M. as the time for hearing of objections to said final account and the settlement of said said estate.

Guardian of the person and estate of Donald Keith Carr, Minor. Date of first publication August 4th 1911. Date of second publication September 1st 1911.

Mr. N. O. Larabee, the postmaster at Trenholm, the new office at the old bolt camp, was a business visitor to the county seat, and of course subscribed to the Mist while in town. He reports that everything in his neighborhood is booming, and that from two families up are buying in the holdings of the Western Cooperaage Co. The company has cut a large tract up in ten acre places and is selling them rapidly. Most of these people will move onto their new places in the fall. The school house at Trenholm is completed and is a mighty good structure. The contract for it's erection was taken by Professor Shute, of Clatskanie.

Beginning the first of this month, the City of Houlton will get its water supply through a meter, and the City Council pay the Water Commission of this place for all of the water used in the town, and the water users in turn pay the Council. This arrangement has been under consideration for some time by the Water Commission, as it is a hard matter for the superintendent to keep track of the water users at Houlton and see that they do not leave the faucets turned on all the time. The charge made is very reasonable, being 10c per 1000 gallons, with a minimum rate of $60. This amount does not seem a large sum for the water for a town of 300 people when the people of this place are keeping up the interest on $50,000 used in the construction of the water system.

The Clatskanie Indians added another scalp to their collection last Sunday when they took the Eaton's, of Portland into camp by a 2 to 0 score. The game was a dandy, and the home team had the best of it from the start. One of the tallies was made by Smiling Rufe Elliott clouting out a home run. This and a beautiful one handed catch by Uksela, together with the stingy pitching of Joe Haggin, was the feature of the game. The left hander gave four scattered hits. The batteries were, Clatskanie, Haggin and Elliott; Ratons, Aronid and Bartholomew.

Miss Eva Burns, of Hudson, visited with Miss A. J. Ketel on Tuesday.

The County Court went to Rainier last Wednesday for the purpose of inspecting the new concrete bridge across Nice Creek at that place, and they are more than pleased with the structure. This bridge is, without a doubt, the finest county bridge in the State of Oregon, and it would be impossible to put up a better structure for the purpose it was designed for. The bridge, contrary to the expectations of even the contractors and engineers, has not settled the smallest fraction of an inch, though generally these bridges do settle a trifle. The court had about fifteen tons of concrete, nine horses, four wagons, a quantity of lumber and thirty persons on the middle bed of the bridge, which is quite a severe test in itself, as altogether the weight on this one part of the structure must have been nearly thirty tons. It is too much to urge that all of the bridges in the county be made of concrete in the future, though there seems to be no doubt but that this style of bridge will be adopted almost universally at some time. But the steel bridges that are being put up in this end of the county are very good for all practical purposes.

Among those coming up to the business men's ball game Thursday was the editor of the Rainier Review, Mr. Garrison. We never had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Garrison until recently, but are always glad to renew the acquaintance.

One day this week Max Sommers and Wm Smith passed through here on their way to Seaside. The young fellows live in Portland and are walking the entire distance to the beach, carrying a camping outfit on their backs.

The Commercial Club held a well attended meeting at the City Hall last Thursday evening, and transacted considerable business. Wm. M. Ross was elected as delegate to the meeting of the Oregon Development League at Astoria which meets August 14, 15 and 16. Mr. M. E. Miller was chosen as alternate, and Mr. Laws is a delegate, as are the secretaries of all the Commercial Clubs in the State. The club also passed resolutions asking that the Railroad Company put in a station in St. Helens, which resolutions will be put in the hands of the proper officials at once.

For Sale.—One team of good sound horses, weight 2980 pounds, ages 9 and 10 years. Wagon, new 3 1/2 inch. Harness new. All for $650. Address Ernest Siesman, Scappoose, Oregon, Route 1.

Lost—In St. Helens, necklace with pendant, and amethyst setting. Finder please leave at the Mist's office.

Brief Rules For the Guidance of Unfavored Suitors. WHAT TO DO WHEN REJECTED

Always Try to Parry the Blow With a Ready Reply, Because Staring in Reproachful Silence Gives the Lady a Chance to Change Her Mind.

Incredible as it may seem, proposals of marriage are sometimes refused, usually because the lady thinks she knows better. To comport one's self fittingly when rejected is no easy matter. The young beginner is advised to give some thought to his next move in the event of his proposal being declined.

The really nice young man when rejected inclines to gloom. The average young man takes up an attitude of sprightliness. To display relief when rejected may not seem in the best taste, but if a girl has refused you that is sufficient evidence that she has no taste at all. Let us consider the method of the really nice young man. He hints at a broken heart—a picturesque but improbable happening. He asks if there is no hope. Always he speaks in "low tone." There is the authority of the best fiction for this. Apparently he never shouts his query from the doorsteps as he is departing. He mentions suicide in a noncommittal way and eventually takes his leave "with one last fond, lingering look at her."

So much for the really nice young man. The average young man has a variety of methods for keeping his end up in the event of being rejected. He imparts an air of levity to the proceedings which must be distinctly irritating when one is expecting time honored references to fractured hearts and blighted hopes.

Copying the average young man, you may therefore when rejected laugh heartily and then remark: "Well, but, joking apart, isn't the weather beautiful?"

There is something about this formula which prevents the waste of any emotion except annoyance. Another gambit in taking refusals is to smile with satisfaction and say the simple words: "I win!"

While the damsel is puzzling out what the words may mean you can effect your escape. In the event of an emphatic refusal you can always ask smilingly: "How did you guess I was jollying?"

An effective way to prevent a lady promising to be a sister to you is to get there first by promising to be a son to her, and you can follow it up by saying: "Oh, well, I must be getting along. I've got another call to make."

There is a subtlety about this remark which enables you to take your leave quite easily. Always try, however, to be ready to say something at once. If after her "No" you think you have been silent overlong, assume a puzzled look and say: "Let me see—what were we talking about?"

Should the girl give reasons for refusing you remark: "Yes, that's just what Jane Jones said last month when I proposed to her."

It may happen that the lady answers your proposal thus: "No, Harold, I can never be yours. I am affianced to another."

The best thing to do to avoid exposure of your disappointment is to exclaim: "Yes, I knew that when I asked you."

Another formula when rejected lies in taking a list of names from your pocket, consulting it and remarking: "You're Miss Susan Smith, aren't you?"

Then you put a tick against the name, sigh relievedly and take your leave.

If you have come primed to say "Thank you, Harriet, you have made me the happiest man in all the world," in answer to her acceptance there is no reason why you shouldn't say it in reply to her refusal.

In the event of receiving a refusal by letter pretend that you did not get it. This has a disquieting effect. Or if you want to get even wait till she questions you about it and then say with every symptom of glad relief: "Oh, that letter was from you, was it? I couldn't quite make out the signature, and I thought it was from some one else on a similar matter."

A sportive remark is permissible sometimes when one is refused with lofty contempt: "That's all right, old girl. Truth is I only asked you because I was feeling a bit sorry for you."

The main point is to be ready witted enough to keep your hat and stick in your hand. Do not leave the house whistling, though. It prevents you from exhibiting an amused smile when she peeps at you from behind the front room curtains.

With luck and practice you will be able to take a refusal of marriage quite well. Don't propose merely for practice, however. Your luck may not hold out.—London Opinion.
