JULY 12, 1901.

AN exchange notes that "a wail comes from Jonesboro, Tenn., that the new system of rural free delivery has proven very detrimental to the business of that town. It is claimed that this facilitates mail ordering and the delivery of goods by mail which would otherwise be sold by the local merchants." The rural free delivery of mails is pretty certain to open up a new problem for the merchant in the small town, to face. The extension of the system is thoroughly assured, and any policy of opposition would not only be futile, but against the tradition of a class of men seldom found attempting to stay the tide of progress. On the other hand, there is opened the opportunity to adopt methods which will retain the trade of the community tributary, despite the innovation, and it is in this direction that success can and will be secured by the up-to-date dealer.

"THERE is no new thing under the sun." When the excellent Punita Ramabai reached New York and was told the astonishing progress of a new cult called Christian Science, she said: "The same philosophy has been taught among my people 4000 years. It has wrecked millions of lives and caused immeasurable suffering and sorrow in my land, for it is based on selfishness and knows no sympathy or compassion. It means just this: The philosophy of nothingness. You are to view the whole universe as nothing but falsehood; you are to think it does not exist. When you realize that you have no personality whatever then you have attained the highest perfection of what is called 'Yoga,' and that gives you liberation, and you are liberated from your body, and you become like him without any personality. You draw on the blackboard a zero, you add a zero, multiply by zero, divide by zero, and it equals zero. It is just like that, nothing more."

THE death of former Governor Hazen S. Pingree, of Michigan, at London, was a public calamity in a very great sense. He was a man who did great things—a man who set tasks to accomplish, and who kept his purpose steadily before him and bent his energies to its accomplishment. As a politician he was a power in his party. He was unalterably opposed to the employment of questionable methods in developing his political strength and it was perhaps this fact more than any other that made it possible for him to run 26,000 votes ahead of his ticket in 1896 and to secure re-election two years later by a plurality of 160,000. But Governor Pingree was more than a politician. He was a citizen who at all times represented the people in his official position. As a man he was active and ambitious. He was devoted to his family and to the interests of those with whom he was associated, and he never tired of conceiving and putting into execution new ideas for the public weal. There are comparatively few such men, and the loss of one of his attainments must be regarded as a loss to the nation.

DON'T tell this in a whisper, but shout it out to your neighbor that all may become familiar with the facts and join in the general rejoicing that Columbia county is once more out from under the burden of indebtedness. The simiannual statement of the financial condition of the county issued by ex-County Clerk Weed on the 8th of April, 1898, showed the total liabilities of the county to be $60,463.79. At that time it was claimed by many people that the county was hopelessly involved, but from that time onward the march for freedom from the load has been pursued until at last the goal is reached and the banner of freedom floats from the masthead. It has been a tedious journey, on which many obstacles were encountered, but all difficulties have finally been triumphantly surmounted. Just what the future has in store cannot be foreseen, but there seems no good reason to suppose that we will now progress backwards, in the face of what has been accomplished. Interest paying has ceased, land values have increased, as has also the amount of assessable property, and while there may be a demand for the expenditure of a greater sum for public improvements, there seems no good reason to believe that the county will not keep even, a condition devoutly to be hoped for. At all events the county is now free.

THE new law granting exclusive control of streams to persons improving the same, did not pass the legislature in the form in which it was introduced. On the other hand, it is radically different from the bill that was printed and placed on the desks of the members of the legislature. The bill that was introduced was prepared by Senator Mulkey. The bill that passed was drawn by the senate committeee on roads and highways, composed of Senators Smith, of Yamhill, Porter, Marsters, Dimmick and Clem. Of these men Clem was the only one who voted in favor of the passage of the bill. All the other fathers of the measure were absent. But although this measure, which underwent important changes in the hands of the committee on roads and highways, was not the bill introduced by Senator Mulkey, it received that gentleman's earnest support when it came up for final passage. The measure was intended to correct a single fault of the act of 1889 upon the same subject. By that act county courts were authorized to declare unnavigable streams highways for the floating of logs, and to lease such streams to persons who might charge tolls prescribed by the county courts. The defect in this law was that it did not provide for sufficient notice to persons through whose land the streams ran. The new law, as introduced by Senator Mulkey, remedied this defect, but left the remainder of the law practically unchanged. The bill was referred to the committee on roads and highways, and after twenty days consideration the committee reported an amendment which entirely eliminates the county court and provides that persons or corporations might improve streams, have exclusive control of the same, and charge "reasonable" tolls for the floating of logs and lumber.

IT is generally accepted as a foregone fact that the Northern's purchase of extensive terminal facilities and water frontage in Portland means the advent of an era of great development in Northwestern Oregon, greater in extent, no doubt, than was the case on Puget sound when that company entered that territory. It cannot be denied that the Northern people are developers, choosing, as a matter of fact, a locality abundant in resources, as in the vast scope of territory south and west of the Columbia river. If the Northern does enter this field there will be inaugurated such opportunities for business enterprises and development as have never known an equal on this coast.

Franchise on Lower Nehalem.

The New York and Oregon Coal and Timber Company of Portland, today filed in the county clerk's office a declaration of its intention to improve the Nehalem river from the point of its intersection with the boundary line dividing the counties of Clatsop and Tillamook upstream to the point where the river intersects the line between Clatsop and Columbia counties. Also to improve Humbug creek, the West Fishhawk, Northop and Buster creeks and the fork of Nehalem river. The improvements consist of clearing the streams so they can be used for floating and transporting logs. The New York and Oregon coal company was organized several months before the session of the legislature which enacted the law under which the company claims the exclusive right to fix rates of toll for logging on the Nehalem river. When first organized, the company was going to build a railroad into the Nehalem valley, and sought by various means to control the timber of the valley, even trying to get options to the amount of 50,000 acres, which it promised to buy.—Astoria Budget.

$1,500,000,000 of Exports.

The United States ended on June 30 the greatest fiscal year in its history. Its exports reached, in round numbers, $1,500,000,000—which broke not only all American records, but all corresponding records in the world. In the great year ending with 1899, the United Kingdom exported more than this, including the immense volume of goods it merely transshipped, but its figures of domestic exports have never touched those of the year just closed by the United States. Of course, Great Britain is considerably ahead of us in her volume of foreign trade per head. Forty-one million people ought not to be expected to export as much as 76,000,000, although they import a great deal more, not only per capita, but in the aggregate. But the foreign trade of the United States suffers by reason of the very vastness of the country. The bulk of the commerce that would be foreign in almost any other country, is domestic here.—Telegram.

WILL TRY TO PREVENT SALE.

Columbia County's Sheriff Will Sell Property for Taxes.

The following is taken from Thursday's Oregonian:

"Lawyer John F. Logan leaves today for St. Helens, Columbia county, to try to prevent the authorities from selling property owned by his clients, heretofore bid in by the county for taxes, to which it has acquired title under the provisions of the tax redemption law. Mr. Logan holds that the Columbia county authorities are acting prematurely in trying to dispose of such property at the present time.

"The law reads that on the first Monday after the first of July the sheriffs of counties shall proceed to sell such property," went on Mr. Logan. "Now the Columbia county authorities began in June to advertise the sale of property in their county, so as to be able, as they construe the law to begin to sell early in July. The sheriffs of Multnomah and Clatsop counties have not proceeded in such fashion. In Multnomah county such properties are to be advertised for sale the present month. Sales will take place in August."

"In this connection it is understood that the Clatsop county authorities are not to avail themselves of the provisions of the law, and that if the question is taken into court a defense will be made that the law is unconstitutional."

Mr. Logan arrived according to programme, but when he was notified by Sheriff Hattan that the sale would be proceeded with, the lawyer's combative spirit deserted him, and he proceeded forthwith to negotiate a loan that the taxes might be squared up. This was the proceeding in toto that prevented the sheriff from selling the property.

Heartburn.

When the quantity of food taken is too large or the quality too rich, heartburn is likely to follow, especially so if the digestion has been weakened by constipation. Eat slowly and not too freely of easily digested food. Masticate the food thoroughly. Let six hours elapse between meals and when you feel a fullness and weight in the region of the stomach after eating, indicating that you have eaten too much, take one of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and the heartburn may be avoided. FOURTH AT CLATSKANIE.

Other Matters of Local Interest About that City.

Frank Merrill and wife are at Deer Island this week.

George Badger and wife were over from Oak Point to spend the Fourth in this city.

W. A. Hall came up from Clifton to assist in celebrating and remained the balance of the week.

The Ladies Aid society announce an ice cream social to be held at Graham's hall Saturday evening of this week.

Rev. Culmer, Dr. Hall and wife, and Misses Laura Conyers and Anna English are visitors at Gladstone this week.

Silas Shourds returned last week from his outing farther down the coast, and is spending some days with his parents.

We missed the brass band this year on the Fourth, but the exercises seemed to lose none of their interest in its absence.

The past week has been quite free from accidents which are often an accompaniment or sequel to Fourth of July exercises.

Edgar Colvin proved himself the champion runner this year, as he did a year ago, but Cliff Orwig gave him a pretty close race.

Work is being done on the road between here and Mist, with a view to bringing over sawed lumber and shingles for shipment from here.

It was a matter for favorable comment that there seemed very little drunkenness at Clatskanie during the celebration of the Fourth this year.

The school board at a meeting last week, decided on teachers for the primary and intermediate departments and decided to begin school September 16th.

Ed Hughes, with his tall form and imposing personality, makes an ideal marshal for a public day and succeeds admirably in keeping a crowd well in hand.

The Fox Novelty Company could not attract a very large crowd on the afternoon of the Fourth. The weather being so pleasant, people seemed to prefer out-of-door sports.

Bud Bryant came up from Astoria to spend Sunday with his parents. He is employed on the tug Vosburg, which is at present landed at Astoria, giving him a day off to visit friends.

Norman Merrill has added a span of large grey horses to his mill outfit. They are expected to assist in getting the output of his mill to the railroad or steamer for transportation.

The church was very tastefully and liberally decorated with flowers and ferns for the services last Sabbath, the work of Mrs. W. H. Conyers, Miss English, and one or two others. The flowers were admired very much.

Our neighboring village of Marshland was well represented on the Fourth. It seemed as though about every member, able to walk, of every family there, was in town. They were a welcome addition to the crowd and seemed to enjoy the exercises.

A large scow came in the first of the week and was loaded with telegraph poles. It was towed by the steam tug Oswego. A large number of poles have been hauled to tide water and room will be made for more by the removal of the load this week.

Mr. Carver, sr., with his wife, son and daughter, who have been spending some months here, left on Tuesday for their return to Missouri. He came here to visit his son, Sanford Carver, thinking he might possibly remain permanently. He admits the superiority of the climate and is pleased with many things here, but has not lost his love for old Missouri, to which he returns to end his days, as he now thinks. We will see later.

The Fourth of July was celebrated in a pleasant and generally satisfactory manner this year, though with less demonstration and display than on other occasions. More decorating would have been done had not the showers of the day before discouraged those who had the work in charge. As it was, however, evergreens were in evidence and there was a considerable display of bunting in addition. It was Modern Woodman day and the neighbors wore their badges as the hosts of the occasion, contributing to the pleasure and comfort of the crowd. A procession formed near the postoffice and marched to the picnic grounds, where, after some music, J. W. Simmons, of Portland, prominent in the order of Woodmen, delivered a patriotic address, appropriate to the occasion. Following these exercises, there was a general scattering for dinner, largely a basket affair. A ball game and races during the afternoon added to the interest in some quarters, while a shaded dancing platform afforded opportunity for exercise on that line to those so inclined. A grand dance at Graham's hall later in the evening completed the programme and furnished entertainment all night for many who were saved the expense of a night's lodging. An unusual number of firecrackers and other noisy designs during the day and some fireworks in the evening contributed to emphasize the patriotic ardor of Young America, while the weather, day and night, could not be improved upon.

The Best Remedy for Stomach and Bowel Troubles.

"I have been in the drug business twenty years and have sold all the proprietary medicines of any note. Among the entire list I have never found anything to equal Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for all stomach, and bowel troubles," says O. W. Wakefield, of Columbus, Ga. "This remedy cured two severe cases of cholera morbus in my family and I have recommended and sold hundreds of bottles of it to my customers to their entire satisfaction. It affords a quick and sure cure in a pleasant form." For sale at the St. Helens pharmacy.

During last May an infant child of our neighbor was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctors had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the house, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days time the child had fully recovered. The child is now vigorous and healthy. I have recommended this remedy frequently and have never known it to fail. —MRS. CURTIS BAKER, Bookwalter, O. Mr. Ervin Seffert, Mr. and Mrs. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Shearer went to Clatskanie on the Fourth of July. The attraction that called our friends there was the dance, which they all enjoyed very much.

Mrs. W. H. Bumgardner, of Kalama, is visiting her relatives here. We are glad to see her in such good health, yet a felon on her finger gives her a good deal of trouble most of the time.

How About Your Title?

ARE YOU SURE it is all right? Remember that it is the RECORD that governs. It is our business to search the records and show what they contain in relation to land titles. If you contemplate buying land or loaning money on real-estate security, take no man's word, but insist upon knowing what the record shows regarding the title. An Abstract is as essential as a deed. Insist on having it. We have the only set of abstract books in the county. All work promptly executed and satisfaction guaranteed. If you have property to insure give us a call. We are agents for the best fire insurance companies in the world. If you have property for sale list it with us and we will find a buyer.
