County Official Paper

THE PAST CAMPAIGN

The editor of the Mist has no excuse to make to anyone for this paper's course during the past campaign. He was elected chairman of the Republican County Committee and did his best by all means to secure the election of the entire ticket, State and County, and if any part of the ticket has failed of success it is through no fault of his. The best speakers at the disposal of the State Committee have held meetings in the principal towns of the county, and nearly all of the small campaign fund raised by contribution of the Candidates has been used to defray their expenses and for the circulation of campaign literature.

The Democratic candidates in the county campaign have been treated with the utmost courtesy and no charge has been made against them. Mr. Thompson's friends at Clatskanie seem to feel aggrieved because the Mist would not publish in his card the charge, indirectly made against the Republicans, of "Machine methods." We wrote Mr. Thompson as follows:

St. Helens, Or., Oct. 10, 1910
Mr. A. E. Thompson—
Dear Sir: I am publishing your card this week omitting the lines in regard to machine methods. I do not think it fair for you or any other candidate to make so vague a charge. If you have any specific charge to make against Republicans, do so over your own signature and the Mist will publish it free of cost. If you do not wish your card published without that line, let me know and it will cost you nothing for the issue.

Respectfully yours,
E. H. FLAGG.

We think the great majority of people will say that is a perfectly fair proposition and of course we care nothing for the opinion of the Clatskanie Siwash. Whatever may be the truth of the conflicting affidavits in regard to Sheriff White's conduct at Clatskanie on the night of September 24th, it must be admitted that the editor of this paper, as Chairman of the Republican County Committee, was entitled to believe that he was telling the truth, and we acted on that supposition. If we were wrong the methods of the opposition are to blame. The offense was alleged to have been committed on September 24th, and yet the charge was not made until November 1st, and no notice was given that such a charge was pending. Messrs. Norman Merrill, Henry Kratz, I. S. Bumgardner, J. W. McDonald, J. N. Rice and V. S. Malcom sign their names to a statement indorsing the statements published in the Clatskanie Chief, and yet these gentlemen must admit that in fairness to the Republican campaign managers, and in compliance with the spirit of the Corrupt Practices Act, the charge should have been made sooner and proper notice that it would be made given to Sheriff White. Of course, if the charges are absolutely true in every particular, that is a defense against prosecution, but we submit that the opponents of Martin White, knowing, as they claim, that he violated the law, owed it to the people of this county to make their charges at an earlier date. As to Harry Knighton, who made the affidavit, he either swore falsely then or when he took his oath of office, and his unsupported affidavit was entitled to no consideration whatever.

Just one more statement: The Mist and its editor never have been the recipients of any considerable amount of patronage from the Sheriff's office. We do not believe the records will show we have had over $10 a year of the Sheriff's printing. Sheriff sale ads have been published wherever the parties interested requested—some of them in the Clatskanie Chief, whose former proprietors and their friends were strong supporters of Mr. White. If the Clatskanie Siwash knew anything about the politics of this county he would know that Mr. White has not been friendly to the political aspirations of the editor of the Mist. On the contrary, we have received much more encouragement, especially in Clatskanie precinct, from the men who made the fight against Mr. White.

SAFEGUARDING LIFE

A short time ago a man was killed in an accident on the logging road of the Peninsula Logging Company. He had attempted to make a coupling and had missed. As he raised his head the ends of the logs on the two cars came together and crushed out his life. The coroner took the testimony of the foreman of the camp, and we believe of two others, both of whom held that the accident was the fault of the dead man, the theory being, we suppose, that he should have dodged down and out instead of rising. It is, of course, possible that he tried to do so and met with some kind of an interference that caused him to raise his head and meet his death. He may have slipped and, recovering, raised up, or he may have been struck by a pebble or a weed. He is dead and cannot tell just how the accident occurred.

We do know however that no such accident could have occurred on the logging road of the Columbia Timber Company, or any other road where automatic couplings are used, and we believe the law requires that all roads use the automatic coupler. If it does not it should. Life and limb are altogether too cheap in the logging camps of Columbia County. The attention of the Labor Commissioner is drawn to the matter, and we trust he will see to it if there is a law providing for automatic couplers, that the law is enforced and if there is no such law, that companies be prevented from loading their cars in such a manner that when a coupling is missed the logs will come together. The manager of one of the biggest camps in the county informs us that this method of loading is wrong and should be done away with.

A PUBLIC DISGRACE

When a person comes to St. Helens by boat the first impression that they receive of the town is the following sign, displayed in large and bold type:

NOTICE

This dock is not safe for man or beast.

What kind of a feeling does this create in their mind? Does it make them realize what a good town they have struck or do they think that the residents of this town have a poor dock service that requires visitors to come in to the town over a dock which they say that they would not allow their live stock to pass over. The owner of the dock is in no blameable, as it is through his liberality that we have had any dock at all for some time, and the signs are only the protection to which he is entitled.

There has for some time been considerable talk of a public dock. At a recent meeting of the city council the matter of putting up such a structure on some of the tide lands that are now in dispute was discussed and it is just probable that it will be done.

Some of the anti-prohibition workers in Missouri would be glad to see the water wagon hitched to a vagrant balloon that is trying for the long distance record.

MY SUIT OF CONFEDERATE GREY

(Words by James V. Clay, Pickett's Division, Garrett's Brigade, Gettysburg, Pa., July 3, 1863.)

I never was one of the careful kind,
For saving and hoarding away;
If it were not so, I'd never have been
In a room of the care of the thrifty and keen
I had none of the care of the thrifty and keen
When the wages of toil could claim,
But was the pleasure of spending the same.

There is just one thing I would like to keep,
As carefully hoarded away,
As the gold of the miser, and that one thing
It was made on a Southern loom, of wool
From sheep that were Southern bred;
It was fashioned and woven by the fairest hands
That ever held needle and thread.

I was proud and bright when I put it on,
As proud as a prince was I,
Of my wife, the suit, and the cause in which
I was pledged to conquer or die.
I dreamed not of failure, thought not of defeat,
As I turned to the conflict away
From mother, wife, children and home
In my suit of Confederate grey.
It is fairer than silk, it is denser than gold,
More precious by far this day;
The treasure of my heart and life
Is my suit of Confederate grey.

After one battle came General Lee
And rolled in his stead where I lay,
In a puddle of blood between comrades slain,
In my suit of Confederate grey.
As I turned to the conflict away
From mother, wife, children and home
In my suit of Confederate grey.
It is fairer than silk, it is denser than gold,
More precious by far this day;
The treasure of my heart and life
Is my suit of Confederate grey.

Oh it carries me back, I'm a soldier again,
Light-hearted, daring and gay,
I'm a Southern rebel whenever I look
At my suit of Confederate grey.
Put it on me when my form is breathless and cold
In the dust of the grave shall I lay,
For I want to rest till the Great Captain's call
In my suit of Confederate grey.

LARGER WARSHIPS FOR UNITED STATES

Washington—Plans for bigger battleships with heavier armor will be presented to congress during the forthcoming session by Secretary of the Navy Meyer when the question of the building program is taken up for consideration.

Naval experts have practically agreed that the new type of ship, of which congress will be asked to authorize the building of two, will be larger and heavier than the 27,000 ton ships now under construction. The tonnage limit will be increased to at least 28,000 and probably 29,000 when the plans are matured.

The building program will probably include torpedo destroyers, and one additional ship, either an ammunition repair, supply or hospital ship. An important change in the building program will be enlargement of the destroyers to 1000 tons. The largest now afloat in the United States navy are 750 tons. This means that the larger grayhounds of the navy, the scout destroyers, will become an obsolete class.

RAISE POSTAGE ON MAGAZINES

Washington—President Taft and Postmaster-General Hitchcock have reached an agreement on the recommendations the President will make to congress regarding a change in the second-class postage rates affecting magazines and other periodicals. Mr. Taft will recommend that magazines be required to pay the present rate of 1 cent a pound on all reading matter, and a much higher rate, to be determined later, on advertising pages.

TACOMA RECOUNT SOON

Washington—Chief Census Statistician Hunt, accompanied by his confidential secretary, L. V. Bowles, has started for Tacoma to conduct the report that was ordered after the report had been made that padding in the census returns from that city had been committed. Hunt will make a complete reenumeration of Tacoma. He said before leaving that he expected to complete the work within a week after his arrival. Hunt said he would have 12 experts from the Pacific coast and 150 enumerators to assist him in the work.

Dear Friend:
I usen't to like tea but I like it now, because we get good tea.

tea that we get now only costs 50 cts. a pound, and my, it tastes so good. When you go to buy it you can tell it by the smell. When I came home from school today I came by the grocery and got a pound of Gunpowder tea and some lemons and some cookies because Mama had a little tea party this afternoon.

Your friend,
