H. O. Howard will remove his mill to the new site in the course of a month or six weeks. The old mill has had a run of about five years at its present place and has exhausted all the timber within easy reach. The new mill will have a run of seven years, and is to be built to cut 40,000 feet per day. The amount of timber easily reached at this point has been cruised at forty million feet but there is much more. The mill building will be nearly 200 feet long and 30 feet wide and constructed in the most substantial manner. It is located on one of the branches of Beaver Creek across which a large dam has been built for a log pond. The mill is about one mile from the old site and a new plank road, over which the lumber must be hauled to town. Mr. Howard is one of the solid men of the county, and in a business way one of the men who is making Rainier a great lumber shipping point.

Counts, an addition to house more than doubling its size; Mr. Jones, the frame of a new house just up; Mr. Gilliland, a new house; Mr. Lore, a new house; James Wilson, a new cottage; P. S. Strother, a house nearly finished. These are all homes of laboring men, and represent the best class of our citizenship. Let us hope that many more will build and that two years will see Rainier with a population of 2,500.

IN MEMORIAM.

(Yankton Correspondent.)

Amanda L. Rogers was born in Mansfield, Ohio, Dec. 3, 1824; married to Edson Crosby, at Steuben, Ohio, Oct. 7, 1850, and departed this life Tuesday morning, Sept. 3, 1906, aged nearly 82 years.

In early girlhood Amanda Rogers became an active Christian, of sturdy Puritan stock, having a naturally religious temperament, broad sympathies and an energetic disposition, her life for nearly three quarters of a century has been a force for good. Her first church home was with the Congregationalist, but upon moving to Walnut, Kan., in 1896, she and her husband became members of the Baptist church of that place, remaining consistent members and earnest workers in that faith during a long life.

Mr. and Mrs. Crosby were remarkably broad in their sympathies, hospitable to a degree; wherever their lot was cast, their home was a stopping place for any needing rest, and especially for Christian workers of whatever name. Mr. Crosby was a member of Company G., 6th Iowa Cavalry, and Mrs. Crosby was one of that vast army of noble women, who made possible the saving of our country by hiding the soldier husband godspeed, while they, with even greater self-denial and courage, remained in solitude to care for the home.

They came to Oregon in 1894, stopping two years at Corvallis, and coming to Yankton in 1896. Many will remember the tragic death of Edson Crosby in June, '98, when it was thought the shock and sorrow would cause the aged wife soon to follow. But hers was a vigorous constitution, and it seemed God's will that she should live out all her days, which she did bravely and patiently, until April of last year when a paralytic stroke left her helpless and mentally clouded. Yet during the year and a half of pain and mental weakness, she welcomed her friends and responded joyfully to any question as to her faith and trust in God.

Kind hearts and ready hands cared for her faithfully during this long period of dependence, and her last days were peaceful, "till she finally 'fell to sleep' as the morning broke. These are the lines of what may be said, "She hath done what she could," and these are the foundation of our Nation's strength.

Two children survive, Mr. S. A. Crosby, with whom her last years were spent, and Mrs. Josie E. Renfro, of Usk, Wn. One daughter, Stella, aged 12 years, died at Walnut, Kan. Two of the original Rogers family remain, Mrs. Rebecca Anway, of Republic, Ohio, and Oscar Rogers, of Miles City, Mont.
