Charles Black, brother of Mr. Jack Black and Mrs. H. Henderson, of St. Helens and Mrs W. F. Slaughter, of Portland, died on the Steamer Hassalo last Saturday, while on his way to the hospital in Portland. The accident which resulted in his death is thus described in Sunday's Oregonian. "Chas. Black, conductor on one of the trains on the Coal Creek Railroad Company, lost his left leg in a collision this morning near the log mill of Rue & Clydes, on Coal Creek. Train No. 1. with engine and four cars, had proceeded from a switch at the top of a steep winding grade of several hundred feet long, leaving orders for train No. 2, in charge of Black, to wait on the siding until No. 1 train returned. Orders were not heeded and Black cut off the engine from the cars of his train, loaded with large logs, and started down the grade, meeting the other train coming up, which Black apparently did not discover until too late to jump, and was caught between the logs of the two cars and his left leg was fairly mashed and torn from his body at the thigh."

Wm. Brown, a fireman on the steamer America, was drowned last Tuesday afternoon by falling from the boat while she was lying at the dock in Portland. He was sweeping the deck and walked backward as he swept until he fell into the water. There were none of the boat's crew on board at the time, and no one near enough at hand to help him, and, as he could not swim, he soon sank for the last time, not more than a half a minute having passed since his fall from the deck. His body was immediately taken from the water and a doctor called, but the attempts at resuscitation were unavailing, and the body was taken to the morgue. The account in the Oregonian was extremely unjust to the officers of the boat, as it left the impression that they stood by and saw him drown without offering to help him.

The latter has been forwarded to Washington for analysis, and may prove the basis for an important industry.

Fred North, of Kist, who has been in Chicago the past two years attending the University of Chicago, is home for a two months vacation, after which he will return and perhaps be gone another two years before he completes his education. Miss Merle Shannahan who has been teaching the Kist school, closes up her work there this week and will return to her home at Forest Grove. We shall miss you Merle.

Thomas McDonald, of Missouri, is visiting his brother, J. A. McDonald and family of Anoka, and looking at our beautiful Nehalem valley with the intention of buying him a home here if he can find one just to his liking. We shall be glad to have him become a citizen with us.

Will Wilson, son of our Wm. Wilson, who has been in Seattle the past two years has been seriously ill, we hear, with typhoid fever. Better come back to the Nehalem, Will, where we do not have any such thing as typhoid, except an occasional imported case.

Clive Mills and wife are fixing up the old hotel property on First street, and will make it their home for the winter.

Died—At the home of his parents two miles north of Vernonia, on July 26th, after an illness of only four days, of spinal meningitis, Immanuel Hall, aged six years. He was the youngest of the family and was a lovely child. The family have the sympathy of the entire community.

Harry Wilson, of Eastern Oregon, is visiting his father's family. He came over here to get cool, but found it pretty hot here in the Nehalem, as well as east of the Cascades.

John Parker and family and S. G. Wilkinson and family, of Houlton, former residents of the Nehalem, are visiting friends and relatives here. They with the other members of the Parker family, including the old people, have been up Pebble creek, fishing and hunting and taking an outing.

Mrs. R. H. Mitchell and children who have been visiting the past month, at S. P. Ballard's, returned home last week.

Mrs. D. B. Bielstein was quite sick with an attack of ye old fashioned La Grippe the latter part of last week She is much better at this writing.

John Stewart, of Portland, and a crew of timber men have been cruising in these parts the past two weeks. Timber buyers now taxe any sized tract, and they are not so particular as to whether "she scales up" as they were three years ago. The R. R. is coming. D'ye see? Yes, the R. R. is coming it would seem. The contractors are now at work grading between Hillsboro and Banks and there are two parties of surveyors on the line, one locating the route, and the other setting grade stakes. The advance crew is now this side of Boyton, coming up Dairy creek, looking out the route over the divide between its headwaters and Beaver. This is a very practical route to get into the Nehalem, really, and it will hit Vernonia. We shall be glad to hear the snort of the locomotive and then we shall know we are to have a R. R.

CLATSKANIE

Mrs Appelton and daughter, of Wisconsin, are visiting Mr. Ed Hughes, her son, and family.

R. H. Mitchell, editor of the Houlton Register, was in town Saturday and Sunday, taking in the sights of the city and watching "Clatskanie Grow."

The irrepressible G. F. Daywalt, a prosperous farmer and stockraiser of the lower Nehalem Valley, was in the city one day last week purchasing supplies for his family.

We learn that Mr. S. J. Newsome, of Portland, has bought the old Anderson Homestead, on the Fish Hawk, and will make a summer resort of it. Mr. Newsome will in a short time move his family on the place where they can hunt and fish during the summer season.

Mr. Roy Egertson having taken unto himself a wife, has rented the Casper Koberstein property, on Nehalem street, where he and his most estimable wife will reside the balance of the summer. We hear it reported that Roy has bought an interest in the store of M. E. Page and will hereafter sell sugar, calico, etc, for the new firm.

We learn that the building occupied by Mr. N. Keaty, of this place, as a store and dwelling, caught fire in the dwelling part Saturday night. The fire was discovered in time to prevent a big conflagration. Many of our citizens responded to the alarm, but before the boys could attach the hose to the hydrants the people had put the fire out.

Many teams come to town daily, loaded with lumber and shingles. The A. & C. R. R. is taxed to its utmost to haul the products of this part of the county to markets of the world.

A revival at the Methodist church in this place is in progress, under the management of Rev. J. K. Hawkins, assisted by Rev Edwards, an Evangelist. Several persons have united with the church, and on last Sunday afternoon several of the new converts were baptized in Conyers Creek, near the Maplewood cenetry.

Mrs. J. A. Smith, wife of our popular station agent, Smith, is visiting friends at PeeEll, Chehalis and Tacoma, in Washington. We learn that she expects to visit several months on the sound before returning home.

It is reported that some fellow, while on a booze, down on Bridge street, Sunday night, lost his pocket book containing about $10 and some valuable papers.

On Tuesday evening, while Mr. and Mrs. Bunce were attending church, some one broke into their house, on the west side of town, and turned everything in the house upside down. They were evidently looking for money, but failed to get any. Burned matches were found all through the house, in the bureau and trunks. It is evident that someone familiar with their place are the miscreants, and from evidence already found, there is no donbt but what it was some of the boys about town who are the guilty parties; and when caught should be put where they can't rob poor old people again. Mr. and Mrs. Bunce are old and poor, and are trying to make an honest living by washing clother, and it seems too bad that anyone would attempt to rob them of their little hard earned money.
