LIVE NEWS FROM OUR CORRESPONDENTS

HOULTON

The Houlton schools began Tuesday September 3, with E. S. Faxon as principal, Miss Conlogue, Intermediate and Miss Murphy Primary.

Elder McDougall held the regular quarterly meeting at the M. E. Church in Houlton last Saturday.

The Milkmaid's Convention, a four act comedy drama given under the auspices of the "Win One" club, opened the theater season in Houlton. It was an all-star aggregation in which it is hard to select one as being more brilliant than the rest. The address of welcome given by the Houlton delegate was thoroughly appreciated and contained some very wholesome criticism of our city and its ways of doing. If it is taken in earnest instead of jest it will do us all a great deal of good.

Mr. A. J. Kelly and wife are attending the State Fair this week.

The wet weather is interfering with Jack Despains road work. The boys are getting in about half time.

H. O. Howard's tent meetings are not getting the attendance they deserve. The weather is not favorable to out door services.

Our meat market was about to change hands last week, but up to date the deal has not been consummated.

S. Fiske and family of Tillamook have located in Houlton, in one of Mr. Kelley's houses.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. D. Masten, a daughter, Mrs. Masten and baby are getting along nicely and Delmare is wearing the smile that won't come off.

Mrs. Mathews and daughter Ethel have returned from the coast.

Miss Ethelyn Pierce of Radfield, Kansas, spent the week end with her old time friend and school mate, Mrs. C. L. Dark. Miss Pierce, who is a teacher has spent her vacation in traveling and sight seeing, taking notes on all the interesting things she saw so as to be able to tell them entertainingly to her pupils.

The "Win One" club will repeat the "Milkmaid's Convention" at Yankton in the near future.

Mr. Editor:—

There is one question beginning to be discussed that is of more vital consequence for Oregon than anything else at the present time and that is cheap money for the improvement of the land. During the last twenty years most of European countries have, in some manner, provided cheap money for the farmer. While this country has been doing the very reverse policy by taxing the farmer for the benefit of the industrial communities until, by robbing the soil, its productivity has been seriously impaired. The transportation and sale of his products have been so managed that even the present high cost of living is of small benefit to the farmer. The most serious problem in the cheap money question is where the money is to come from. I wish to draw the attention of your readers to the fact that the government has already a fund started that could be drawn on.

I refer to the Post Office Saving Bank which this generous country presents to the poor Bankers at 2 1-2 per cent. By no stretch of imagination can they be called an infant industry nor deserving objects of National charity. Let every voter demand from his Congressional Candidate a pledge of his support to some manner of government aid for now is the time their ears are open. At least let every one talk about and study the question as it vitally affects the welfare of the whole country.

The session of Congress just closed has been the "talkiest" in the history of the government. The completed Congressional Record of the session will contain approximately 14,000 pages. It is the longest Record of them all. Its nearest competitor was that of the first session of the session of the Fifteenth Congress, whose members delivered themselves of words sufficient to fill 9,616 pages. That session, however, lasted from December until the following October 20. This one adjourns in August and yet verbose statemen have dis-anced the oratorical feats of their predecessors of twenty-four years ago by miles. The Record when completed will contain about 26,000,000 words, and the nerves of the official reporters are somewhat frayed, in fact they haven't any nerves left.

In these days of tensely strung nerves and over wrought imaginations, it is as much as any man's reputation is worth to lift his voice against the mad clamor for "reform," or to deny to the reformer, regardless of what his particular cult may be, an exclusive monopoly on honor, integrity and divine inspiration. We have, somehow—a notion that the agitator against existing conditions is necessarily a holy man, God-inspired, incapable of doing or thinking wrong; and that all other men are fools and knaves without honor and unworthy of trust and respect. As nearly as our knowledge serves us, this hallucination moves in circles over the world, returning, like the ancient pack peddler, periodically. The world has been full of evils needing correction from time immemorial. According to history, we have made spasmodic attempts to correct them. These periods of frantic correction our historians record as periods of "social unrest." They last, usually, for a few years; then, according to the chronicler, the people return once more to their daily pursuits, leaving the evils to take care of themselves, and prosperity, happiness, in a degree, and contented minds once more possess us.—The Westerner.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Ore., Aug. 31—"It is a matter of considerable interest and importance to know the demands which particular crops are making upon the soil, especially when plans are being made as they are in modern methods of farming to meet these demands by appropriate fertilization," says Prof. C. E. Bradley of the Oregon Agricultural College chemistry department, in a new bulletin on "The Soils of Oregon" (No. 112).

"The losses of mineral foods and nitrogen by leaching and the loss of nitrogen by direct oxidation are, of course, additional demands which come to the cultivated soil," he continues. He then gives a table of fertility of wheat, vetch hay, alfalfa hay, timothy, potatoes, apples, fat cattle, milk, butter and fresh kale, showing the composition and market value.

"The value of the plant food in one acre of wheat equals $11.40," says Prof. Bradley. "In like manner $24.25 worth of plant foods go into 300 bushels of apples. The large amount of nitrogen and consequent high market value of plant foods in alfalfa and vetch is offset by the storage of atmospheric nitrogen in the soil by these plants, so that the real nitrogen draft does not come on the soil. The mineral foods which these leguminous crops carry, however, are large and represent real losses when they are sold as hay from the farm. The values for kale are extreme and represent the real demands on an acre of soil by an average kale crop, which, by experience, is known to be 'hard on the land.' The small amount of fertility entering into dairy products and live stock explain the well known fact that these industries do not deplete the soil."
