THE REAL ISSUE.

The truth as to the gold standard is that the great financiers forced its adoption upon the Republican party just as they are now forcing it upon the Democratic party. The men who deal in money desire the stability of their business. They are governed by an enlightened selfishness, and this is about the best motive commercial leaders ever set upon. The claim of Republican spellbinders that they are and always have been the advocates of a sound financial system is without good foundation, and especially is this true in states that gave the largest Republican majorities. Ohio is the home of the greenbacker and silverist, and President McKinley was for many years an earnest advocate of the white metal. Grover Cleveland was the first president of the United States who had the courage of his convictions on financial matters and to him, more than to any Republican, the country is indebted for the stability of our monetary system. Even John Sherman paltered with the question and compromised with the enemies of sound money, fearing that the straightforward and honest course would disrupt the party; but Mr. Cleveland rose above party and refused to consider expediency as opposed to principle, and it is because of this trait in his character that he is today considered by the people to be one of the great men of the century.

The permanence of the gold standard is assured, no matter whether Roosevelt or Parker be elected; but it is also true that this is not due to any vote cast by Judge Parker, who, knowing the right, preferred to do wrong, and voted twice for Mr. Bryan. Mr. Bryan's election meant the reversal of our monetary system. It meant the free and unlimited coinage of silver. Mr. Parker knew this; he was opposed to it, and yet, for the sake of party regularity he voted for it, knowing full well that his vote in New York would not influence the result. His course stamps him as a weak and insincere man—one who would be as clay in the hands of the potter.

The issue in this campaign is not the gold standard, but the protective tariff. The Democratic platform, while silent on the money question, is very emphatic in its denunciation of a protective tariff. "Protection," it says, "is robbery," and is to be abolished as soon as possible. If Oregon were a doubtful state, this utterance would place it firmly in the Republican column. But Oregon is surely Republican, and the only question is as to the size of the majority for Roosevelt. If the people remember the effect of the last Democratic tariff measure, the Republican majority in the state should exceed 25,000.

AS TO A NEW COURT HOUSE.

At the September term of County Court the matter of providing for the construction of a new court house will be taken up and discussed, and we believe that provision will be made for the erection of a building that will be adequate for the needs of the county. The necessity for such a building is urgent, and there is no good excuse for further delay. Two members of the court, Judge Hatten and Commissioner Libel, have expressed themselves emphatically upon the subject. At the May term of Circuit Court, 1902, the report of the grand jury contained the following paragraphs:

"We find that the vault in the clerk's office is too small to hold the records; that valuable books are piled upon the floor thereof, and that the said vault is insufficient for the present requirements of the county."
"We find all the county officers cramped for room, and that the business of the county requires larger and better office rooms."
"We deem the court house a disgrace to the county and earnestly recommend that immediate steps be taken to erect a suitable court house commensurate with the needs of the county."
This report was signed by Casper Libel, foreman; Samuel Mann, Grant W. Girt, M. M. Robbins, W. C. Eichman, Peter Lund, J. D. McKay.

Commissioner Libel is not a man who makes up his mind in a hurry or who would sign an official document without giving it due consideration. Having said that the present court house is a disgrace and that steps should be taken for the immediate construction of a new one, he is likely to adhere to his opinion, especially as each succeeding grand jury has endorsed and emphasized his utterances. Commissioner Colvin is also a thorough business man, and when he reflects upon the fact that every day of old court house stands the records of this county are in danger, and that their loss would entail a cost upon the county greater than the expense of a new building, we believe he will be convinced that it is good business policy to comply with the recommendations of the grand jury.

fore, not so large as the run would justify. Mr. Kershaw attributes the late runs to the hatcheries. It is the hatchery fish that comprise the late runs, and the influence of the hatcheries on the runs is being felt to a greater degree each succeeding year. As the best fishing season is now later in the year than at the time when the law was framed, Mr. Kershaw is advocating a change that will open the season later and close it later in the year. The present season will be indicative of what change will be more beneficial to the industry and yet protect the fish from extermination, and the movement to change the law will be inaugurated probably before the Legislatures of the two states meet again.—Advocate.

RUSSIA'S "VOLUNTEER" FLEET.

Because of the protest of England and Germany, Russia will withdraw her vessels of the "volunteer" fleet from the Red Sea, and replace them by regular warships, which will, presumably, continue the work of searching merchant vessels.

The "volunteer" fleet was begun in 1878, when Russia and England were upon the verge of hostilities. They are called "volunteer" ships because their cost was met by voluntary subscriptions from the Russian people. They are to all intents and purposes government warships. The only difference is that in time of peace they are, for economy and convenience, employed as merchant vessels. The officers and crew are the same in peace or war, and these vessels are part of the Russian navy.

It is seen, therefore, that these vessels are not like American or English "auxiliary cruisers." The latter are privately owned merchant steamers, which, by virtue of arrangements between the owners and the government, can be taken into the naval service in time of war. It is clear that Turkey evaded treaty obligations when she allowed these "volunteer" vessels to pass through the Dardanelles; and the protests of England and Germany have again bottled up the Black Sea fleet.

SPEAK WELL OF YOUR TOWN.

The growth and general importance of a town or section of country depends principally on two things. First, the natural advantages and resources, and then the enterprise, energy, broadmindedness, enthusiasm, and hospitality of its people. Columbia County in general is unusually blessed for procuring and maintaining an enormous population, that is, her many and varied resources. The question still unanswered is, will her people do their part in the great future development of the county and towns which depend upon them? Each and every citizen has a work to do in this matter, and it is not necessarily a work of dollars and cents, but it is a work of words. Let every individual speak a good word not only for the country, but for the people, and they will be surprised to see the good that will result from doing so. People in search of home or business investment naturally go where they feel assured of not only an adequate return for the money which they invest, but where the social advantages are such that they can at least feel that they are in the midst of congenial spirits. A kicker and a knocker is a detriment to any community, but the man who can welcome a stranger with a friendly handshake and speak a good word for the business men of his city, for his neighbors, and best of all for the grand, beautiful and productive country in which he lives, is the greatest factor in the building up and development of his home city.

The Nehalem Dairy Association shipped 250 cases of cheese on the Gerald C. Saturday—Tillamook Headlight.

The above tells its own story. The community that has its cheese factory and pays attention to up-to-date dairy butter-making are the most prosperous and contented localities, take the country from one end to the other. It is here that you will see the best of farm houses, barns and out-buildings, showing that the pay received has been gradual and has been put to good use. There will always be a market for cheese and good butter. And here in Columbia county, we make no exception as to locality, where numerous streams and living springs abound, more of our farmers should engage in this paying, pleasant and popular industry. The two most essentials are good pasture or feed and variety of cows. The pasture can be obtained by sowing grass seed in any of his slashings after burning, and thus get a revenue out of it on which he is paying taxes. The outlay in cash to begin with can be moderate and added thereto as his means allow. The cow has come to stay—that is, dairy cows—and to the farmer who will give a portion of his time to her and provide for her will get his reward.

A young man of twenty-four years who encourages the advances of a fourteen year old girl, who takes her on rambles in the woods and otherwise fosters the child's foolish affection for him, can not be held blameless for the consequences, and when that child leaves her home, after telling her playmates that she has eloped with him, he is very fortunate if the worst that happens him is to be held under bail until the mystery of the girl's disappearance is cleared up. This is the state of affairs in the Robinson case, and the officers have done nothing more than their manifest duty in detaining Lope. If he is ignorant of the girl's whereabouts, the inconvenience he is put to may be a lesson for his future guidance, and if he is guilty the officers would have been inexcusable had they permitted his escape.
