FROM POORHOUSE TO PALACE BY MARY J. HOLMES

CHAPTER XII.—(Continued.) Here Jenny's remarks were interrupted by the loud rattling of wheels, and the door, she said, many voices. Going to the door, she and Mary saw coming down the road at a furious rate the old hay cart, laden with young people from Chicopee, who had been berrying in Star-bridge and were now returning home in high glee. The horses were fantastically trimmed with ferns and evergreens, while several of the girls were ornamented in the same way. Conspicuous among the noisy group was Ella Campbell, Henry Lincoln's broad-brimmed hat was resting on her long curls, while her white sun-bonnet was tied under Henry's chin.
The moment Jenny appeared the whole party set up a shout so deafening that the Widow Perkins came out in a trice to see "if the Old Harry was to pay, or what."

"No sooner did Henry Lincoln get sight of Mary than springing to his feet, and waving his arm around his head, he screamed out: "Three cheers for the schoolma'am and her handsome lover, Billy! Hurrah!"
"Wasn't that smart?" said Jenny, when at last the hay cart disappeared from view, and the noise and dust had somewhat subsided. Then she saw she was the tears in Mary's eyes she added, "Oh, I wouldn't care if they did tease me about Billy Bender. I'd as lief be teased about him as not."

"I isn't that," said Mary, smiling in spite of herself, at Jenny's frankness. "It isn't that, I didn't like to hear Ella sing with your brother, when she must have known he meant to annoy me."
"That certainly was wrong," returned Jenny, "but Ella isn't so much to blame as Henry, who seems to have acquired a great influence over her during the few weeks he has been at home. You know she is easily flattered, and I dare say Henry has fully gratified her vanity in that respect, for he says she is the only decent looking girl in Chicopee. But see, there comes Mrs. Mason; I guess she wonders what is keeping you so long."

The moment Mrs. Mason entered the school room, Jenny commenced talking about Mount Holyoke, her tongue running so fast that it entirely prevented anyone else from speaking until she stopped for a moment to take breath. Then Mrs.
Mason very quietly remarked that if Mary wished to go to Mount Holyoke she could do so, Mary looked up inquiringly, wondering what mine had opened so suddenly at her feet; but she received no explanation until Jenny had bidden her good-by and gone. Then she learned that Mrs. Mason had just received one hundred dollars from a man in Boston, who had years before owed it to her husband, and was unable to pay it sooner.
"And now," said Mrs. Mason, "there is no reason why you should not go to Mount Holyoke, if you wish to."

"Oh, what a forlorn-looking place!" exclaimed Rose Lincoln, as from the windows of the crowded vehicle in which they had come from the cars she first obtained a view of the not very handsome village of South Hadley.
"Rose was in the wrong of humors, for by some mischance Mary was on the same seat with herself, and consequently she was very much distressed and crowded. She, however, felt a little afraid of Aunt Martha, who she saw was inclined to favor the object of her wrath, so she restrained her fault-finding spirit until she arrived at South Hadley, where everything came in for a share of her displeasure.

"That the seminary!" said she contempuously, as they drew up before the building. "Why, it isn't half as large or handsome as I supposed. Oh, horror! I know I shan't stay here long." The furniture of the parlor was also very offensive to the young lady, and when Miss Lyon came in to meet them she, too, was severely styled. Her grim, fussy, slippery-tongued maid, Jenny, however, who always saw the bright side of everything, was completely charmed with the sweet smile and placid face.
After some conversation between Miss Lyon and Aunt Martha it was decided that Rose and Jenny should room together, as a matter of course, and that Mary should room with Ida. Rose had intended to room with Ida herself, and this decision made her very angry; but there was no help for it, and she was obliged to submit.

And now in a few days life at Mount Holyoke commenced in earnest. Although perfectly healthy, Mary looked rather delicate, and it was for this reason, perhaps, that the sweeping and dusting of several rooms were assigned to her, at several times during the day. Ida and Rose fared much worse, and were greatly shocked when told that they both belonged to the wash circle!
"I declare," said Rose, "it's too bad.
I'll walk home before I'll do it," and she glanced at her white hands, to make sure they were not already discolored by the dreadful suds!
Jenny was delighted with her allotment, while she was assigned to the principal's room. "It's a lesson at the poorhouse years ago," said she one day to Rose, who snappishly replied:
"I'd shut up about the poorhouse, or they'll think you the pauper instead of Madam Howard."
"Pauper! Who's a pauper?" asked Lucy Downs, eager to hear so desirable a piece of news.
Ida Belden's large black eyes redded reprovingly upon Rose, who nodded toward Mary, and forthwith Miss Downs departed with the information, which was not long in reaching Mary's ears.
"Why, Mary, what's the matter?" asked Ida, when, toward the close of the day, she found her companion weeping in her room. "Without lifting her head she replied, "It's foolish in me to cry, I know, but why need I always be reproached with having been a pauper? I couldn't help it. I promised mother I would take care of little Allie as long as she lived, and if she went to the poorhouse I had to go too."
"And who was little Allie?" asked Ida,

COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL HAPPENINGS

A Brief Review of the Growth and Improvements of the Many Industries Throughout Our Thriving Commonwealth.

Two Benton county farmers have purchased a clover huller.
Sherman county will have an extra large wheat yield this year.
A number of mines in the Robinsonville district have been bonded.
Four hundred head of cattle were purchased near Eugene at an average price of $17 per head.
Ore from the Badger mine, Eastern Oregon, is shipped to San Francisco at the rate of two carloads every five days.
Work is well under way on the new road from Whitney to Alamo. When completed this road will decrease the distance very materially and bring more mines into the shipping list.
A new steam laundry will be started at Eugene.
The Southern Pacific has opened a down-town ticket office in Salem.
It is reported that the fruit in Eagle and Pine valleys has been killed by the late frosts. Much grain is also killed, and the clover and alfalfa injured.
Rich quartz claims on Quartz gulch, near Alamo, were sold last week to a mining man from Iowa for $25,000.
It is the intention of the new owner to put a mill on the property.
Taxes collected in Baker county for the year 1900 have been turned over to the treasurer. They amount to nearly $50,000, and the entire amount was collected in about 60 days.

PORTLAND WILL CELEBRATE.
President Did Not Come But "The Fourth" Is Coming and There Will Be a Big Time.

The enthusiasm which Portland expected to expend in the entertainment of the president and party has been bottled up and will be let loose in the celebration of the Fourth of July. While the committee which is engaged in arranging for the celebration is not doing much talking, it is earnestly and energetically at work on its plans, and will have several very large surprises in store for Por-tlanders and visitors on Independence Day. The fact that cheap railroad fares will be provided on all lines into the city will doubtless prove an incentive to many residents of the neighboring cities to come in and help celebrate, and they are promised a reception which they will long remember.
Bands from various outside towns will help to furnish the music, and all societies of whatever character are invited to take part in the parade.
L. D. Cole, chairman of the advertising committee is working hard to let the residents of sister cities know that they will be welcome, and he says that the city will probably entertain more guests during the celebration than at any time in her history.
