IMPRISONING LABOR LEADERS

Says the Oregonian:

"When Mr. Gompers protests to the world that the sacred right of free speech and free press is violated, in that he and his coadjutors are restrained from ut tering matter to injure and destroy a business with which they are at variance because they do not yield to their demands, he and they are pushing the claim for free speech and free press to a limit which it is impossible to allow.

And when injunction is issued to prevent them from doing this, and nevertheless they disregard the injunction and persist in speech and publication, with intent to destroy a business that refuses to submit to their terms, they are to be taught and they must learn that the principle of free speech and of free press, sacred as it is, must be used under the same limitations as any other right; so used, that is to say, as not to injure others.

The right to do a lawful business is a natural right and a personal right and a property right; and it is a proper business of society or government to see that the right shall be protected and not destroyed.

The right of free speech and of free press are indeed sacred rights; and so is the right to carry a shot-gun. But you are not to injure or destroy your neighbor with the one or with the other."

This is specious and sounds fair to many, and yet it all depends:

It depends, in the first place, upon the nature of the demands made. Slavery was legalized, and yet no one will now argue that it was wrong to denounce it, and many have gone so far as to justify John Brown and the managers of the underground railroad in their clearly illegal attempts to interfere with the property rights of the slave owners.

Tenement house cigar factories, bakeries, etc., were legal employments and occupations prior to the enactment of laws secured by the denunciations of organized labor.

Organized labor has the same legal rights as unorganized labor, and members of labor unions have the same individual rights as their opponents. They have a perfect moral right to denounce an unjust employer and to advise their friends not to patronize him.

It is right to use a free press and free speech to destroy a business that deserves to be destroyed or to compel the owner or manager of such business to conduct it in a manner conforming to an enlightened age. It is wrong to use either of these agencies for selfish ends or to compel a submission to unjust demands. The quarrel between organized labor and the Buck Stove Company is one of long standing. The unions boycott the Buck Stove and the company boycotts union labor. They denounce each other and place their case before the public. Both have the same rights. But the court, in the case under discussion, says the laboring men shall not be permitted, through their papers, to advise their friends to refuse to patronize the company's products, and sentences the labor leaders to a year in jail.

It is a safe prophecy that labor will not be taught and will refuse to learn from such an instructor. It will continue to present its case to the public and when it is in the right the public will sustain it.

Just at present there is some feeling against Mr. Gompers because he endeavored to deliver the vote of the labor unions to the Democratic party. In so doing he injured the cause he espouses, but his effort demonstrated that unions will refuse to be used for such purposes, but they will sustain their leaders in the present contest, and, should the decision of the appellate court be against them they will, as did the abolitionists, appeal to the higher law and continue the fight for free speech and free press. The decision the Oregonian now applauds may at a future time come back to vex it.

Prune Souffle

"For prune souffle, wash and pick over three fourths of a cupful of prunes," writes Fannie Merritt Farmer, in Woman's Home Companion for January. "Put in a sauce pan, cover with cold water, and let soak two hours. Cook in the same water until soft, by which time the water should be nearly evaporated. Remove the stones, and cut the prunes in small pieces; then sprinkle with one half cupful of sugar. Beat the whites of four eggs until stiff, and add the prunes gradually. Pour into a slightly buttered pudding dish, and bake in a moderate oven until firm. Chill and serve with custard sauce. Beat the yolks of three eggs slightly, and add three tablespoonfulls of sugar and a few grains of salt; then add gradually, while stirring constantly, one and one hal cupfuls of scalded milk. Cook in a double boiler until the mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Strain, chill, and flavor with vanilla."

THE JUDGE APPOINTS

Some doubt having arisen as to whether the power to fill the vacancy existing in the office of the county commissioner was vested in the county Judge alone or in the judge and remaining commissioner, Deputy District Attorney Miller, upon request of Judge Dart, wrote to the Attorney General of Oregon asking for his openion, and has received an answer, from which we submit the following extracts:

"Mr. M. E. Miller, St. Helens, Oregon.

Dear Sir: Replying to yours of the 26th instant, in which you write for the county judge and ask the opinion of this office as to whether when a county commissioner of a county has resigned the appointment is filled by the judge or by the judge and remaining commissioner acting together, permit me to say that it is filled by the county court, and the judge, in my opinion, constitutes the county court for that purpose."

The attorney general then cites section 1 of article VII of the Constitution, Russell v. Lewis, 3 Oregon, 380 and section 12 of Article VII, and says:

"Said section only provides for two commissioners to sit with the Judge while transacting county business. They are really no part of the county court except when transacting county business. And county business, in my opinion, relates to the financial matters of the county and not to the filling of vacancies in office."

The attorney general is fully convinced that the county judge has the power and right to make the appintment without consulting the remaining comilssioner.

Ganderbone's Forecasts

For January

The smokers will
Resolve to quit
And once for all
Have done with it.
They'll buy their wives
Some thnigs they need
With what they save
Upon the weed
And else and
Otherwise fulfill
Their resolutions—
Yes-s-s they will.

The men who drink
Will all renounce
Their booze and rush
To water founts.
They'll cross themselves
And hope to die,
Exhort the country
To go dry,
And join with
Temperance to kill
The liquir traffic—
Yes-s-s they will.

The men who swear
Will resolute
To give up "Hell!" and "Damn!"
For "Shoot!"
And oaths like "Piffles!"
"Fudge!" and "Dear!"
Will supersede
Within the year
Such things as "What-
The-Hotel-Bill"?
And "Hell-and-blazes!"
Yes-s-s they will.

The calendar will change with the usual wakes for the old year and greetings for the new. Most of us will immediately date our correspondence 1909, but forgetinl people like Mr. Archbold and Mr. Rockefeller will continue dating checks 1908.

The old year will be little mourned by Democrats and coldly greeted by lions. It will find the peace tribunal at The Hague closed and the House staff attending the wars in Venzuela, Hayti, Washington, and Mrs. Nation's address in Scotland.

The end of leap year will provoke
Few bachelor regrets,
And the stork will step up like a man
And pay his baby bets.
The Roosevelt regime will make
It's plans to go a-gunning,
And lions, hippos and giraffes
Will practice up at running.

The Romans tried to make March the first month in the year, but after about half of the Irish had frozen to death trying to march on the 17th. Numa rearranged the calendar as a merciful concession to that valuable colony.

January was one of the months devised for that occasion. It was named for Janus, whom the Romans called "the porter of Heaven." He opened and closed Heaven, kept it nicely dusted, made up the berths, and whenever he caught a man in there who was not keeping his newspaper subscription paid up, he chased him into the smooker.

No other man is so appropriately named as this, for Janus was regarded by the ancients as the beginning and the end of all things. He is famous for having had a second face on the back of his head, and resembled Mr. Harriman coming and Mr. Lawson going. His temple at Rome was historic. When the empire was at war its gates were thrown open, and in peace they were closed. This continued until the time of Augustus, who is said by Prof. Ferreo to have been the prototype of Mr. Roosevelt. At any rate, Augustus cast the gates of the temple into the Tiber and made it a prison for liars, mollycodles, couples without children, editors, congressmen, nature fakers, rich malefactors, religious bigots, reactionaries and undesirable citizens.

The row between the President
And Congress will become
The hottest thing since David smashed
Goliath's cerebrum.
The outraged House will paw the earth,
The Senate will get flip,
The President will rub his fist
Against its upper lip,
The air will be a mass of fur,
And ripping expletives,
And the timid Congressman will run
From there to where he lives.

The air will pulsate with the rush of bitter verbal shot, the sports will bet on whether Ted will take it back or not, the old men will get on the roof and utter their defies, the President will show his teeth and bulletin the lies, a special messinger now and then will heighten the hub-bub, and a dozen men a day will join the Ananias Club.

The Congressmen will blister Ted,
And he will soak them back.
The Senate will put in a punch
And get a counter smack.
They'll say some ugly things to him,
And he will bawl them out,
The dignity of government
Will dance, ki-yi and shout,
The old Patomac will become
A raging sea of foam.
The public servants family
Will beg him to come home.
The shin ice will divert the world
By reason of its heat,
And Loeb will let it run a while.
And then send for the fleet.

After that we shall have Taft weather with cooler relations at Washington. Cabinet selections will be announced on Tuesdays and Fridays. The rich will go to the winter resorts, and eggs will go to 40c. The new sign of the zodiac will be Aquarius, the water carrier, whose influence, will begin on the 30th. This will enable anyone who has kept on the waster wagon from the 1st to remain permanently seated. Persons born under Aquarius vote dry. They have bad memories, and rise to confidential positions with the trusts. They are also very knowing, but they don't know when prosperity will return.

The moon will be full on the 6th and Mercury will become evening star on the 25th. Mr. Rockefeller will reach his Southernmost declination on the 20th, when he will turn up at Atlanta, Ga., for the midwinter golf solstice. Golf takes his mind off the danger of the oil giving out.

The Wrights will temporarily give away to the price of butter, which will stay up until spring. The favorite sport of the month will be pie-hunting. Mrs. Nation will carry the war into London and will show the suffragettes how to get locked up in the Tower.

Our absent fleet will make Suez,
Continuing its bum,
And things in Africa will think
That Roosevelt has come.
There'll be a stampede to the South.
And many trembling lips
Will pass the word that he's arrived
With sixteen battle ships.

And brief February of the groundhog will be due, and we'll discover pretty quick if he's a liar too.
