FOR THE WIFE BEATER

The law establishing the whipping post for wife beaters goes into effect the 19th day of the present month, and thereafter the brutes who seem to think a woman is their personal property, to maltreat at their pleasure, will feel the lash. That is, they will if persons cognizant of the fact of such crimes do theiir duty and give the necessary information to the grand jury. Wife beating is certainly one of the most revolting of crimes, and there can be no possible excuse or palliation for it. Generally it is unprovoked and indulged in because the devil himself possesses the stronger annimal with a wicked desire to inflict punishment upon a helpless woman, and the law seems unable to provide a remedy. Even the new law will fail to protect the victims for the reason that experience shows that women will rarely testify against their husbands in such matters. Often they are unable to earn a living for themselves and therefore fear the only result of a complaint would be to throw them upon the charity of the world. In many cases, also, they are restrained by fear of greater harm, as the brute who beats his wife has within him the instinct of a murderer and would not hesitate, were it not for fear of the gallows, to punish with death any attempt to bring him to justice. If the woman c uld muster up the necessary nerve the wife beater would often find his punishment as Maybrick found his, and pay with his life the just penalty for his outrageous conduct. Men who practice this crime are generally cowards and the knowledge that whenever they attempt violence against their wives they might expect a cup of poisoned coffee or a knife between their ribs would probably have a deterrent effect.

DRUNKENNESS IN MINORS.

It is gratifying to note the successful prosecution in Corvallis of two men for giving liquor to a minor. The shocking result of debauching a lad with liquor was witnessed in the Agricultural College town a few years ago, in the death of the intoxicated boy while resisting arrest, and that of the Town Marshal while in pursuit of his official duty in the premises. One lesson of this kind should suffice for Corvallis for many years, if not indefinitely. The prosecution above noted indicates that it is still remembered by the prosecuting Attorney, at least.

If the law covering cases of this kind was relentlessly enforced, we might reasonably hope to have an end of drunken minors on village streets, and of the recruiting of jails and state's prisons from the ranks of young men of eighteen and twenty. This is a phase of vice that can be controled and practically stamped out. To doubt this is to assume or admit that men in authority in the community cannot control its boys.

The lesson of the "old farmer and his apple tree" is in evidence here. Finding that "neither word nor grass," would cause the predatory lads to abandon their purpose of stealing his fruit, the determined farmer "tried what virtue there was in stones," whereupon they speedily "came down from the tree and begged the old man's pardon." This lesson of force, properly and in good time applied, is one that parents and others in authority might recall with profit to the community and the rising generation. There is enough latent power in parental vigilance and law to put a stop to drunkenness in minors. All that is needed is to put it in effect.—Oregonian.

THE DELINEATOR FOR JUNE.

A striking cover design, a girls head in pstel, by George Gibbs, introduces the reader of the June Delineator to a varied and interesting table of contents, supplemented by a complete summary of the season's styles. In the literary portion of the magazine, Weymer Jay Mills contributes the first of a series of "Romances of Summer Resorts," which promise much of interest, pictorially and otherwise. A noteworthy feature also is F. Berkeley Smith's description of "A Corner in Normandy," an enjoyable travel sketch that gives more than a passing glance at one of the most curious nooks in the Old World. For the benefit of those who have the collecting instinct, N. Hudson Moore writes on old glass in "The Collector's Manual "and Dr. Murry discusses the cure of the eyes and ears in a paper that will appeal particularly to young mothers and those who have the care of children. Newman's hymn, "Lead Kindly Light," is the subject of a paper by Allen Sutherland in the series "Famous Hymns of the World." In the matter of fiction, Albert Bigelow Paine's serial "The Lucky Piece," proceeds along pleasing lines, and Helen Chlolate Prince contributes a short story of great strength and charm. Grace MacGowan Cooke adds a chapter in the amusing history of Son Riley Rabbit, and L. Frank Baum gives an animal fairy tale, called "The Pea-Green Poodle," both of which will delight the little folks. In addition there are house plans and house-furnishing ideas, and many pages devoted to the particlular interests of the home, including, among other features, a paper on "The Practical Side of the Welding." and a variety of suggestions for kitchen economy.

Fifteen thousand people visited the Lewis and Clark Exposition last Sunday.

THE MIST'S COLUMBIAN EDITION.

This paper proposes to publish during the early days of the Lewis and Clark Exposition an issue of 5,000 copies, devoted to a comprehensive showing of the resources of Columbia County, from north to south and from east to west. No section of the county will be neglected and no resource will be overlooked. It will be the most important attempt ever made to make this county known to those who are seeking opportunities for investment of capital, either in farm lands or productive industries of any description. The literary work will be done by thoroughly competent persons in each locality, thus insuring absolute fairness to the different sections of the county. The paper will be quite profusely illustrated with newspaper halftones, including natural scenery, water powers, logging camps, school houses, churches, etc. The entire edition should be placed where it will do the most good, and in order to accomplish this all who are interested in the development of Columbia County should lend a helping hand. If you want neighbors to help build up your community or capital to aid in the building up of dormant industries, this is your chance to do good work to that end.

These papers will be mailed to any address for 5c per copy. Send in the names, accompanied by the money.

OUR MINERAL RESOURCES

Columbia County a Great Field for Capital.

Scappoose, Or., May 10, 1905.

Editor Mist: Having for the last thirty years been very much interested in the development of the mineral resources of Columbia County, and failing to see any article giving the particulars as to what is hidden away in the hills and ravines, I ask that a little space may be allowed me in the MIST to bring properly to the minds of your readers the facts that can be proven and shown beyond a doubt that what we say is here. Owing, however, to the conditions of the ground, being heavily timbered and a dense undergrowth, the prospecting has been very hard and slow, and, in connection with the geology of the country being somewhat broken and shifted, it has been difficult to define the different mineral zones as they present themselves in numerous places in Columbia County. I feel it my duty to give what knowledge I have gained for the benefit and good of the county in general, and will endeavor according to the best of my ability to do so.

First, we have a fair prospect of bituminous or cokeing coal, which runs as high as 35 fixed carbon from croppings on the surface, and will surely be much better as the vein is developed, as the less exposed the higher it would be in fixed carbon, thus affording an abundance of fuel for reducing other ores that are in large quantities and well opened up. We have red hematite, equal to the famous Lake Superior iron ore for making steel billets; brown hematite or laminite, which is most used for cast iron and runs 52 in metallic iron; also argilliferous ore in large quantities, ores of crome iron for mineral paints, manganese ores (used in making steel and umber paint); and we have large deposits of shell marl which is used for making iron and carbonate of lime, is a flux for the ores of iron when smelted, and is also used for making Portland cement. All of this is waiting for capital. We have the talent. What we want is capital. We are prepared for making cement—cement that will stand the test of Portland cement. We are also prepared to make steel that cannot be excelled, also cast iron. We are prepared for making mineral paint that is far better than anything of its kind on the market. All of this has been done and can be shown beyond a doubt as to quantity and quality.

Columbia County should be the Pittsburg of Oregon—the best paying property in the Pacific Northwest. It has the ores, and their proximity to Portland, together with transportation by river or rail, renders the marketing of our product reasonable. We challenge capital to find anything with one half the merit in the State. If you are looking for investment we can interest you.

Cleared for Action.

When the body is cleared for action, by Dr. King's New Life Pills, you can tell it by the bloom of health on the cheeks; the brightness of the eyes, the firmness of the flesh and muscel; the buoyancy of the mind. Try them. At the St Helen's Pharmacy, 25 cents.

Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, D. D. pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church of Brooklyn, and one of the best known preachers and lecturers in the United States, has wired his acceptance of the invitation extended him by the Lewis and Clark Exposition authorities to preach in the Auditorium at the Fair. His date is August 27.

COUNTY AND STATE GRANGE.

Pomona at Beaver—State Grange at Forest Grove.

Pomona met at the hall of the Beaver Valley Grange on Saturday last, with an attendance of about fifty from the local granges of Columbia County. Teams met the visitors at Rainier and conveyed them over the hills to the comfortable new home of the Beaver Valley patrons, where attention was first called to a bountiful dinner which the ladies had in readiness in the upper room of the grange building. Grange dinners are very much the same wherever you meet them. There is always an abundance of the best of everything that can be procured; but it is certain that the patrons in Beaver Valley have helpmates who are mistresses of the art of cooking, and whose hospitality can not be excelled.

After dinner grange was called to order and considerable business transacted.

A resolution was adopted requesting the county court to require itemized bills of all road supervisors, setting forth the amount of work performed, date, place, teams, etc., and a rather vague statement was made that the county was being swindled in these matters.

A resolution was adopted advocating the circulation of petitions invoking the initiative in order that the people of the different precincts may elect their own road supervisor, and it was ordered that the Columbia County delegates to the State Grange present said resolutions to that body and urge its adoption.

Then a lull followed until one member propounded the conundrum, "Does fruit growing pay in Columbia County?"

"No, it don't," says one.

"Yes, it does," said another.

And at it they went.

Firing along the skirmish line soon developed into a general engagement, and the pros and cons warmly advocated their respective positions, the decision being to the effect that it paid those who made money at it, and did not pay those who lost, but that Columbia County can and does produce the best apples on earth. Incidentally the aphis family was thoroughly discussed and cussed and the Lewis and Clark Fair received a fair share of the attention of the assembled Patrons. The necessity of our county making a good showing was plainly brought out, and there is no doubt when the new crop matures Beaver Valley and the Nehalem country will be well represented.

Then supper was called and it was just as good as dinner, with oyster soup added.

After supper the grange met in the fifth degree.

The next meeting of Pomona will be the first Saturday in August, with Natal Grange, of the Mist neighborhood.

A Creeping Death.

Blood poison creeps up towards the heart, causing death. J. E. Stearnes, Belle Plaine, Minn., writes that a friend dreadfully injured his hand, which swelled up like blood poisoning. Bucklin's Arnica Salve drew out the poison, healed the wound and saved his life. Best in the world for burns and sores. 25c at St. Helen's Pharmacy.

We have not forgotten the man with the small income.

We have not overlooked the ambitious young men and women with limited means who are struggling for a musical education.

We have not disregarded the families of refined tastes but limited means that hunger for music.

We do not carry this immense variety of over 30 makes of high grade pianos merely for display.

We know that one of the most effective ways to build up a piano trade is to stimulate musical interest and make it universal, and our aim is to make it possible for every home to possess a good piano as it properly should.

People who can afford to pay $600, $800, $1000, and as much more as they please for a piano, can get a finer piano here for the price than anywhere else.

The same is true of all who purchase small priced pianos. We are prepared to suit you in price as well as in quality. Every piano we carry, from the Chickering, Weber, and Kimball to the smallest-priced one, is the very best obtainable for the price, far better than the same amount can buy anywhere else.

Remember our policy is quick sales, many of them and small profits, and that handling pianos in immense quantities to supply seven leading stores in the Northwest, we are in position to save much in cost.

Every instrument fully guaranteed and money back should purchase fail in any way to prove exactly as represented.

Write us or, better still, come in and see our pianos before you buy. Eilers Piano House, 351 Washington street corner Park.

Terrific Race With Death.

"Death was fast approaching," writes Ralph F. Fernendez, of Tampa, Fla., describing his fearful race with death, "as a result of liver trouble and heart disease which robbed me of sleep and of all interest in life. I had tried many different doctors and several medicines, but got no benefit, until I began to use Electric Bitters. So wonderful was their effect that in three days I felt like a new man, and today I am cured of all my troubles." Guaranteed at St. Helen drug store; price 50c.

Thousands of roses are now in bloom on the grounds of the Lewis and Clark Exposition.

Saved by Dynamite.

Sometimes, a flaming city is saved by dynamiting a space that the fire can't cross. Sometimes a cough hangs on so long, you feel as if nothing but dynamite would cure it. Z. T. Gray, of Calhoun, Ga., writes: "My wife had a very aggravated cough, which kept her awake nights. Two physicians could not help her, so she took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption Coughs and Colds, which eased her cough, gave her sleep and, finally cured her." Strictly scientific cure for bronchitis and La Grippe. At St. Helen's Pharmacy, price 50c and $1.00; guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

Two hundred and fifty photographs of Seattle public schools and various branches of school work will feature the Sound City's educational display at the Exposition.

EXPOSURE.

To cold draughts of air and keen cutting winds, sudden changes of temprature, scanty clothing, undue exposure of the throat and neck after public speaking and singing, bring on coughs and colds.

Ballard's Horehound Syrup is the best cure. Mrs. A. Barr, Huston, Tex. writes, Jan. 31, 1902: "One bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrop cured me of a very bad cough. It is very pleasant to take. Sold by A. J. Deming.
