HAY FEVER

MARTIAL LAW "Having used Peruna for catarrh and hay fever, I can recommend it to all who are suffering with the above diteases. I an happy to be oble to say it has helped Palma is Determined to Crush me wonderfully." -Mayme E. Smith.

MISS MAYNE SMITH

444 East Mound Street Columbus, Ohio HAY FEVER is endemic catarra It is caused by some irritating sub stance in the atmosphere during the late summer months. It' is generally thought that the pollen of certain weeds and flowers is the cause of it.

Change of locality seems to the be only rational cure. The use of Peruna however, stimulates the nervous sys tem to resist the effects of the polson ous emanations and sometimes carries the victim through the hay fever sea son without an attack of the disease.

A large number of people rely upor Peruna for this purpose. Those who do not find it convenient to change their location to avoid Hay Fever would do well to give Peruna a trial. It has proven of priceless value to many peop'e.

A Curlous Silk.

Sicily supplies a curious silk which is spun by the pdina, a Mediterranean shell-fish which has a little tube at the end of its tongue. Out of this tube, spider-fashion, or silkworm-fashion, it spins a slik thread, with which it fastens itself on any rock it fancies. When the puins moves its silken cable remains behind. This cable, which is called byssus, the Sicilian fishormen gather. Byssus weaves into the softest and shinlest of fabrics, but it it very rare and expensive.

"It is easy for your president to say the solution of the labor problem on bounteous hand of nature. Where they go on their journeys or precisely what they do, no white man knows to this quite another matter to get coolies in day, or is ever likely to know, says the Philadelphia Ledger.

Less than a year ago I met with and spoke in English to an Italian merchant in the wilds of Matto Grosso, the northwestern province of Brazil, whose capital city is five weeks' journey from the seat of government at Rio de Jane iro. For twenty years he had not heard the sound of English volce and during all those years rubber has been flow ing through his hands, down the giant River Paraguay, on its way to the mar canal. I think I can sum up their feel- kets of the world, via Buenos Ayres or Montevideo. Yet of its actual produc tion he knows little.

To skip, in spirit, from the north east coast of South America across the south Atlantic to tropical Africa, the Congo, the Gold Coast, the Zambes! Uganda and other parts, is not a difficult undertaking. But here all is changed, and, instead of having noble forest trees at his disposal, the rub berhunter finds himself dependent on snaky, climbing, twisting vines for his rubber supplies, vines which usurp every inch of territory they can invade, and render a passage through the forests a matter of great difficulty and some danger.

These vines, known as "landolphias." of which there are several species, are members of the natural order spocynaces and are common to the whole of tropleal Africa. They differ from the American trees, in that they produce rubber in the center of the stem, as well as from the cells underlying the inner comblum, but what quantity each plant will produce there are data to base an estimate upon.

Although the landolphias form the min source of the African rubber supply, yet there is at least one family of trees which yields a supplementary contribution to the sum total. The funtumila or kloksia, of which there are two species, elastica and Africania, was worked to a considerable extent a chief of a century ago, but it does not now seem to be a fashionable plant to cultivate a close associationship with. It resembles the hevea to some degree, but is smaller, of softer growth, and requires a little less rainfall to uxuriate. Turning to India, and to Asia gener illy, it will not be found that the con inent is rich in indigenous rubber searing plants. The ficus elastica, the Indian rubber plant of the window gardener, is found in Assam and Burma and the federated Malay states, but ts produce is of very inferior quality. Certain climbers also yield rubber, the three chief ones being the urceola, honemorpha, and the Willoughbia. are being cultivated in India, etc., is sufficient proof of the poorness of the ontinent of Asia in indigenous rubberbearing plants,

Cears rubber is collected by stabbing the tree in a number of places close together, and as the juice exudes it ongulates in the air, and is rolled up balls by the collectors. It is usually in a dirty state when it comes to the market.

The product of the ficus elastica and the product of the heus elastica and the other Asiatic plants is usually sim-ply sun-dried; the rubber from the the other asiatic plants is usually simtough," replied the housekeeper accus-entirely from roots, herbs and barks, it does not disagreeably affect the system in any way as do most of the so-called tonics on the market, which contain Potash or some other harmful mineral ingredient to derange the stomach and digestion, unfavorably affect the bowels, or otherwise damage the health. S. S. S. tones up the stomach and digestion and assists in the assimilation of food; it rids the system of that always-tired, worn-out feeling, and imparts vigor and tone to every part of the body. It reestablishes the healthy circulation of the blood, stimulates the sluggish organs, and calms the unstrung nerves which make one feel that he is on the verge of prostration. S. S. S. gives an appetite and relish for food that nothing else does, and by its use we can find ourselves with as hearty, hungry an appetite in Spring as at any other season.

It acts more promptly and gives better and more lasting results than any other remedy, and is absolutely safe because of its vegetable purity. Dyspeptic, irritable, nervous, debilitated people will find S. S. S. is just the medicine that is needed for the purification of the blood, which, from its diseased or impure condition, is causing their trouble, as well as for toning up and helping the entire system. When you take your tonic this Spring do not experiment, but get the best-the tonic with forty years of success behind it, and the one endorsed by the best people all over the country-S. S. S., THE GREATEST OF ALL TOMIOS. It is necessary at this time, when the system is depleted and weakened at every point, that the right remedy be used-one that is especially adapted to the condition, and S. S. S. has proved itself to be this remedy for many years. If it is taken at the first sign of Spring the system will be so built up and strengthened that the disagreeable affections of the season will not be felt as warmer weather comes on.
