Talk to Ross, Columbia County Bank.

A TRAVELER—Collin Campbell, an employe of the Honeyman farm, was a visitor to the MIST office on Wednesday last. Mr. Campbell was a scout in the British service in the Transvaal during the Boer war, and left that country only about seven months ago. He reports that country to be in a quiet and prosperous condition. Mr. Campbell has been quite an extensive traveler in Europe and Asia and has been several times around the world. Mr. Campbell is a Scottish Rite Mason, belonging to St. Johns of Greenock, Scotland. He contemplates making his home in this county, and is on the outlook for a good farm. Mr. Campbell was in the Egyptian campaign in the same division with Dr. Harry Cliff, who was at that time surgeon of the 42d Highlanders, the famous Black Watch.

Mr. T. A. Cloninger, of Scappoose, was a pleasant visitor to the Mist office on Wednesday last.

We extend to our customers every facility consistent with conservative banking and are fully equipped to afford them satisfactory service and many advantages. Columbia County Bank.

THE T. J. POTTER WITHDRAWN—The steamer Potter will not be placed upon the run to the beach again this year, as the repairs made necessary by the recent accident will take about a month, and by that time the season will be drawing to a close. The traffic will be handled by the Lurline and Hassalo, and the A. & C. R. R., while special arrangements have been made for tugs to meet the trains at Astoria and take passengers across to Ilwaco.

Mr. E. Runyon, of Kansas City, a veteran of the civil war, has been visiting his comrade, Mr. Joseph Hayborn during the past week.

Our barber Mr. Beeler, has lost check No. 1 from the book furnished him by the Columbia County Bank. It was drawn in favor of W. A. Harris, and left in the book in Mr. Beeler's shop while he was absent for a short time. On his return he found the check had been torn out.

Mr. William Ross, our local banker, is seriously considering the advisability of erecting a handsome stone structure as a permanent home for the Columbia County Bank. If erected it will be two stories, the upper story to be used for offices.

CHECK UP—As the Mist is informed the tax rolls have not been checked up for over a year. Heretofore, at least under Judge Doan, the tax rolls were checked up at every regular term of the county court. No serious mistakes were found, but it is a safe practice, and might save trouble.

Mr. Huntley, while coming down the grade on a flat car at the Columbia City Logging Camp, on Tuesday last, on account of not being able to work the brake, was violently thrown by the car jumping the track, receiving a severe scalp wound. Dr. Cliff, of this city, was sent for, and dressed the wounds, and Mr. Huntley will be able to get about in a few days.

If you are thinking of changing your account, or opening a new one, we will be pleased to confer with you in person or by letter. Columbia County Bank.

Hon. Geo. W. McBride passed through St. Helens Monday on his way to Columbia City. Senator McBride informs us that a thorough prospect will be made of the coal property owned by himself and Mr. Giltner.

Mrs. Geo. Perry writes from Kansas, where she is visiting her father, that he is about recovered from the serious effects of a dose of poison oak, received while he was a visitor to Oregon.

W. A. M. BRECK, pastor.

Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity. Vide the Rainier papers.

Mrs. R. R. Carlson and daughter Mildred have been visiting a few days with Mr. Wm. M. Ross and family. Mrs. Carlson's people reside at Gresham, Or,, and recently came there from Wisconsin, where the Rosses formerly lived. Mr. Carlson is an undertaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Dillard and family, and Miss Lulu George and Sherman Miles, are camping on Scappoose Creek for a short time.

Mr. W. H. Powell was in Clatskanie several days this week on business.

FOR THE CELEBRATION—The committee appointed by the citizens of St. Helens to take charge of the celebration of laying the corner stone of the new court house, met last Tuesday in the office of the Columbia County Bank, and outlined the work as nearly as possible. There being no organized band in the county it is probable that the services of the celebrated Parsons' Band, of Portland, consisting of sixteen musicians, will be secured. Governor Chamberlain has consented to be present and it is probable that Senator Fulton will deliver the principal address. There will be a dinner at the picnic grounds, the citizens furnishing bread and butter, meat, coffee and lemonade; and in the evening there will be a free dance with first-class music. Preparations are being made to entertain over a thousand people. Two citizens of St. Helens, Mr. S. A. Miles and Mr. Chas. Muckle, have made this possible by their very liberal contributions, Mr. Miles having signed for $120 and Mr. Muckle for $100. The committee is at work securing other subscriptions, and when the list is completed they will all be published, in order that the public may know the amount of funds that have passed through the committee's hands; and, after the celebration there will be a detailed statement made of receipts and expenditures.

Quite recently he was arrested and examined before Justice Watkins on the charge of having stolen fifty dollars from a guest at the Vermont hotel, but was saved from prosecution by the testimony of a young woman. He has an ungovernable temper, and has made a nuisance of himself on several occasions. He passed St. Helens on the steamer Iralda last Monday evening.

Dr. Woodruff, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, was looking over the situation here last week with a view to founding a hospital. Rainier is to have another door factory. M. Bevens, J. Norwood and others will be the owners. Mr. Bevens is known as one of the best machine men on the Columbia river. He is an expert at designing and making fancy front doors. He has been one of the principal men in making the present door factory a success Norwood and others who will be interested are heads of departments, and men thoroughly versed in the trade We understand that the financial backing of this new company is sufficient and that they will have unlimited opportunities to grow. This means to Rainier another big crew of men on the monthly pay roll. While they are crowding time to get busy, there is the new machine shops that is working just as fast to get the wheels turning in the next sixty days. This shop means a great deal to Rainier, as there is machine work from the camps being sent to Portland every day. It will be a great convenience to the mill men and will add largely to the growing wealth of the town. There is still room for other factories here.

Engineer Jones who runs freight engine No. 19 on the A. & C., brought up from Astoria a picture of his little girl to show Miss Callie Pomeroy. The frame around the picture, in form some what like a shield, is burnt wood. The taste displayed in burning the wood is most artistic and elegant, and is his own work. A prettier frame for a picture is seldom seen. But the center piece is the prettiest of all. A man who has as pretty a little girl baby as that picture indicates, is worth at least a million dollars, and should soon be able to retire and live at ease on his wealth.

HERE IS TROUBLE.

Exemption of Household Goods is Declared Unconstitutional.

Salem, Or., July 24.—(Special to the Oregonian.)—By holding, in a decision rendered today, that the householder's tax exemption is unconstitutional, the Oregon Supreme Court has declared void a statute that has been in force in this state almost continuously since 1859. Householders' exemptions have been allowed every year except 1904, when the exemption law had been repealed. It was re-enacted by the special session of 1903, but went into effect too late to be applicable to the assessment of 1904.

Approximately $8,000,000 has been exempted from taxation in this state from year to year, and legislators, county officers and the people in general have recognized the exemption as valid. Now the Supreme Court has declared all these exemption as invalid.

This decision will make it necessary for County Assessors in many counties to make a re assessment of property in their counties for 1906, for it is the practice of many Assessors not to list property that is exempt. In some and perhaps most of the counties the Assessors list the exempt property and make the deductions afterward.

In the case in which this decision was rendered was a suit brought in Josephine County by E. G. and E. Wallace, residents of New Hampshire, against the County Court of Josephine County, to enjoin the allowance of householders' exemptions, upon the allegation that such exemption imposed upon the plaintiffs and all other non-residents an unequal rate of taxation.

The suit was brought by W. C. Hale, who, as representative from Josephine County in 1903, introduced the bill which repealed the exemption clause. The bill passed without its real purport being generally known. At the special session of the same year the exemption law was re-enacted but with the strenuous opposition of Hale, who contended that the law was unconstitutional. Hale's position has now been vindicated by a decision of the Supreme Court.

This case was decided in the Circuit Court upon a demurrer to the complaint, the demurrer being sustained by Judge H. K. Hanna. This decision is reversed in an opinion written by Justice F. A. Moore.

The opinion says in part:

The statute, in pursuance of which the partial or entire release from the exaction which the law usually demands from personal property, to support the state and county governments, is, as far as involved herein, as follows:

"The following property shall be exempt from taxation: * * * If owned by a householder and in actual use, or kept for use, by and for his or her family; household goods furniture and utensils; two cows, ten sheep, five swine, and the tools, implements, apparatus, team, vehicle, harness or library necessary to enable any person to carry on his trade, occupation or profession by which such person earns his or her living to the amount of $300, the articles to be selected by such householder; provided, however, that when the assessed valuation of the personal property above enumerated shall amount to less than $300, then only such amount as the total of such property herein enumerated shall be exempt from taxation." Laws Or. (Sp. Sess.) 1903, p. 28.

The clause of the organic law which it is alleged this section of the statute contravenes is as follows:

"The legislative assembly shall provide by law for uniform and equal rate of assessment and taxation, and shall prescribe such regulations as shall secure a just valuation for taxation of all property, both real and personal, excepting such only for municipal, educational, literary, scientific, religious or charitable purposes, as may be especially exempted by law. Const., Or., Art. IX, Sec. 1.

When the constitution was adopted, February 14, 1859, there was then in force the following statute:

"The personal property of every householder to the amount of $300, the articles to be selected by such householder, shall be exempt from taxation." Gen. Laws Or., (1845-1864), compiled and annotated by M. P. Deady, p. 630.

The fundamental law, perpetuating the enactments then on the statute books, contained the following clause:

"All laws in force in the Territory of Oregon when this constitution takes effect, and consistent therewith, shall continue in force until altered or repealed." Const. Or., Art. XVIII, Sec. 7.

It is argued by defendants' council that as the exemption from taxation of the personal property of a householder to the amount of $300 remained unaltered on the statute books from the date of its enactment, January 25, 1855, to the present time, except during the interim of its repeal and re-enactment in 1903, and as such act has been universally conceded by assessors, tax collectors and state and county officers to be valid, the clause of the constitution relating to the uniformity of assessment and taxation has thereby acquired such a contemporaneous and practical construction as ought not now to render the act in question subject to be declared invalid by the courts.

Legislative interpertation of a constitution, as evidenced by the enactment of laws which for many years have been cheerfully acquiesced in by the people affected thereby, affords potent reason for sustaining the validity of such statutes. Such legislative construction is valid unless the act evidencing the interpretation conflicts with the organic law, in which case the prior provisions of the constitution become the paramount rule.

In the absence of any constitutional inhibition, the right to make reasonable exemptions from taxation rests with the legislature. Where, however, there is a doubt in a statute attempting to remit the public burden that all property should bear, the uncertainty will be resolved in favor of the state and against the exemption.

It will be remembered that Section 1 of Article IX of our constitution limits the power of the legislative assembly to exempt property from taxation to that to be used for municipal, literary, educational, scientific, religious or charitable purposes. It is argued by defendant's counsel that the exemption of property from taxation, as evidenced by the act under consideration, is a remission by the legislative assembly of a part of the public burden for charitable purposes, and therefore within the limits of the power conferred. The exemption is evidently a valuable donation, but it is certainly not made for a charitable purpose.

We believe that the clause of the constitution prohibits the legislature from granting to the householders of the state the exemption from taxation of the property attempted by the statute, which, though in force when the organic law took effect, was inconsistent therewith and hence repealed by the adoption of the constitution, and its attempted reenactment is void as repugnant thereto, on the ground that the rate of assessment and taxation is not uniform or equal as between housenolders of the state and nouresidents.
