OUR PORTLAND LETTER

Portland, Or., July 25 (Special)—The Oregon family of commercial bodies will have a big reunion August 14, 15 and 16 at Astoria, when the annual convention of the Oregon Development League will be held. The program, as arranged tentatively, includes a large number of the most prominent publicity men of the country. Notable addresses are scheduled that deal with the various phases of community building and a big impetus will be given to the development movement now so strongly under way throughout the state.

James J. Hill, Judge Robert S. Lovett, Louis W. Hill, Howard Elliott., and other railroad men of prominence throughout the country are expected to attend the sessions of the convention. The lines they represent are paying more attention than ever before to the Pacific Northwest and what they have to say will be listened to with interest by people of this state.

Advices reaching the office of Secretary C. C. Chapman of the League indicate there will be a large attendance. Commercial bodies so far heard from intend to send big delegations. The fact that the Astoria Centennial celebration will be in progress at the same time will undoubtedly add to the attendance.

Believing the women of the state have direct interest in better roads, the Mothers' Congress, which is a branch of the national organization, has identified itself with the movement and Mrs. George T. Gerlinger, of Dallas, head of the Good Roads and Rural School committee, has taken steps to have the school children aid in the work. Boys are expected to report road conditions to the proper authorities and if the rising generation can be interested in highway improvement, it is thought the future will provide better roads.

After an extended trip through Central Oregon, covering it for the first time, C. C. Chapman, secretary of the Oregon Development League, returned to Portland much impressed with its future. "It is better than Colorado or New Mexico, and just as good as the best parts of Utah and Montana," he said. "What is needed is for Portland to know more about the interior and to co-operate with the people of that section of Oregon for building up its agricultural opportunities."

Secretary of the Interior Fisher will visit Oregon next month, inspecting the reclamation projects under way here. He will learn of conditions prevailing in respect to forest reserves, vacant government lands and the other matters under his control. He will also visit other Pacific Coast sections and Alaska.

British Columbia is interested in opening the Columbia River to navigation as far as Ravelstoke, B. C., and then on to Lake Windemere, not far from the source of that stream. Oregon and Washington are aiding to make the river navigable from its mouth to the Canadian border.

Oregon may soon have a silk industry. A colony of Italians will settle in Wasco County next month and the immigrants expect to raise mulberry trees for silk worms. The newcomers are said to be experienced in this industry in their own country and they find on investigation that Oregon is suited to the growth of the industrious worm and the manufacture of its gossamer fibre.

BRIDGE INSPECTED

Last Monday Judge Dart and County Commissioners W. K. Tichenor and John Farr were in the City inspecting the newly constructed concrete bridge over Nice Creek. They were very well pleased with the bridge and its appearanch. While here they decided to have the county road graded past the Wilson's and Phillip's places and the dirt removed used to make the fills of the bridge. The cost of this work will be from $500 to $600. There was at one time talk of putting one more span to the bridge. This would have cost about $1400. By the present arrangement, the County Court saves $800, and get besides the completed bridge, the road graded for quite a distance.

Tuesday the false work from the three east spans were removed.

When Engineer Orrin Backus applied his instruments, he found that the bridge had not settled one thousandth of an inch. As it is a common thing for these bridges to deflect up to one fourth of an inch he was very much pleased with the success of this design.

When completed the cost will be less than $2.00 per surface foot; about two thirds of the cost of similar bridges to the city of Portland.

There is yet to be put on an oiled macadam surface. The contractors LeDeaux and Ehrman expect to have the bridge open to the public by about August 1.

T. J. Walsh, chief engineer for the Portland Automobile Club was down last week and looked the structure over and said that it was the best county bridge in Oregon.—REVIEW.
