TRENHOLM

As the time is drawing near, when the wily office seeker is shaking hands with everyone from the sleek Bank President to the farmers hired man with milk on his boots.

And as Trenholm is not on the map as yet, and knowing the resident of this peaceful little valley would enjoy some of the good cigars, and sample some of the liquid hilarity that will be on tap.

It would be well for the aforesaid office seeker to know just where we are at.

Trenholm is several hundred acres of fertile land, ten miles west of St. Helens and is bounded on the east by sunshine, on the south by warm winds, on the north by strawberries, and on the west by honey and cream, which makes it a very desirable place to live, and any one wishing to have their petition signed are perfectly welcome, as long as their cigars and boozierine lasts. So come on boys and lets see your samples.

Our school commenced Monday February 5th with Mrs. Anna Randle as teacher. Mrs. Effie Wilson who has successfully taught here for the past two years has accepted a more lucrative position in the Yankton school.

The Rev. Mr. Dark held services in our school house Saturday evening Feb. 3rd which was appreciated by nearly the entire community.

The McAbey Bros. have nearly completed the shingle cut here and expect to move the mill farther down the river.

Mr. Orr, an employee in the postoffice at Portland, was a caller here last Sunday.

You and your children are safe if you wear Dr. Lowe's glasses, eye safe and price safe. They cost you no more than the ordinary kind and you have the benefit of his skill and more than 20 years experience. Consult him at St. Helens, Hotel Wed. Feb. 14.
