest thereon at the rate of 6 per cent per annum, from the 1st day of February, 1896, and for the costs and disbursements of this action. You are further notified that the above complaint is filed against you for and on account of work, labor and services performed between the 1st day of February, 1896, and the 1st day of June, 1897, by the plaintiff at the special instance of the defendant in the matter of the suit of Marcel Beaudray vs. Arthur A. Everett, in the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for Columbia County, which said suit was to foreclose a mortgage then held and owned by the said Marcel Beaudray against the said Arthur A. Everett, upon the northwest quarter of section 33, in township 5 north of range 3 west, Willamette meridian, containing 160 acres. That in and by the terms of the agreement between the plaintiff and the defendant, the defendant was to pay plaintiff such attorney's fees as the court might adjudge reasonable in said suit. That by the decree of the court in said suit, $105.00 was allowed as attorney's fees, no part of which has been paid except the sum of $35.00. This summons is published by order of the Honorable Thomas A. McBride, judge of the above-entitled court, made on the 15th day of May, 1901, requiring this summons to be published for six full weeks in THE OREGON MIST, a weekly newspaper published and conducted in Columbia County, Oregon, from the first day of May, 1901, the date of the first publication thereof, to the 12th day of July, 1901, the date of the last publication thereof.

How About Your Title?

ARE YOU SURE it is all right? Remember that it is the RECORD that governs. It is our business to search the records and show what they contain in relation to land titles. If you contemplate buying land or loaning money on real-estate security, take no man's word, but insist upon knowing what the record shows regarding the title. An Abstract is as essential as a deed. Insist on having it. We have the only set of abstract books in the county. All work promptly executed and satisfaction guaranteed. If you have property to insure give us a call. We are agents for the best fire insurance companies in the world. If you have property for sale list it with us and we will find a buyer.
