HOG RAISING PROFITABLE.

Hog raising would no doubt be a profitable industry in Columbia county, as the soil conditions are particularly favorable to producing the proper pig feed. There is always a good market for pork and bacon, especially on this coast, where the Eastern importations foot up into millions of pounds. Hogs reach a fattening stage at an early period, and bring quicker returns than any other stock raised on the farm. It is believed that hogs could be raised with profit in the Nehalem country as the selling price of the product would justify a long wagon haul to reach convenient access to market.

William Schulmerick, of Farmington, Washington county, a prominent and successful farmer, gives his experience in a letter to W. E. Coman, general passenger and freight agent of the Southern Pacific:

"I will give my experience in raising and fattening hogs, which has proved to be the most profitable stock I have on the farm at present prices of pork and bacon. I have the hogs that are slaughtered in the fall and winter farrowed in March or April. They are pastured in April, May and June and July on alsike clover. I find alsike preferable to red clover as it is eaten with more relish by hogs and cattle. The end of May or the first of June a field is sown to rape. The land should be finely pulverized and three pounds of seed sown broadcast to the acre. The seed should be harrowed in with a peg tooth harrow and the land rolled or clod mashed. The rape can be pastured all fall and winter, and the shoats will be in fine condition to fatten. Last summer I pastured 42 shoats on two acres of rape for two months. The animals kept in growing condition all the while. This plainly shows the value of rape for hog pasture. I would recommend alsike clover for spring pasture and alfalfa wherever it can be grown. Alfalfa hay has about the same feeding quality as wheat bran and makes an excellent winter ration for stock hogs, when run through a feed cutter, with a little skim milk added.

"Peas and barley mixed make the best ration for fattening hogs that I have ever used. Five pecks of each should be sown per acre. They ripen together and can be harvested with a binder, and yield from 40 to 50 bushels per acre.

"The year 1901 I kept account with 12 hogs. When put up to fatten they averaged live weight 75 pounds each. They consumed an average each of 450 pounds of rolled barley and 300 of skimmed milk in 66 days. When slaughtered their average weight dressed was 161 pounds. The meat was cured and the ribs, lard and bacon sold for $204 50. Value of shoats and feed consumed, $98. Net income $106 50, besides the offal. I have gone into detail on this to show what can be done when the product is finished on the farm .... It is a mistake to grow hogs too large, for it requires more feed to produce a pound of gain on a 300-pound hog than on one weighing 200 pounds.

"In conclusion, I will say that the farmers in Western Oregon should try the clover and rape for summer feeding and grow peas and barley for fattening hogs. At present we have a market for many more than are produced. If we increase the production of hogs it will not be long before we have a first class packing establishment in our midst. Then we will be able to compete with the East in their own domain by furnishing them a better article than corn fed bacon.

ON NATIVE BIRDS.

Clarence H. Gilbert, president of the John Borroughs Society of Portland sends the following. Columbia county graduates of the public schools will have an opportunity to compete for the prizes.

The John Burroughs Society of Portland has, through the generosity of Mrs. Rosa F. Burell, two cash prizes to award for knowledge of the native birds of Oregon. These prizes are given yearly to the class of highest grade in the elementary schools of the state.

The first prize is $12.00 the second $8.00, to be awarded to those who can name the most birds by sight and song, and who write a sufficiently excellent composition on the subject. The relative markings for the two examinations will be upon a scale of 100, 60 per cent for the field test and 40 per cent for the composition test. That is, actual knowledge of the birds will count for more than excellence in composition.

The competition is open to the class graduating in February as well as to the class graduating in June. The compositions must be in the hands of the corresponding secretary of the John Burroughs Society, 734 Williams avenue, Portland, Oregon, not later than June 1.

Any subject based upon personal observation of our native birds will be acceptable. One particular bird may be selected for study; or some such subject as the following may be chosen: "Nests of Oregon Birds," "Feeding Habits of Our Native Birds," "Bird Friends of the Farmer," etc. In all examinations time and place should be carefully recorded.

The field examinations will be given the last week in May and the first week in June. All who send compositions will be considered as applicants for a field examination, and the address of each writer should be enclosed with the composition.

DIDN'T MAKE THREE AFFIDAVITS TO THE STATEMENT.

"R. H. Mitchell, formerly editor and publisher of the Gazette at Rainier, was in town Saturday. He announced his intention of assuming charge of the St. Helens Oregon Mist. Mr. Mitchell is a very capable newspaper man, and gets out a neat, newsy paper. He will no doubt make the Mist a flourishing paper. Mr. Mitchell at one time published a paper at St. Helens."—Woodland News."

There is one thing lacking in this statement made by Three-Affidavit Mitchell. He did not make three separate sworn statements to the announced intention before W. C. Fischer, a notary public. If Three-Affidavit Mitchell carries out his annouced inteniion, he will find that he can't stand off the landlady of The Mist building for the rent. The Mist was informed a couple of months ago from a reliable source that Three-Affidavit Mitchell was delinquent in his office rent for the entire time that he had been in Rainier.

The Astorian in commenting on "Tax the Timber Lands," says it will readily be admitted that there is no justice or reason in assessing fine timber claims worth from $20 to $40 per acre at from $1 50 to $4 per acre. The owners of these lands are gaining wealth by simply letting their timber land stand while its value mounts up. They should be made to pay for the value they own, just as much as though it consisted of improvements made by their own labor and industry. The Astorian, also recommends that the services of a timber cruiser be secured to ascertain the correct value of these timber lands.

There is getting to be something very rotten in Oregon college oratorical contests, when a comparatively stupid, middle-aged man appropriates another's speech, and giving it a little working over, wins the state prize. At the conclusion of the oratorical contest in Eugene, a banquet was served in the University of Oregon dormitory. The Eugene Guard says that about $75 worth of silverware, the property of the State University, disappeared at this oratorical banquet. These oratorical contests are growing in disrepute.

The last legislature passed an act creating the position of commissioner of labor statistics. The state board is being urged from influential sources to appoint Hon. E. H. Flagg to that important position. Mr. Flagg was publisher of The Oregon Mist a number of years ago, and was married into a prominent Columbia county family. Mr. Flagg has been prominent in union labor circles for many years past, and his experience as both employer and employee, added to his deliberate conservativenes, peculiarly fit him for this important position. Mr. Flagg has many friends in this county, irrespective of party, who will gladly endorse him for this position of honor.

Clatskanie is experiencing a solid growth, and is building up at a steady and healthy pace. It is the intention to bring in a new water supply during the present year at a cost of $3,000 or $4,000, which will answer all purposes for some time to come. The city is growing to such an extent, that the present supply is inadequate during the dry season. The water works system is owned by the city, and the rates are 50 cents per month for dwellings, and 75 cents for business houses. No wharfage is charged for goods passing over the dock.

The Keystone Lumber Company, of Clatskanie, recently donated 115,000 feet of lumber, which was used in the improvement of the road up the Clatskanie. This is the largest donation to road improvement, that has been made by a single firm in Columbia county for many days. It has been the custom in past years for the county court to donate $1 for road improvement where $2 was subscribed from private sources.

Office stationery printed with rubber stamps looks very cheap and shabby, and is a poor advertisement of the town or the business, which is intended to be promoted. Neatly printed stationery is a good advertisement for a business establishment—it produces a favorable impression, and brings in substantial returns.

The Ladies' World.

The Ladies' World for May will be essentially a Spring number, and in illustration and literary material will emulate the season in freshness and charm. Short stories will be the special features. In the opening pages will be a strong and wonderfully entertaining story on "Men's Rights," where the provider for the family gets his just dues. There will be other interesting stories, with the camera and out of door articles. The various departments will be especially fresh and breezy.

More Short Stories.

Conkey's Home Journal is another monthly magazine which has discovered an increased demand for short stories, and presents five in its April issue, which also shows an increse of eight pages. In addition to the short stories, there are several departments for the home, as well as a department of music. This magazine has more than kept its promise made to its readers a year ago to out do all its competitors in the five cent magazine field.

Spring is here, and so is my new Spring stock, all new goods, nothing shop-worn. For ladies' hats and dress goods, gent's furnishing goods, and all up-to-date notions this store leads all the rest. A dollar will buy more in my store than any place in this county. Just received 50 new men's suits—up-to-date in style for the least money possible.
H. M. McKiel, Clatskanie.

SOFT CORE

Like the running brook, the red blood that flows through the veins has to come from somewhere.

The springs of red blood are found in the soft core of the bones called the marrow and some say red blood also comes from the spleen. Healthy bone marrow and healthy spleen are full of fat.

Scott's Emulsion makes new blood by feeding the bone marrow and the spleen with the richest of all fats, the pure cod liver oil.

For pale school girls and invalids and for all whose blood is thin and pale, Scott's Emulsion is a pleasant and rich blood food. It not only feeds the blood-making organs but gives them strength to do their proper work.

LOGS AND MILLING.

Fluhrer's Building a Large Shingle Mill at Mayger.

Fluhrer Bros. are building a new shingle mill at Mayger. Another machine will be added, and it will have a capacity of 50,000 first class shingles daily. The new location will be convenient to both rail and water transportation, and they will be better prepared than ever to turn out the famous red cedar shingles that have given William Fluhrer and sons a national reputation. The Fluhrer's have diplomas of first awards at the Trans-Missisippi and International Exposition, the Pan American Exposition and the Charleston Exposition.

According to the Woodland News J. E. Morgan, of Scappoose, is opening two logging camps on upper Lewis river.

MIST.

Ah, what doth lend to earth so much joy
As these sweet minstrels (for methinks they sing
The songs they learned of yore in Paradise,
Ere purity and innocence took wing.
I listen while the lark, up rising seeks
The gate of Heaven, in hopes perchance to hear
An echo of cherubic hymns above,
Or catch the music of a heavenly sphere.
Sounds from afar, the black bird's mellow note.
The thrush shrill piping for his absent mate
While in the woods recess, the timid dove
Mourns softly and sweetly low, her widowed state,
Sunshine and song, all through the long day;
But ah when twilight falls o'er hill and vale,
And all is silent save the whispering leaves,
'Tis then thou breakest forth, O nightingale.
My soul absorbs the enchanting melody,
And in its plaintive sweetness, melts away.
Sung by all poets, peerless Philomel,
My faltering tongue can n'er thy praise essay.

I have had occasion to use your Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and am pleased to say that I never used anything for stock that gave half as good satisfaction. I heartily recommend it to all owners of stock.
J. B. BELSHER, St. Louis, Mo.

Sick stock or poultry should not eat cheap stock food any more than sick persons should expect to be cured by food. When your stock and poultry are sick give them medicine. Don't stuff them with worthless stock foods. Unload the bowels and stir up the torpid liver and the animal will be cured, if it be possible to cure it. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine unloads the bowels and stirs up the torpid liver. It cures every malady of stock if taken in time. Secure a 25-cent can of Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and it will pay for itself ten times over. Horses work better. Cows give more milk. Hogs gain flesh. And hens lay more eggs. It solves the problem of making as much blood, flesh and energy as possible out of the smallest amount of food consumed. Buy a can from your dealer.
