Work on the Columbia City ratiroad is being pushed as fast as possible, in order to have the first four miles of it completed within sixty days. The work is progressing very satisfactorily, and there is no doubt that the road will be there is no doubt that the road will be ready on time.

One-half mile is now graded, and workmen are on the rest of the line. Ten carloads of steel are on the ground ready for use, and the work of laying the rails will be begun at once. An engine and ten logging cars have been purchased for use on the road as soon as it is completed.

chased for use on the road as soon as it is completed.

The road is designed, so it is said, to be ten or twelve miles long, and will run from Columbia City westward to the head waters of Oak Ranch creek. This takes the road through a rich lumbering section, and the president says that as soon as the land is cleared of timber it will make most desirable agricultural and farming lands. At first four miles will be completed to gain an entrance into the company's timber belt, and then the road will be pushed at an early date directly through for the rest of the way planned. Although at present it will be used chiefly as a lumber road to get the logs to the river, the ultimate object is to make it a freight and passenger road, to accommodate whatever traffic may be in the section.

to accommodate whatever traffic may be in the section.

A contract has been made for six logging engines to use in moving the timber to the road, to be taken to Columbia City, where the company will build a shingle mill. It is also considered desirable to build a lumber mill at that place, although nothing definite has been decided in this regard.

"We expect," mays Mr. Goodsell, to be hauling logs and pilling to the river in sixty days over the first four miles of the road." The Columbia City advantages are great. There is a good site and deep water for heavy river steamers so enter. There are now sixty men at work grading, and the crew is sufficient to complete the work within the desired time.

There is also a fine deposit of coal on the company's land, which shows excellent indications, and the company will work the mines with the object of supplying the local trade. The indications point to a valuable deposit of fuel of a grade that can hardly be heat. A conservative estimate of the lumber on the campany's land places it at 200,000,000 feet.

They Were Stolen Cattle.

W. I. Sweetland, the well known local butcher, is a very mad man, says the Grant's Pass Observer. He is hot on the track of a dark complexioned stranger, and if the chap isn't unusually nimble he will find himself in Mr. Sweetland's clutches before the chase is over.

It is all over the fact that Mr. Sweetland hought two cows and a four-months-old calf from a man last Friday aftermoon, paying him the cash market price for the beef. The cattle were placed in a corral to fatten up and swait the time for slaughter, but on Wednesday aftermoon Wm. Pence, of Tolo, came into Grant's Pass in quest of three head of stoldn cattle, and found them in Mr. Sweetland's corral. The Grant's Pass maker of good saosage then understood in an instant that he had been bunceed. The man he had bought the cattle of was a cattle thief, and in Texas would have been the chief man in a neck-tie party within twenty-four hours. The cattle were gives back to their owner and driven home. They had been taken from the pasture at the Pence farm after dark.

Farmers and ranchmen who formerly engaged in other pursuits, later, taking sup the dairy business, are doing well. It is rather a slow beginning, starting into dairying, and it cannot be accomplished without time. One must have good mileh cows, the fields formerly sowed with grain must be converted into pastures, and there are other drawbacks at the start. Considering the brief time since our farmers first took up with the new industry on scientific principles, wonderful advancement has been made. Throughout the county there are many small separators and there is tan times as much milk to be obtained today as there was five years ago. there is ten times as much milk to be ob-tained today as there was five years ago. The price at present paid for butter fat is about 18 cents per pound. Of course it is understood that the price of butter fat is governed by the butter market. This business, from start to finish, is of great benefit to the county. It has been eaid that when you find a man in the dairy business that you also find one with a few doltars in his pocket.

New Land Law.

Under the new law, whenever the owner or owners of one or more tracts of land desire to permanently establish the boundaries and corners thereof he or they shall notify the county surveyor to make a survey thereof, and shall furnish him the names and addresses of all parties, so far as known, whose lands may be effected by such a survey. Upon receipt of such notification the county surveyor shall notify each person named therein, stating the date when he will begin the survey.

The costs of a survey so made will be apportioned among the land owners interested according to their respective interests.

Whooping Cough.

A woman who has had experience with this disease tells how to prevent any dangerous consequences from it. Our three children took whooping cough last summer, our baby boy being only three months old, and owing to our giving them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, they lost none of their plumpness and came out in much better health than other children whose parents did not use this remedy. Our oldest little girl would call lustily for cough syrup between whoops. Jessie Pinkney Hall, Springfield, Ala. This remedy is for sale at the St. Helens Pharmacy.

TILLAMOOK RAILROAD

Plans for the new railroad to Tilla

Plans for the new railroad to Tillamook are fast being consummated, says the Telegram, and according to the present outlook, there is likelihood that work will be begun during the next summer. A survey of the entire route has been made, and the probable course determined. The bonds have been issued and placed to such an extent that the road is now practically a sure thing.

Portland people are interested in the project, and home capital is behind the enterprise. The road is designed to traverse a country entirely unoccupied by any other road, and will be independent from any of the roads now entering Portland. It will have connection with no line except the Southern Pacific, which it will cross a short distance from this city. The road has been contemplated for years by local capitalists, and by the lines now entering this city, but no move had been made until the local company was organized with the view of building it.

The officials are very reticent in talking about it, and do not disclose the plans any further than they can help. It will have a terminal at the union depot, at Portland, and take a bow-shaped course toward the north, through Washington and Tillamook counties, going direct to Tillamook, thence northward to Nehalem, making an opening for the great volume of products of these counties. Tillamook is without doubt the greatest and best butter and cheese producing section of the state, and possibly the Northwest. These products will have a direct passage to Portland, and thus facilitating its outlet into the central part of the country. A conservative estimate of the timber in the section traversed by the road is 42,000,000,000 feet, which will receive an outlet through this channel.

The people in the section are enthusiastic over the enterprise, and hope to see the road go through at the earliest possible time. It will greatly increase the values of property and give an outlet through the channel.
