County Official Paper

Complaints have been made to Judge Hart, acting as Juvenile Court, against children in different sections of the county for incorrigibility at a very rapid rate during the past week. No less than six young boys ranging in age from 9 to 15 years are under suspicion of having committed five offenses against the laws, and widely separated portions of the county. Parents should look carefully after the boys at this age and keep them at all times under their care and management. They should know just where the boys are, at all times, and what company they are keeping. If you don't, parents, you may wake up some morning to find that your boy is in serious trouble, due very largely to your own negligence in looking after him.

In making up the list of candidates for office in this county who have filed, we omitted the name of H. E. LaBare for County Clerk who has filed for re-nomination for that office. It was not intentional on our part to slight Mr. LaBare, but was an oversight on the part of the proof reader. However we don't presume that there was much damage done any way, for Mr. LaBare is one officer who is up for re-nomination and election who is just as sure to be elected as can be, and present indications are that he will be the democratic nominee as well as the republican.

Mr. A. T. Laws, Secretary of the Commercial Club has handed us the following letter from the Oregon Development League. This letter goes to show that considerable interest is being taken in St. Helens and Columbia County by prospective homeseekers and investors. This is a matter for the Commercial Club to look after and see that Columbia County gets her share of the great emigration now headed for Oregon.
Portland Ore.
Feb. 20th, 1912.

Dear Sir:-
Please advise by return mail how many colonists you can place on farm lands or farms in your vicinity this Spring.
Are there any openings in your neighborhood for men with families, and an average ready capital of one thousand dollars?
What will you as a Commercial Club do toward placing colonists referred to you?
A prompt answer is urgently requested.
Yours very truly,
C. C. Chapman,
Secretary.

THE STARS APPEARED.

He Only Wanted to See One, but He Was Introduced to a Cluster.
He had been celebrating, not wisely, but too well, and getting obstreperous and noisy and looking for a fight he was tackled by a policeman who in plain clothes was on his way home. The drunken one showed fight and was indignant that an apparently private citizen should try to arrest him. "Show me your star!" he demanded. "Don't believe you're a cop at all. Won't you show me your star?" and he aimed a manly blow at the policeman.
There was a scuffle and a fight, short lived, but strenuous, and the drunken man was landed in the police station, where he stayed all night. In the morning it was a disheveled and torn wreck that appeared before the magistrate and who listened to the policeman relate the trouble he had in getting him to the station house.
"He wanted to fight me all the way to the station, your honor. He kept pulling back and trying to trip me and yelling: 'Show me your star! I won't go unless you show me your star!'"
"And," asked the magistrate gently, "did you show him your star?"
"Your honor," interrupted the prisoner, "he clouted me on the head, and I saw the star—I saw several of them, enough to go around the entire force."

Unreasonable.
"Emma has such a sweet disposition?"
"Has she? There isn't a shoe clerk in town that doesn't hate her."
"Why?"
"She thinks they are all in a conspiracy to prevent her from wearing a No. 3 shoe on a No. 5 foot."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Conversational Strategy.
"I observe that you never contradict any theory that Mr. Heftybrone advances."
"Yes," replied Miss Cayenne; "he's likely to get through talking much sooner if you don't break in and suggest new topics."—Washington Star.

Serious Drawback.
"I suppose every woman would like to be a Venus de Milo in figure."
"Not at all."
"How can you say that?"
"The Venus de Milo couldn't wear the present styles."—Washington Herald.

Her Change.
"Husband, you look lovely today, certainly. Is that what you are BY WHOLE? No, I don't see what you've had for lunch today."—Herald.
