THE TICKET.

The county republican convention has met, finished its duties and adjourned. This body was composed of the most representative class of men ever assembled on a similar occasion in this county, and the result of its labors is satisfactory to a large majority of the people of the county. In every instance the men selected are well fitted for their respective places by the different qualities and qualifications necessary to success at the polls in June, and later for performing their official duties in such positions. There is not a man in the ticket who is not well known to the voters of the county, and it is on account of the selfish and scattered efforts of the candidates and their lack of interest in each other. Invariably there are men who make a personal canvass for themselves alone, never speaking in behalf of other candidates through lack of feeling too much to do for the ticket of last Saturday's work that cannot be matched in individual strength and qualifications for the office he seeks by the democrats. A man is a man, he is republican or democrat. He has good principles, strong personal qualities, vote-getting ability, political sagacity, and is schooled in practical politics, even though he is a prohibitionist or a populist. In all these qualifications, as a candidate, he must expect to be evenly classed by his adversary. A team of candidates too often does not attempt to strengthen itself by advocating the best interests of the party it represents. Such a coterie is sometimes like a football team. Every player is anxious to make runs, touch-downs and grandstand plays without the assistance of the other members of the team. The consequence is he is invariably tackled before the ball goes to the other side, which backs the line systematically and often kicks a safe goal. When a coach is employed and team work is commended the results are different. But few men on the republican ticket can make the fight safely without the assistance of the other candidates and party principles to support him. The practical politician does not underestimate the strength of his opponent, nor does he overlook any possible maneuvers. He does not take victory for granted until it is certain. None of the candidates should quit working for the entire team during the campaign and on election day as long as the polls are open and a vote has not been cast. With a warm interest in party measures every republican nominee should be given an easy victory at the polls. However, if for personal or other reasons there are voters who cannot support the portion of the ticket represented by the nominee for the second place on it, we appeal to them to carefully consider the qualifications of the candidates for the other parts of the ticket and give them their hearty support.

COAL COMING.

In an editorial under the heading "Coal Coming," Tuesday Evening's Telegram proceeds to discuss the matter in the following language: "In one way or another, through one company or another, the Nehalem coal fields will be opened up and their product brought to Portland before long. Representatives of one company claiming to own a large tract of coal-bearing land assert with some definiteness and positiveness that they will have Nehalem coal coming into Portland by sea, by means of boats on the Nehalem river and the Astoria & Columbia River Railroad extended from Seaside. A shorter route is expected to be opened up in the near future by the building of the Portland, Nehalem & Tillamook Railroad. If the coal comes in as large quantities and of as good quality as has been reported, it is generally expected, and can be anticipated at Portland at a moderate price, to get it here will be one of the greatest steps in Portland's favor ever taken. It will at once raise this city's commercial prestige by a considerable percentage. And it is coming. It's got to come, and that soon. That part of Oregon coal is a very easy matter to supply. Nor will Portland fall much longer to supply herself with that region's coal and lumber."

CUPPER NEHALAN NOTES.

Ashburn Protest Non-Consent-Deeds of E. M. Dow. John Roberts and wife, of Houston, spent last night last week with friends and relatives here, returning Tuesday.

The Misses Marie Shannahan and Alice Wood arrived at Portland Tuesday, where they will spend the week and a half of a week. Mrs. S. A. Hodson, who has been with friends and relatives at Seaside and Portland during the winter, is now home again, to the great satisfaction of the town folks.

Peter Jensen, of Portland, who has a claim about eight miles south, on Upper Pebble creek, and who has been holding the curve down the past two or three weeks, returned Tuesday. J. E. Dow took a load of dairy products on Tuesday, to Houston. He had intended going out more than a week ago, but was detained by reason of the sickness and death of his father.

Albert Wood made a trip out to Houston last week with the mail, and one again this week, while Mr. Benck was out looking up a new horse. The going has been pretty bad and very hard on horses. Mrs. A. Shannahan, who was at the home of Mr. Dow, in the evening of Tuesday last week, and returned here quite severely. At this writing she is improving, and will be able to be taken home the latter part of this week.

Miss Linda Early went over the mountains Tuesday to Houston, and from there down to Clatskanie, to visit her brother, Van Everett, and family. We understand one of Mr. Early's children is dangerously ill with pneumonia fever. C. A. Roberts, who has been at work out near Houston the past month or two, came over on Saturday last and on Tuesday of this week took his family back to work. They expect to reside near Houston for the present, but if things should ever open up hereabouts, will return.

J. W. Cere made another trip with his team and wagon out to St. Helens last week, bringing a load of merchandise for various persons. Mr. Cere is intending to move out to Houston in about two weeks, where he will remain until the going is good, when he expects to go, perhaps, to California. John Fringe, who went out last week to attend the democratic convention, has been visiting since in Portland and other places. Mr. Fringe, with his brother, Mr. Campbell, formerly of this vicinity, but now of Portland, are into the real estate business again, and think they will soon land some good-sized timber deals.

These will be a caucus of the citizens of Vernonia at Zillig's hall, Monday evening, March 27, at 7 o'clock, for the purpose of nominating a city ticket. We understand that few of the old board, if any, desire a re-election, so there will be a good chance for the new men to have a deal. Let all voters who are interested in city affairs attend. Louis Hight, who bought the Young place, five miles south of Lewis last week, has, with his family, been living there since, moved out near Houston this week, where he has work. Mr. Hight says if he has to be out of the valley the most of the time, as he has since he has been a resident here, to earn a living, he wants the family with him. We are sorry to lose them, but hope they will return when we get our railroad, as no doubt they, with many others, will.

At the Ashburn precinct republican primary election held at Vernonia on Thursday last week, U. M. Beeghly, I. P. Spencer and J. S. Mow were sent as delegates to the county convention at St. Helens, on Saturday last. C. W. Mellinger was nominated for precinct committee man; I. P. Spencer for precinct chairman for district No. 14; E. G. Shannahan for supervisor of road district No. 15; S. P. Eland for justice of the peace; and S. L. Parker for constable. U. M. Beeghly was recommended for precinct committee man. There was a good attendance and a lively interest in the work of the convention. We noticed several of our former populist brethren taking active part in the work of the convention. We welcome them all back into the g. o. p.

C. A. Malmsten went to Forest Grove the latter part of last week to meet his brother, Franklin, and sister, Mrs. Lindstrom, from Red Wing, Minn. They all spent Sabbath with their sister, Mrs. West, who lives between Greenville and Buxton, the boys coming over the mountains Monday. Mrs. Lindstrom will visit awhile with Mrs. West, then come on into Nehalem, where she expects to make her future home. Her husband will come west again some time during the summer or fall. They were here two years ago and bought them a little home, the Lewis place, north of town, Franklin Malmsten expects to visit with the folks a few weeks and then return to Minnesota. He was formerly a Nebelamite, and may be one again, we understand. Elisha M. Dow, who had been in declining health for the past two years, and confined to his bed for the past month, died at his home, two miles north of town, last Friday night, March 21. Another good citizen, Mrs. E. M. Dow, lived until May 6th, next, he should have reached his three score years and ten. He was born near Burlington, Vt., May 6th, 1822. At the age of ten he went with his parents to Wisconsin, and in 1844 to Iowa, coming to Oregon in 1867, and settled in Salem. In 1868 he came to Nehalem valley. His trade was that of a wagon maker, but most of his life was spent in agricultural pursuits. His education was obtained in the common schools, but he had read largely and was a man well informed on many subjects. He was a second cousin of Neal Dow, the great temperance and prohibition worker of Maine, and being of Puritan stock, his habits of life were strictly correct. At the age of 33 years he was married to Miss Juliet Short, of Lake county, Ill., who survives him. Four children were born to this union: Julius E., with whom he has lived since coming to the Nehalem; Lucius, who died at five years of age; Mrs. Ethel B. Fringe, formerly of Nehalem, but now living at Westport, Or. The funeral services were held at the home on Sunday at 11 a. m., being conducted by Rev. Theo. L. Harder, and the remains were buried in the new cemetery just north of town. Rest in peace.
