TIME TO AVOID FACTIONAL STRIFE.

One thing is absolutely certain—there are not enough elective offices to go around, and especially is this the condition in Columbia county. The republicans of this county are in the majority, and if they do not elect every man on the ticket it will be for the reason that an equitable distribution of offices is not made at the coming county convention to be held in the early spring.

It also is important that only the best men be put up for office—let the chronic office seekers become common, every day voters and live for awhile on a plane higher than petty office seeking.

Every portion of the county as nearly as possible should be represented on the ticket.

The ticket should not be weighted down with any fossils or hangers on, who drag it down like the proverbial mill stone.

It also is high time that the onery cusses, too cultus to work, and without influence, who are always approaching some one with "I'm next"—time they were put on the rock pile. Say to them, "Get Behind me Satan." They are no good for anything but to make up little tales and carry them around creating factional animosities. Let the democrats or anyone else take them if they will have them.

It seems that a state statute has been on the Oregon law books for 30 years, which strictly prohibits gambling. This statute is being vigorously enforced by Circuit Judge Hamilton at Roseburg. At the term of court held last week nine men were fined for gambling, the majority of whom were residents in various parts of the county. Others, who had been fined by the Roseburg municipal authorities, demurred, but Judge Hamilton told them that they also had violated the state law.

A good many of the democratic appointees at the state penitentiary are resigning, and the busybodies are suggesting causes. It is possible of course, that they were asked to resign; but it is also possible that some of them did not have such a hankering to walk around on the walls and herd "cons" after the "new" wore off their jobs as they did before. The "snap" of some of these state jobs cannot be appreciated dy anyone quite so much as those who have tried them a few months.—McMinnville News

Three million fruit trees will be planted in this state this season — fall and spring— which goes to show that the fruit growing industry in this state, though already quite important, is yet in its infancy, an promises soon to outclass many states which for years have been considered the principal fruit growing regions in this country.—Cowlitz Advocate.

The sudden death of Mrs. W. A Young, which occurred at Cedar Grove, near Clatskanie, on Wednesday of last week, was a sad affair. Without a moment's warning, a falling limb from a tree ended the life of a highly esteemed and talented woman. The deceased was the daughter of ex-Sheriff Massie, and spent a portion of her girlhood days in St. Helens.

While the ministers and church people remonstrated against the licensing of saloons in Houlton, if reports are true, there also were others. It is common report that some St. Helens parties who had signed the petitions, contributed toward the fight made by the remonstrators. If this is true, they did not exactly join hands with the church people, but worked to the same end.

If it were possible to dispose of the criminals now awaiting trial in the Multnomah county jail for offenses committed in this county, as was done in the case of Morgan Tuesday, a material saving would be effected to the taxpayers. However, it is not always possible to induce prisoners to plead guilty to an offense without the formality of a trial.

The Multnomah county republican central committee held a meeting last week, and endorsed President Roosevelt and United States Senator John H. Mithell. Ex-United States Senator Joseph Simon emphatically denies the report that he is a candidate for the United States senate.

The town of Houlton is enjoying something of a boom, and new buildings are going up in every direction. Mr. Belford, the superintendent of the Western Cooperage Company, will build a new residence, opposite the railroad depot.

County Superintendent Copeland is devoting his entire energies to the betterment of Columbia schools, and they are attaining a creditable degree of efficiency.

A Very Close Call.

"I stuck to my engine, although every joint ached and every nerve was racked with pain," writes C. W. Bellamy, a locomotive fireman, of Burlington, Iowa. "I was weak and pale, without any appetite and all run down. As I was about to give up, I got a bottle of Electric Bitters, and after taking it, I felt as well as I ever did in my life." Weak, sick, run down people always gain new strength and vigor from their use. Satisfaction guaranteed by St. Helens Pharmacy. Price 50 cents.

Fresh fish in season every Friday, and special Sunday dinner at the Oriental Hotel.

Nothing has ever equalled it.
Nothing can ever surpass it.

CLATSKANIE

Arrived too late for last week.

Ed Olds, of Oregon City, has a gang of men and a pile driver driving pilig on the Benson ditch in front of the city.

It began snowing last Sunday night and has continued at intervals all this week. At this writing the snow is about four inches deep here; the kids are trying awful hard to enjoy themselves coasting, but have a hard time of it.

Frank Malmberg brought over from the Dippold & Sons' shingle mill a full sled load of shingles Tuesday. Frank rustled up two span of horses for the occasion, when coming down the mountain side made things whiz.

Will Dippold and brother was in the city Tuesday, trading with our merchants.

It was funny to see Georgie Conyers going up Nehalem street trying to lead a billy goat. Sometimes the goat was ahead and sometimes George was ahead. It is said they both got home safe without any bones being broken.

The loggers on the Clatskanie are all happy. After the next swell in the creeks they will probably give a fantastic dance and have a good time generally. They say it will take about two more good heavy rains to raise the creeks high enough to bring all their logs down.

We heard of a man in this part of the county who fed his stock so much hay since it commenced snowing that part of his flock have died.

We learn that petions are being circulated in the city, to have some of the several nuisances abated. 'Tis better late than never.

It is reported that the Wilson Bros. have moved their shingle mill farther up the canyon where there is plenty of cedar timber, and that they will make things whiz when spring opens.

Washburn & Holmes have their sawmill in good trim, and are ready to supply the market with fine cedar and fir lumber, and lots of it, when spring opens, so they say operate it.

W. A. Young and Charles I. Gertson, of Cedar Grove, were in the city one day this week trading with our merchants.

The painters are doing the inside work on the new hotel building during this inclement weather. The building is nearing completion. Mr. and Mrs. McDonald, the proprietors, are getting ready for the spring rush of business.

Smelt are getting plentiful in our market. We note they are selling for 5 cents per pound this week.

We learn that Mrs. W. H. Conyers, who has been quite sick the past week is somewhat better.

Two gentlemen from Portland were in the city this week looking for a location for a bank.

Saved From Terrible Death.

The family of Mrs. M. L. Bobbit of Bargerton, Tenn., saw her dying and were powerless to save her. The most skillful phisicians and every remedy used, failed, while consumption was slowly but surely taking her life. In this terrible hour Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption turned despair into joy. The first bottle brought immediate relief and its continued use completely cured her. It's the most certain cure in the world for all throat and lung troubles. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial Bottles Free at St. Helens Pharmacy.

To those who have helped me to maintain a prosperous business in the past I feel truly grateful, and ask a continuance of your favors. To all others I wish you well and would be glad to enroll you among my customers. M. C. Gray, general merchandise, St. Helens, Oregon.

WEEDS

Consumption is a human weed flourishing best in weak lungs. Like other weeds it's easily destroyed while young; when old, sometimes impossible.

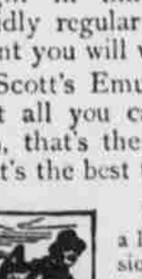
Strengthen the lungs as you would weak land and the weeds will disappear.

The best lung fertilizer is Scott's Emulsion. Salt pork is good too, but it is very hard to digest.

The time to treat consumption is when you begin trying to hide it from yourself. Others see it, you won't.

Don't wait until you can't deceive yourself any longer. Begin with the first thought to take Scott's Emulsion. If it isn't really consumption so much the better; you will soon forget it and be better for the treatment. If it is consumption you can't expect to be cured at once, but if you will begin in time and will be rigidly regular in your treatment you will win.

Scott's Emulsion, fresh air, rest all you can, eat all you can, that's the treatment and that's the best treatment.



We will send you a little of the Emulsion free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, 409 Pearl St., N. Y.

50c. and $1; all druggists.

Mrs. Oliver Talks.

The reader will remember the last talk Jones had with his friend Brown. Jones announced his intention of renting a cottage, then going home and spending the evening with his wife.

Let us go ahead of him to his "shack" and unseen ourselves, see and hear. It is now seven o'clock. The children have been given a lunch and put to bed. The fire is out and the shack is chilly, but as we look around we see the reason. There is barely wood enough to keep a fire an hour. Mrs. Jones is folding clothes for to-morrow's ironing. Hearing a firm step at the door she turns in astonishment to see her husband enter. "Why, Will, how early you are home," she said, "and it's pay night, too, eh?"

"O, Will," with a quick flush, "I did not mean anything."

"That's all right, wife, look here," and he held a handful of coin before her. "I spent some too, guess what for."

"First, you haven't had any supper?"

"No, I had forgotten about supper, but I am hungry." "I'll have to build the fire, I did not look for you so early." "I know, wife, where are the children?" "I gave them a lunch and put them to bed." "We must have supper alone, then? How would you like to move?" Mrs. Jones looked around the poor little room as if wondering how she could get along with less."

"You know the Bently house? I've rented it. I forgot, I was going to make you guess. I went to the boss and got a half day off tomorrow. Can you move then?" "As well as any time, Mrs. Smith's ironing can wait a day, and I haven't much to move."

"Mrs. Smith's ironing! what that to do with it."

"I have been doing some washing and ironing for the last three months." "What made you do that, seems to me its a mans place and privilege to support his family, and two dollars a day ought to support us." "Talk to me of two dollars a day, Will Jones," cried she suddenly turning upon him her eyes blazing with wrath, "what good has it done us, I don't see five dollars a month of it. I put the children to bed with just a little cold bread to eat because there was only wood and victuals in the house to get breakfast. I don't look for you on pay night. But, oh, Will," and she put her arms about his neck and her voice softened "I'm so glad you came, I'll get you as good a supper as I can.

"Dear wife, you have had a hard time and I have been to blame," he said as he drew her to a seat on his knee, "I am going to try to make it pleasanter for you hereafter. I paid a month's rent in advance on a nice little house, and ordered a load of wood hauled there first thing in the morning. I spoke to an expressman to move us, too. He'll be here about eight o'clock, so we will have to plan to night and hustle in the morning. Does that old stove bake good. "No, it is so to pieces I can hardly use it." "It wont pay to move it, we will get another in the morning and I am going to get you a rocking chair and another bed spring. We must furnish slowly, but we must have some new things in our new house. Those broken chairs we'll use for wood to get breakfast with. Have you any thing to cook?" "Potatoes." "I'll get a loaf of bread and some steak in the morning so don't worry about that.

"Supper is ready now, Will, but I feel too excited to eat. What put such things into your head?"

"I'll tell you, Molly," said Will as he drew his chair to the table, "I met Ed Brown tonight just as I left the mill, you know he is a great prohibitionist. Well, I commenced about the saloon being such a nice place to go, good company, and all that; but he wound me up and made me see that I was treating you and the children selfishly. He drew a pretty picture of home life and I made up my mind I'd try it a month. But since I came home I've concluded Brown didn't know what he was talking about, and I have been ten times worse than he knew of. I think I'll not limit the time to a month if I always enjoy myself as I have tonight.

God helping me, and with your help, too dear wife, I'm going to try to be a man again." And the wife softly replied "Amen."

IRIS W. T. OLIVER.

A Prisoner in Her Own House.

Mrs. W. H. Layfin, of 1001 Agnes Ave., Kansas City, Mo., has for several years been troubled with severe hoarseness and at times a hard cough, which she says, "Would keep me in doors for days. I was prescribed for by physicians with no noticeable results. A friend gave me part of a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with instructions to closely follow the directions and I wish to state that after the first day I could notice a decided change for the better, and at this time after using it for two weeks, have hesitation in saying I realize that I am entirely cured." This remedy is for sale by St. Helens Pharmacy.
