VOLUME ONE, NUMBER ONE, of the Columbia River Sun, published at Cathlamet, Wash., reached our table last Saturday. Haynes & Hanigan are the editors and proprietors. The paper is an eight-column, patent outside, but its inside pages are filled with crisp editorial remarks and live local notes. May the Sun forever shed its brilliant light upon the Columbia, and especially Cathlamet, is the worst we can wish it.

The postal authorities at Washington, recognizing the liability of postmasters to make mistakes in getting letters in wrong boxes, have fixed a penalty of $200 on persons taking mail out of the office other than their own and not returning it. The law is to have people look at their mail before taking it out of the office, and should they have mail matter other than their own they must return it at once. It also includes newspapers. The excuse that it is the postmaster's fault "cuts no ice." If you have been getting other people's mail you had better take warning or you may get yourself into trouble.

SENATOR MITCHELL has been designated by the committee on inter-oceanic canals to confer with the republican members of the senate steering committee for the purpose of having time allotted for the consideration of the Nicaragua canal bill. Senator Morgan has been found rather haughty in his dealings with the steering committee, and those who want to get the canal through say it will be better in the hands of some republican who can consult the interests of the public as well as the desires of the committee. There seems to be a determination to consider the bill, notwithstanding a well understood movement on the part of those who oppose a canal to prevent the passage of the bill at this session.

OREGON has only made a good start in the development of the dairy industry, but the possibilities of the industry within a few years are very great. According to a bulletin which the census office made public recently, there are sixty-eight butter and cheese factories in Oregon, with a capital of $223,400. The product for the last census year included 1,976,387 pounds of butter, valued at $440,569; 1,195,564 pounds of cheese, valued at $135,881, and other products valued at $62,742. The industry will grow with great rapidity from now on and will bring to Oregon an immense amount of wealth every year. The dairy business cannot be developed to a day. It requires time. Farmers must learn by experience how to handle their stock, and how to get profits from the industry.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT

The first paragraph of the law enacted by the legislature two years ago, in regard to the "initiative and referendum" amendment reads as follows: SECTION 1. That the governor of the state of Oregon be and he is hereby authorized and directed to cause to be submitted to the legal voters of the state of Oregon, at the general election to be held on the first Monday of June, 1902, the following proposed amendment to the constitution of the state of Oregon: House joint resolution No. 1 of the legislative assembly of 1899, the same having been agreed to by a majority of all the members elected to each house of the legislative assembly of 1898, the same being an amendment to section 1 of article IV of the constitution of the state of Oregon, and it shall be designated as "Initiative and Referendum Amendment" and the words "yes" and "no."

The purpose of this amendment is that the legislative authority of the state shall be vested in a legislative assembly, consisting of a senate and house of representatives, but the people reserve to themselves the power to propose laws and amendments to the constitution, and to enact or reject the same at the polls, independent of the legislative assembly, and also reserve power at their own option to approve or reject at the polls any act of the legislative assembly. The first power reserved by the people is the initiative and not more than eight per cent of the legal voters shall be required to propose any measure by such petition, and every such petition shall include the full text of the measure so proposed. Initiative petitions shall be filed with the secretary of state not less than four months before the election at which they are to be voted upon. The second power is the referendum and may be ordered (except as to laws necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health or safety), either by petition, signed by five per cent of the legal voters, or by the legislative assembly, as other bills are enacted. Referendum petitions shall be filed with the secretary of state not more than ninety days after the final adjournment of the session of the legislative assembly which passed the bill on which the referendum is demanded. The veto power of the governor shall not extend to measures referred to the people. All elections on measures referred to the people of the state shall be had at the biennial regular general elections, except when the legislative assembly shall order a special election. Any measure referred to the people shall take effect, and become a law when it is approved by a majority of the votes cast thereon, and not otherwise. The style of all votes shall be: "Be it enacted by the people in the state of Oregon." This section shall not be construed to deprive any member of the legislative assembly of the right to introduce any measure.

A CIVIL has been going up all over the state the last few weeks over the bad roads. They seem to be worse than usual this spring and people are wondering how they can be improved. In some counties they have been having conferences over the matter. Not enough money can be raised by taxation under the present law to be of much benefit and in some communities the farmers have volunteered to give one or more days each extra to improve certain important strips of road. How to expend the money they have to best advantage is also one of the questions anxiously considered, and the general opinion seems to be that the first essential of all in road making is to get the water off. Ditches along the side, and a nicely rounded grade with the chuck holes or hollow places that hold water all filled before wet weather sets in, seems to be the best that can be done for most of the roads. Gravel and planks may be used in the worst places to help out, but they are so expensive as not to be available generally. Some farmers agree to look after the roads along their farms and to keep water drained off and chuck holes filled. This takes little time but helps a great deal in keeping the roads of the community in a passable condition and makes their land more valuable. The sentiment in favor of better roads has reached such a point that the majority of people seem willing to go to almost any extreme to better the general condition of the public thoroughfares. As we have always contended, good roads, like any other good article, are expensive, and their existence cannot be hoped for unless there is a willingness to make them and pay the expense incurred. Good roads are one of the burning needs of our country today, and the sooner we can acquire them the more rapid and permanent will our development be.

The following is an editorial clipping from the last issue of the Oregon City Courier-Herald: "Columbia county has numerous bridges, some of them quite expensive, and notwithstanding the fact that its population in proportion to area is small, the county debt is low. The reason for this favorable condition is probably that Columbia's county officials are too bucolic to understand the art of office-holding for what there is in it." Yes, we plead guilty to the charge of being bucolic down here, in some respects. We're pastoral, we're rustic, and we may be deficient in culture, but we're not when it comes to "paralyzing" a public debt we have a corps of public officials who bear no resemblance to sheepherders, in the sense that the term is usually applied. The board of commissioners is composed of men interested in the county's welfare, not hoping for personal gain to the detriment of the public weal.

On Monday of this week the supreme court of this state handed down a decision in regard to a law which many attorneys, litigants and county clerks have been patiently waiting for. The decision is that on the law which has required the litigants in divorce actions to deposit a fee of $10, known as the district attorney's fee. The fee has been required by circuit court clerks throughout the state, pending a decision by the supreme court, and in many counties a great deal of money accruing from this source is in the hands of the clerk, but the recent decision requires that it be paid back to the litigants. County Clerk Watts has exactly $400 on hand, which will be returned to the proper persons upon the order of the circuit court.

The state and district conventions of the republican party of this state have met, transacted their business, and the result is satisfactory to a great majority of the party. There were some disappointments, as there always is, but the ticket is a strong one, and will be largely supported throughout the state. Many of the nominees are those who are already serving the people of the state in a most acceptable manner. Eastern Oregon went to the convention as a unit, demanding certain recognition, and received the honors they so richly deserve, geographically, the nominees are very well distributed throughout the state. That the entire ticket will be elected by an overwhelming majority there is no question, and the wisdom of such action will be proven by the efficient manner in which state affairs will be administered.

LOGGED-OFF LAND WANTED.

Every now and then the question of what states have at any time passed a prohibitory liquor law, and at what dates. The following table will be of interest to some: Maine, 1851; Illinois, 1851; Minnesota, 1852; Vermont, 1852; Michigan, 1853; Ohio, 1854; Connecticut, 1854; Iowa, 1856; Nebraska, 1856; Mississippi, 1855; Texas, 1855; New York, 1855; Michigan, 1855; New Hampshire, 1855; Delaware, 1855; Maine, 1858; Massachusetts, 1867; Rhode Island, 1875; South Carolina, 1881; Kansas, 1881; Iowa, 1884; Rhode Island, 1886; Alaska, 1887; South Dakota, 1889; North Dakota, 1889.

It is no use to try to please everybody in editing a paper. You may say all the good things that can be thought of about some persons and things and nothing is said in condemnation. But let an item appear that some individual construes as a criticism and all at once the editor is cursed and maligned outwardly and mentally by the people who should not see it. And too, the editor would be grinning sometimes at the weakness of human nature and poor frail mortals and worms of the dust like you or myself.

Chicago is today a city of nearly 2,000,000 inhabitants. Do you know what these figures mean? They mean that within the borders of the municipality are more people than live in either the states of Georgia, Minnesota, New Jersey, Virginia or Wisconsin. They mean that there are gathered together more people than occupy Alaska, Arizona, Colorado, Delaware, Idaho, Maine and Oregon combined. Greater New York is about twice the size of Chicago.

A WELL-to-do farmer in Russell county, Kansas, has traded his 20-year-old son and a wagon load of corn for a 13-year-old daughter of a neighboring farmer, equally well-to-do, and the transaction was made a matter of record in the county clerk's office. The reason for the trade was that in the family of which the boy was a member there were no girls, while the father of the transferred girl had no boys.

"Bad roads" are agitating people all over the state. The Corvallis Gazette devotes some space to the muddy roads of Benton county. The Gazette doesn't get "stuck up." We've got some lovely spots in this part of the world.—Lincoln County Leader. From the above it will appear that Columbia county is not alone in their struggle with the "bad road" problem.

The proposed initiative and referendum amendment discloses several commendable features. It will have the effect of increasing the power of the voter and proportionately decreasing the power of the legislature. The legislature no longer will be "It." The result will be seen in the enactment of better laws and less disregard for the people's wishes.

A Kansas editor, who had nothing to do, has figured out that it cost the United States twenty-five million dollars a year to be born, three hundred million a year to be married, seventy-five million to be buried, and nine hundred million to get drunk. It will be noticed that the largest amounts are paid for the fun and frolic of life—getting married and getting drunk.

It is estimated that over twenty thousand people have come into Oregon and Washington since the new homeseekers excursion rates have been in force. Washington claims to have received three-fourths of them but that is doubtful. That proportion may have come in through that state, but they have scattered all along up and down the west coast.

Mr. Williamson, of Crook county, the nominee of the republican party for congressman from the second district, is a man of wide experience in state affairs and thoroughly familiar with the needs of the state, and especially his district. The nomination is equivalent, of course, to election.

DOZENS of towns throughout the state are in the throes of smallpox scares, and with vaccination and quarantine have become three principal topics for newspaper agitation. St. Helens and Houlton have their "whiz" at this difficulty a year ago, but there might again come a year.

APRIL weather, so far, has been no improvement over that of March, and March weather was so little better than that of February that no congratulations are in order.

"A neighbor ran in with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy when my son was suffering with severe cramps and was given up as beyond hope by my regular physician, who stands high in his profession. After administering three doses of it, my son regained consciousness and recovered entirely within twenty-four hours," says Mrs. Mary Haller, of Mt. Crawford, Va. This Remedy is for sale at the St. Helens pharmacy.

A Valuable Medicine for Coughs and Colds in Children.

"I have not the slightest hesitancy in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to all who are suffering from coughs and colds," says Chas. M. Cramer, a well-known watch maker, of Columbus, Ceylon. "It has been some two years since the city dispensary first called my attention to this valuable medicine and I have repeatedly used it. It has cured me quickly of all chest colds. It is especially effective for children and seldom takes more than one bottle to cure them of hoarseness. I have prescribed many to try this valuable medicine, and they are all as well pleased as myself over the results." For sale at the St. Helens pharmacy.
