FEBRUARY 14, 1902.

Easter Sunday will occur this year on the 30th of March, an exceptionally early date, and if an early Easter means an early spring we shall have two occasions for rejoicing.

Chicago has cut down the salaries of school teachers without touching municipal salaries in general. To an outsider this treatment looks like trying to cure a malady by its aggravation.

In 1860 the per capita of wealth in the United States was $307.69. In 1900 the per capita was $1355.30, with a population increased threefold. The increase in the number of inhabitants in this country is rapid, but the ratio of wealth grows still faster.

FIGURES published by the treasury department place the aggregate of wealth in the United States in 1900 at $94,300,000,000, against a total of only $7,137,780,000 in 1850. By an enormous margin this is the most wonderful development of a nation in all history.

KANSAS has just completed its forty-first year as a state, and the anniversary was observed in several places. This is right. Kansas was a pioneer state, and its people have ever since shown a proper appreciation of the fact that they did get in.

The gold fields of Eastern Oregon last year produced $16,000,000. Having successfully passed the boom period that region is now getting down to a producing basis that makes it the pride of the Pacific coast and a substantial contributor to the great wealth of the nation.

NEW states and five territories, including Porto Rico, have made appropriations amounting to $1,905,000 for special buildings and exhibits at the St. Louis World's Fair. Thirty-four states and territories are still to act and many have the matter under consideration. The state exhibits at the fair will represent at least $5,000,000 in appropriations.

BENTON and other counties in the state are discussing the new road law, some predicting that it will be an entire failure. Most of the counties in the state have made a very small levy, one and two mills. Clatskanie county has worked under this system for eight or ten years, and last year spent on new roads and bridges nearly $80,000. The people of the county are beginning to see the result and approve the system, and this year the board has made a levy of eight mills, the highest ever made.—Oregon City Enterprise.

KWANG SU reigns in Peking, but the empress governs. This means that the old situation has been restored. The United States, England, France, Germany and the rest of the countries accredited their representatives to the emperor, but the diplomat, when they get on the ground, make their obeisance to the empress. This is a peculiar state of affairs, but the gentlemen who are compelled to meet it, quickly adjust themselves to the situation. It is a condition and not a theory which confronts them. The place at China's council board where An sits is the head of the table.

Writing your name and address on the upper left hand corner of the envelope containing your letter, or of the wrapper containing other mail matter, is a simple matter, and may often save delay in the sending of your mail, and may often prevent it going to the dead letter office. For instance, if you have written an insufficient or incorrect address, for which reason the postmaster is unable to tell where to send it; or, if the postage is insufficient, the postmaster may call your attention to the error that you may correct it, without much delay.

The English railway managers, who came to this country a few weeks ago to investigate our systems in their specialties, were treated to a run on a fast train, which must have enlightened them somewhat as to the speed possibilities of American locomotives. The weight of the train was 210 tons, behind the tender (without engine and tender) and consisted of five cars. A run of 56 1/2 miles was at the rate of 78 1/2 miles per hour, including three checks. On this run 35 miles were covered at 81 1/2 miles per hour, and one mile at 85 1/2 miles per hour. The last two miles were run to a dead standstill in 120 1/2 seconds.

The division of public roads department of agriculture gives assurance that the request for co-operation on the part of government officials in practical road building in the state of Oregon will be complied with during the coming summer. It has been urged that a number of sample object lesson roads be built in different parts of the state, and the director of public roads has said that three or four practical road building demonstrations will be made in the state provided an additional appropriation can be had. In addition to the object lesson road department has agreed to aid the people in building experimental roads wherever they are willing to do their part. Columbia county should not be backward in letting the department know that we are willing to assist whenever the time is ripe and the department ready to demonstrate practical road building in our country.

TUESDAY of this week was the centennial anniversary of the discovery of the "black rocks" of the Alleghenies would burn." The rock was considered a nuisance. It was too breakable to be used for building purposes, and it made its appearance in places which otherwise might have been cultivated to advantage. A century ago a man took word to Wilkesbarre from Masah, Chumk that the rock would burn if persistently coaxed. The people of Wilkesbarre thought it to be a practical joke, but Jesse Fell determined to try it. He told nobody, but late one night he gathered a bushful of the article, stole his way cautiously to the house and attached upon a great deal of kindling wood, got up a fire in the grate which nearly roasted him. On February 11th, 1803, he invited everybody in town to the Fell house to see the rock burn. Everybody went, skeptical and ready to laugh. This was the beginning of the use of a coal which has changed the business history of Pennsylvania, and which has carried tropical weather to the coldest settlements of the United States and Canada. While the industrial stimulus imparted by the discovery of the anthracite coal beds in Pennsylvania has been one of the chief factors in the upbuilding of the West, it has also been a potent factor in the development of the industrial resources of the country at large, for whatever prestige we may have achieved over our foreign competitors in recent years rests mainly upon two products of our soil—coal and iron. Considering our indebtedness to coal for much of the prosperity which exists today throughout our borders, it is well that in celebrating the anniversaries of less important events, we should not overlook the discovery of the anthracite coal beds of Pennsylvania 100 years ago.

The lenten season is at hand, Wednesday of this week being Ash Wednesday, the beginning of lent. The season of social gaiety is interrupted for forty days, and in its place has come a season consecrated to quiet and religious observance. Lent is observed to commemorate the forty days fast of the Lord in the wilderness. The season ends with Easter Sunday, the day of spring comes. The period of fasting is forty days, with all churches which observe it, except the Greek churches, which have lengthened it to forty-eight days. Sundays are not counted in fast. Pope Gregory, the Great, directed that the season should begin on the sixth Sunday before Easter, and that on the intervening week days fasting should be practiced. The six Sundays included in the lenten period are observed as festivals, never as fasts. The last, or "passion week," is considered the most solemn portion of the season, and is known also as "holy week." The ancient observance of lent was of a most vigorous character. All flesh and even the so-called "white meats" were excluded. The celebration of marriages and participation in common amusements of the social world are looked upon with disfavor during the lenten season.

It is already plain that a great many Eastern people will come to the Northwest this year with a view of locating, it having just been learned that there is no more danger from Indians and wild animals in Oregon than in the heart of New York. In fact the people of the East are learning that a glorious Japan current sweeps along the Pacific coast, giving the country a special benefit in the matter of climate, which, backed by a splendid soil, makes this a country to be desired as a home. The fact that we have no blizzards or cyclones, and that the weather is civilized and up-to-date in everything, is now being gotten into the heads of Eastern people, and the result is becoming apparent. When the tide once sets toward this garden spot of the world, it will flow heavily, and we will have the increase in population needed. We have everything else under the sun. What we want now is people.

It has not been many years since a noted scientist, in an exhaustive article, satisfied himself and thousands of others that the telephone could never be brought into practical use. Today it is estimated that there are 2,278,000 telephones in the United States alone. No man attempts to do business now without the aid of the "phone. Business is transacted over the telephone, although the parties are separated by thousands of miles. The home and the office are connected by means of the telephone. These instruments have now invaded the country districts, and the telephone and the free delivery of mail are going hand in hand. In many states thousands of farmers have telephones in their homes, and they find it of immense advantage in a business and social way, and yet the telephone is not very old.

C. W. FULTON, of Clatsop county, for United States senator, and T. T. Geer, the present incumbent, for governor, would prove a strong team with the people of this county. There is little doubt about this county sending delegates to the state convention whose sympathies and good judgment would prompt them to support both these gentlemen. Mr. Geer's popularity throughout the state insures his renomination, and he would not be thus popular unless his administration had been successful and was endorsed by the people. Mr. Fulton is a Columbia river man and an able statesman, besides being immensely popular throughout the state, and this county will do nothing else but support him.

The law governing the payment of taxes has been changed. If you wish to get advantage of the rebate you must pay before March 15th. You must pay at least half of your taxes by April 15th, or you will have a penalty to pay. The law provides that half of the taxes can be paid in the fall if half is paid before April 15th. On that date, April 15th, all taxes become delinquent and a penalty of 10 per cent is added unless half of your tax is paid before that time. This time cannot, by law, be extended. Do not put off the paying of part of your taxes beyond that date, unless you want to pay costs. In the past the time has been extended; it cannot be done this year.

Medical Attention, Not Grand Jury.

To THE EDITOR.—Apropos of the continued iteration of the Gazette calling for a grand jury to examine the books of certain of the county officers, it is perhaps pertinent to suggest that the county court call to its aid two medical experts and make an official inquiry into the mental chaos of the Gazette editor, inasmuch as such an investigation is necessary, under the law, regardless of the plainness of the case. When a man reaches that point in his intellectual hierarchy where nothing but uncanny apprehensions are the burden of his thoughts, where he mounts a hobby and rides, John Gilpin like, over the sensitive nerves of decency and lofty integrity, his case is surely one calling for the kindling of "holy days," and for the proper authorities to sit thereon "in meditations lawful." Clatskanie Briefs.

U. D. Kelley has moved his family to Ferd Prah's camp, where Mrs. Kelley will look after the cooking interests.

George Miller and family have gone to Stella, where Mrs. Miller will do the cooking, while George will wield the axe and saw outside.

Prof. Eason has gone to Multnomah county to complete his examination for a state certificate. He has a brother living there, where he will stop for the time.

Miss Mabel Blackford is serving as a substitute teacher in Miss Tracy's room, while the latter has charge of the principal's room during his temporary absence.

As a result of the melting snow and recent rains, the Clatskanie river is now filled with logs from the bridge nearly all the way to Adam Barr's place, there having been a splendid run of logs during Saturday and two or three days after.

Changes have been taking place in some of our suburban real estate. In Hazel Grove, Grant Jones has bought the Charles Rice property, while Rice has bought the E. Hanks place, and the late owner of the latter place thinks of making another venture in that county, his second venture in that direction. James Van is reported to have sold his house and part of his ground just outside the city limits, occupied at present by James McDonald and family. Mr. Miller, jr., of Nehalem, is the purchaser.

Several of our business men and shippers came together Friday of last week to meet Superintendent McGuire and Engineer Curtis, of the A. & C. R. R., to induce them to take an interest in having a track laid from the main line to a point opposite the town. Mr. Kingsley, of the West Oregon Lumber Company, was present and represented the necessity for railroad facilities to induce the location of their proposed planing mill and dryer at this place. Other interests were represented and made a strong presentation to the officials present in favor of the spur asked for. Later in the day a paper was drawn up asking for the track, promising right-of-way and terminal facilities, and expressing the belief that other shipping interests would be attracted by the action asked for on the part of the railroad company. This document was numerously signed and presented to Superintendent McGuire, who promised to present the matter at once to the president of the road for action. The planing mill company want both water and water privileges and can secure both if the proposed extension is made, which there is good reason to believe will be done. In the meantime the right-of-way for a flume is being secured and work on its construction will probably begin in a very few days.

"I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a number of years and have no hesitancy in saying that it is the best remedy for coughs, colds and croup I have ever used in my family. I have not words to express my confidence in this Remedy.—Mrs. J. A. Mook, North Star, Mich. For sale at the St. Helens pharmacy.

Good Advice.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from dyspepsia and liver complaint. More and more people are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects; such as sour stomach, sick headache, habitual constiveness, palpitation of the heart, heartburn, water-brash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, yellow skin, coated tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, etc. Go to your druggist and get a bottle of August Flower for 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you. Try it. Get Green's Prize Almanac.

How to Measure Timber and Lumber.

To ascertain the number of cubic feet in round timber, find the average circumference by adding the circumference of the larger and smaller ends and dividing by two; multiply the square of one-fourth of this average circumference by the length in feet; the result gives four-fifths of the real contents in cubic feet, one-fifth being customarily allowed to the purchaser for waste in sawing.

To measure contents of square timber, multiply the width by the thickness in inches; this product by the length in feet, and divide by twelve; the result gives feet.

To measure boards, multiply length in feet by breadth in inches, and divide by twelve for inch boards; the quotient gives the contents in feet. For boards 1 1/2 inches thick, add one-quarter to quotient; if 1 3/4 inch thick, add one-half; if 2 inches, divide by six; instead of twelve; if 3 inches, divide by four; if 4 inches, divide by 2; if 6 inches, divide by two.

Something That Will Do You Good.

We know of no way in which we can be of more service to our readers than to tell them of something that will be of real good to them. For this reason we want to acquaint them with what we consider one of the very best remedies on the market for coughs, colds, and that alarming complaint, croup. We have used it with such good results in our family so long that it has become a household necessity. By its prompt use we haven't any doubt but that it has time and again prevented croup. The testimony is given upon our own experience, and we suggest that our readers, especially those who have small children, always keep it in their homes as a safeguard against croup.—Camden (S. C.)
