without the music of the little voices. And now, Mr. Editor, I do not under-stand why you should have arrayed all the gossips in petticoats. Ware you an old bachelor or a pronouced woman hater, it would not have so surprised us. You cannot be a frequenter of the coun-try or corner grocery, or the village bar-room. As for ourselves, we could not testify in court, for only from hearsay do we know that the tongue of the scan-dal-monger slays more victums in the above-named places than all the ald so-cieties or the old ladies' tes parties put together. I think Old Mother Grundy reared quite a family of sons and that they inherited quite a large proportion of her so-called gossipy nature. Per-haps by reference to the Encyclopedia Britanics some secount of the pedigree of Mrs. Grundy and husband might be found for those who take pride in a "family tree." We think it would be hard to find the man who would ac-knowledge that he ever gossiped, but if there is any one thing more vie than another it is the practice among men of commenting upon someone else's mother or sister.
