FRATERNAL ORGANIZATION

Did you ever stop to think of the immense amount of good that is being done in the United States by fraternal organizations? To bring it down within your immediate vision, think of what the different orders mean to the people of Columbia County. There is no community of any size without its lodges, camps, tents, or whatever the different orders see fit to call their organizations, and they all have their band of enthusiastic members, and very many own their own place of meeting. Their members are among our best citizens, and they are always glad to extend a fraternal greeting and help to the best of their ability a worthy brother or sister. The amount they disperse in this county annually runs well into the thousands of dollars, and this is not cold charity, given grudgingly but the aid one member of a family owes to another whom misfortunes has overtaken. Nor does their kindness end with a brother's death. It is extended to his family after the Grim Reaper has taken the bread winner from them and it helps the widows and orphans who otherwise might be compelled to seek aid from the county authorities. But this is not all the good work done by the fraternities, nor is it the most important. The lodge room takes the place of the reading room, and afford a place of meeting and social communion. The young man who joins a fraternal order at once secures an acquaintanceship among the better class of citizens—selfrespecting men of good standing in the community. His admission is a rocognition of his merit and every tenet of the order is calculated to make of him an upright and honorable man. For these reasons we regard with pleasure the growth of the fraternal orders in Columbia County and trust their membership may keep pace with the county's growth during the year 1911.

MR. BOWERMAN'S PLAN

The information is given out from Salem that in all probability the plan outlined by Jay Bowerman during the recent campaign for the purchase of all State supplies will be adopted by the State Board. Mr. Bowerman called attention to the fact that a great sum could be saved by letting the contract for all supplies needed by the State institutions in one contract. He proved that there was a great and unnecessary difference between the cost of supplies for the different institutions and promised, if elected, that he would bring about a reform in this respect. No doubt he lost many votes among those who had heretofore enjoyed the great benefits of the old system—possibly enough to account for his defeat. It is gratifying to know, however, that his agitation of the subject will probably be beneficial to the State.

Why not complete the organization of the St. Helens Commercial Club? There are sufficient signers to the roll and a number of others could be secured. A room in the city hall was planned for this organization and we trust meeting will soon be called.

WANTED—A good poultry and bee man. Inquire at this office.

THE PROSPECTS

A deal is now on foot and will probably be consummated in the course of a few days whereby a group of Eastern capitalists will obtain the holdings of George Lemont between the railroad and the river just north of town. The consideration is to be $20,000. The tract contains something over fifty acres, and the location is ideal from the standpoint of the manufacturer. On the one side he has one of the finest rivers in the world, with a good deep water frontage. On the other boundary is direct connection with the great transcontinental railroads. This deal will mean that St. Helens will soon have another large industry, with a good pay roll, and an increase in the number of homes here.

At the first increase in the demand for lumber the St. Helens Mill Company will put on a night shift. They are now running their big mill to its full capacity with one crew and can hardly keep up. Besides, there are a number of advantages to be gained by running night and day. While the output is of course doubled, the expenses are not. The cost of insurance, taxes, office expenses, and innumerable other items remain the same whether the plant is in actual operation ten or twenty hours. Also, the stockholders are getting twice the action on their money.

Work on the mill of the St. Helens Timber Company above town will soon be finished and the plant in operation.

Both the St. Helens Quarry Company and the Columbia Contract Company are turning out all the rock that their immense crushers and modern equipment can handle. There are also a large number of blockmakers working close to town. At the plant of the St. Helens Quarry Company they are now at work prospecting for another strata of rock suitable for the manufacture of blocks, beneath the one that has already been worked off. While the company has an abundance of rock to keep their crushers grinding for a long time to come, the discovery of a second strata of good rock right on the river front would greatly increase the value of their property.

St. Helens is backed by as fine a farming country as ever existed. Nowhere does the big red apple grow to as near perfection as on the sunny hill sides of this section. A few years will see intensified farming in this neighborhood carried on to a degree that was not even dreamed of ten years ago.

Also, the electric road that will run from this city to Portland and tap the surrounding country will be a factor in the prosperity of St. Helens. And some day, though doubtless that in the more distant future, the steel trust will have need of the immense deposits of coal and iron that are to be found in the hills near here—and when that time comes who can say that St. Helens will not be the Pittsburg of the West?

HARRISON GRAY OTIS

The Manufacturers' Association of Portland, which includes only a small per cent of the manufacturers of that city, has had as its guest this week the most rabid opponent of labor organizations, Harrison Gray Otis of Los Angeles. The Manufacturers' Association professes to believe in what is known as "the open shop," but Mr. Otis believes in the closed shop. That is, he would not permit a man to work unless he first renounced his allegiance to a trade union. Mr. Otis has made a fortune out of this idea, and his paper has the support of all who deny the right of workingmen to organize for their own protection, and this pays well. The Typographical Union, against which Otis' efforts are mainly directed, is one of the most intelligent and conservative organizations in the country, Otis being the only newspaper proprietor of any consequence on the Pacific Coast who opposes it. No organization of capitalists has done as great good to as great a number, and the best men of the country acknowledge its usefulness. There are unions and unions and capitalists and capitalists. Mr. Otis is a disturbing factor wherever he goes, and when he has the nerve to state that "Portland will be prosperous if it is not affected by the scourge of unionism," the union laborers upon the great skyscrapers Portland is building can afford to look down upon and laugh at him. Portland, or any other important city, without union labor would soon be a home for the bats and the owls.

OREGON ACTIVITIES.

A Few Items Showing That This Is the State to Live In

Oregon's financial condition, as shown by the State Treasurer's report is in excellent condition. There is $424,913 on hand, with no debts, bonded or otherwise.

Oregon raises the best apples. This is no idle boast for not only has this state won the sweepstakes at the Spokane National Apple Show two successive years but also captured the first prize of 1,000 at the Chicago show this year.

Four hundred boxes of Comice pears grown near Medford, sold in the London market this season for $10 a box.

Siberia is buying Oregon apples. One hundred boxes of choice Hood River fruit was recently shipped there for sale.

Rogue River orchardists will plant 1,500,000 pears and apples trees this season. This new planting will cover 20,000 acres and bring the total orchard acreage in that valley to 85,000.

State banks have been prosperous this year, as shown by the report of State Bank Examiner Wright, who found individual deposits in Oregon banks on November 10 totaled $104,207,300, a net gain since November 16, 1909, of $14,221,550. Total resources of Oregon banks increased during the year almost twenty million dollars.

OUR PORTLAND LETTER

Apple Show Opens Way to Collective Selling of Northwest Fruit

Portland, Or. Dec. 15—[Special] Oregon's recent apple show was not only a great fruit exposition but it marked the beginning of a movement to organize the fruit growers of the whole Pacific Northwest on a practical basis for the more profitable handling of their product. President Atwell included the suggestion in his annual address, and, as a result, a call will be issued by him within the next sixty days for a meeting at Portland, where the matter will be gone into thoroughly. Prominent apple growers, representing the various districts, will participate in the formation of the company, which will be along the lines of the raisin growers of the Sacramento Valley, the orange growers of Riverside, Cal., and the pear growers of the Rogue River Valley.

The biggest wheat cargo ever sent away from the Columbia river was that taken the past week by the tramp steamship the Bjornstjerne Bjornsen, which sailed with 305,866 bushels for Europe. This is the second largest cargo of wheat ever loaded on the Pacific Coast.

Medford has a chance to crow over the showing made by the late census as disclosed in the reports recently issued. With one exception, says the census bureau, Medford shows the greatest percentage of growth of any city in the United States during the last ten-year period. The city that outdoes Medford is Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, which has a percentage gain of 398. Medford's percentage of growth is 392.

The protected cruiser Boston has been turned over to the Oregon Naval Reserve for use in maneuvers and in perfecting the training of the volunteer sailors who made up the organization. The crusier will first be put in good condition, certain repairs being necessary to fit her for the purpose, and she will then be turned over to the Oregon Reserve to be used as an armory for the men and a training ship to teach naval service to those who have onlisted
