The death of a hospital nurse in this city this week attracted some attention, perhaps more in the home town of the young lady than here. It was exceedingly regretted on account of the excellent standing of the young lady, the character of her occupation adding to the desire that she might have survived the dreaded disease, but diptheria is a treacherous disease, among the worst that can affect a person. Medical science has not reached that perfection, and probably never will when there will not be deaths from this disease even under the most skilled treatment when the system is in a condition for its extension. Treatment which might be very disastrous with another because of the conditions of the person. This matter of life and death is often full of interest. A man falls a hundred feet and is smashed and broken, but he lives. Another man pricks his wrist with a pin blood poisoning sets in and he dies, and yet thousands of people prick their bodies with no serious effect. So it goes just the same in cases of different kinds of illness. Who can fathom the mysteries of life and death?—Astoria paper.

Astoria was visited by a disastrous conflagration this week. Fire broke out on Front street, between Seventh and Eight street, at about 5 o'clock, and destroyed a warehouse belonging to the Oregon Round Lumber Company, a barn belonging to H. B. Parker, and damaged several other structures. There were several horses in the barn, and before they could be rescued four of them were burned to death. The loss is in the neighborhood of $15,000. The fire occured in the manufacturing district, and two big concerns, the Elmore coal bunkers and Lindenberger cold storage plant, were less than 25 feet from the burning buildings. These were saved with slight loss. Only the absence of wind prevented a conflagration that would have resulted in immense damage to the city.

The blacklisting of honorable dentists and physicians by their respective organizations simply because the men see fit to pay the newspaper cash for space used rather than "sponge" valuable space, has been severely condemned by the Oregon Press Association. Papers have been appealed to to discontinue the practice of giving free space to the man who says that it is unprofessional to advertise.

Clatskanie is one of the live towns of Columbia county. The lumber and log output is something tremendous, and the proposed Benson logging railway to be built into the Nehalem country, will increase the timber output for many years to come. Clatskanie is destined to be the outlet on the lower Nehalem country.

Hon. A. R. Burbank died at his home in Lafayette, Oregon, Oct. 6, 1902, aged 86. Old citizens here remember the sad drowning of his daughter, Miss Eva, at North Beach, about 20 years ago, and the claim made by an unknown man that she was alive and well, and that for a consideration he would reveal her whereabouts.

The lumber business of Columbia county is assuming immense proportion. One has only to go down the Columbia to judge of the immensity of the logging and lumber interests. The business has to be seen to be really appreciated. Some of the largest loggers have their entire output contracted for sale many months ahead.

From actual experience Mr. Way, of Milton creek, pronounces this section one of the best fruit growing localities. Especially is this so in the production of apples. Columbia county is comparatively free from insects.

It is a matter of congratulation that there were comparatively few complaints before the county board of equalization this week, although some matters will be adjusted to-morrow.

The Grange movement is growing in Columbia county, and it means improved social conditions, and better prosperity among the agricultural classes.

Clatskanie is one of the live towns of Columbia county. The lumber output is something immense.

The only place in St. Helens, to get "High Standard Flour" is at Collins & Gray's.

All kinds of commercial job printing executed at this office.

The National Editorial Association, the greatest body of organized newspaper people in the world, which was the first body to suggest the Lewis and Clark fair, officially requested that Albert Tozier be appointed to the position of superintendent of the press department. Mr. Tozier has the official endorsement of the Portland Press club and the Oregon Press Association, as well as that of the national body, and as these organitions represent over 12,000 newspapers, and are the ones that Oregon must depend upon to make the fair a success, the management should make no delay in appointing Mr. Tozier to the position.

Ballard & Lee is the name of a new firm of newspaper advertising agents in Portland.

Paul Pferdner, manager of the Pacific Regalia Co., Portland, Oregon, went to New York this week, taking with him 5,000 buttons of his own make with which to advertise the Oregon fair.

Stricken With Paralysis.

Henderson Grimett, of this place, was stricken with partial paralysis and completely lost the use of one arm and side. After being treated by an eminent physican for quite a while without relief, y wife recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and after using two bottles of it he is almost entirely cured.—GEO. R. MCDONALD, Man, Logan county, W. Va. Several other very remarkable cures of partial paralysis have been effected by the use of this liniment. It is most widely known, however, as a cure for rheumatism, sprains and bruises Sold by Edwin Ross, Druggist.

Harry E. Lounsbury, of the S. P., was in the city last evening to secure the splendid Linn County exhibit at the state fair for exhibiting in the east, and of course the county court, which owns the jars, was only too glad to grant the permission, and those who have charge of the fruit concurred at once. Twenty-eight different varieties in large jars seen at the fair, besides several other jars, will be sent from Albany by Mr. Lounsbury to the big corn carnival at Peoria Ill., where Oregon has been granted ten feet square. Besides the Albany fruit the grain and grass exhibit of the O. A. C. will be sent, and perhaps a few things from other counties. The exhibit, after the completion of the corn carnival will be taken to a big carnival at Chicago,—Albany, Oregon, Democrat.

Steamer Hassalo Raked By Cypromene Jibboom.

The O. R. & N. Co.'s crank sternwheeler Hassalo was in collision with the British ship Cypromene near Coffin Rock at an early hour Saturday morning, and as a result is now lying at the repair yard in North Portland with her upper works on the port side totally wrecked. That a number of lives were not lost borders on the miraculous, for every stateroom that was wrecked was occupied, and in some of them the heavy jibboom of the Cypromene knocked down the upper berths and tumbled the occupants and the wreckage down onto those below. The damage to the Hassalo is estimated at from $6000 to $10,000, and the extent to which the ship suffered, if any, has not been ascertained, as she continued on her journey to Astoria yesterday, and did not arrive down until late in the afternoon. It is believed, however, that it was not serious, as the light upper work of the Hassalo offered but little resistance to the onslaught of the jibboom and heavy headgear of the ship.

The Cypromene, in tow of the Oklahama, left down Saturday morning, and anchored for the night near Coffin Rock, a short distance below Kalama. The Hassalo, under command of Captain Edward Sullivan, left Portland at 10 o'clock Saturday evening, and reached Kalama shortly after midnight. At Kalama, Captain Sullivan, turned the boat over to the pilot, but had not retired when the accident happened. There was a thick fog, and it is reported that the ship's bell was not ringing when the Hassalo bore down upon her, although the fog whistle of the steamer was kept going at regular intervals. The towboat which had the ship in charge had left her and was at a neighboring dock taking on wood.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

The largest sum ever paid for a prescription, changed hands in San Francisco, Aug. 30, 1901. The transfer involved in coin and stock $112,500.00 and was paid by a party of buisness men for a specific for Bright's Disease and Diabetes, hitherto incurable diseases.

They commenced the serious investigation of the specific Nov. 15, 1900. They interviewed scors of the cured and tried it out on its merits by putting over three dozen cases on the treatment and watching them. Tdey also got physicians to name chronic, incurable cases, and administered it with the physicans for judges. Up to Aug. 25, eighty-seven per cent of the test cases were either well or progressing favorably.

There being but thirteen per cent of failures, the parties were satisfied and closed the transaction. The proceedings of the investigating committee and the clinical reports of the test cases were published and will be mailed free on application. Adpress John J. Dalton Company, 420 Montgomery St. San Francisco, Cal.
