drag. The drag is run at an angle of 45 degrees, so that dirt will be thrown toward one side. The other end of the chain can be inserted and fastened in a hole in the face of the front slab near where the right-hand connecting piece comes through, as shown in the illustration. Shoe about four feet of the bottom edge (right-hand side) of the front slab with a piece of iron or steel, about three inches wide and a half-inch thick, with one edge sharp or beveled. Bolt it on securely, letting the sharp edge project about half an inch below the edge of the slab. This shoe will enable the drag better to shave the surface and cut down the hard ridges which are usually met with on roads that have not been kept smooth. A good drag will cost from almost nothing to $250, depending on the material and construction, and last five or ten years. There is no patent on it, and anybody can make one.

MUDDY ROADS COSTLY
Little Dragging by Each Farmer Will Aid Materially.

No Patent on Implement Invented by King, and Cost Varies From Nothing Up to $250, Depending on Material That is Used.
(By F. D. COBURN, Secretary Kansas Board of Agriculture.)
Rough and muddy roads cost the average farmer more than his taxes. If each farmer will, at the proper times, do a little dragging on the road in front of his land, the state's bad roads will largely be made good roads. Try it for a year; get your neighbors to do the same; see how inexpensive and simple it all is, and if it isn't one of the wisest investments you ever made.
This tells you how: The drag may be made of a log, say 8 feet long and 12 inches through, split in the middle, or of two pieces of any substantial wood, 2x8 inches, and the lighter the better. After the log is split, giving two flat-faced slabs, bore three two-inch holes in each slab as shown in the drawing, connect the slabs, facing the same direction, with the three stakes, or rounded 3x3s, long enough to leave 3 feet of space between the slabs after the connecting pieces have been driven into the holes. Two or three boards nailed together can be laid on these pieces, affording a loose platform for the driver to stand on. Use a chain or strong rope for attachment to the doubletree. Supposing the drag to face the west, and assuming that a chain is used, fasten one end of the chain to or around the left hand outside connecting brace, letting the chain pass over the top of the front slab. If attached to the face of the slab near the left hand end, the chain would interfere with the movement of dirt toward that end of the

SIMMONS' ROAD BILL PASSED
North Carolina Senator Makes Name for Himself by Securing Appropriation From Government.

In the dying hours of the congress just closed Senator Simmons of North Carolina made a name for himself as the father of the first appropriation for road building by the federal government that has been made since Henry Clay made his successful fight for the building of the old Cumberland road. Senator Simmons' bill provides for the expenditure of only $500,000, and that for experimental work; but the law has been broken now, and the advocates of national highways, and the national government have taken new courage. The bill provides for every dollar expended in any community by the federal government the local authorities shall put up two, so, while the actual appropriation is only five hundred thousand, the bill will cause to be expended on the roads of the country a million and a half; it is further stipulated that every cent of the money shall be spent under the direction of engineers from the United States office of public roads, thus eliminating the possibility of local graft. The information that the national government has at last made a direct appropriation for road-building outside of federal cemeteries, national parks and army posts comes to the advocates of good roads as the best news they have heard in many years; the appropriation is not much, it is true, but road-workers will insist that it is the first ray of light that presages the approach of dawn. National highways are coming, and coming soon.

Good Roads.
Good roads are essential to the success of the farmer the world over. Poor roads are very costly, they cause the speedy wearing out of wagons, the loss of animals and the failure to market crops profitably. Good roads mean a great ease in marketing, longer wear of farm wagons, more profit and more comfort. Good roads are not expensive; all roads can be improved at small cost in money, time and labor.

Feed for Pigs.
Six pounds of skim milk to two pounds of cornmeal makes an economical feeding ratio for growing pigs. A 100-pound sow will make very satisfactory gains on two such feeds a day. Eight pounds of skim milk make a gallon.

Feeding Corn Chop.
Stock are liable to swallow crushed corn and other fine rations too quickly for it to be thoroughly masticated. Therefore, break up an ear or two of corn to feed with the chop.

Willing Panhandler.
Archbishop Ryan, of Philadelphia, was accosted one day by a drunken panhandler, who asked for a dime. The archbishop gave him the dime and said: "My friend, don't you think it would be possible for you to walk in the straight and narrow path?" The panhandler straightened up. "Who me?" he asked. "Show it to me. I used to be a tight-rope walker."—Saturday Evening Post.

Truest Moments.
Count always your highest moments your truest moments. Believe that, in the time when you were the greatest and most spiritual man or woman, then you were your truest self.—John Wesley.

Woman and Suffrage.
If a woman demands votes, offices and political equality with men, as among the Shakers an elder and elderess are of equal power—and among the Quakers—it must not be refused. It is very cheap wit that finds it so dull that a woman should vote.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Their III Success.
Chicago doctor opines that the average woman loves a cave man. But most of them have to be content with flat dwellers.

Small Eggs of Silkworm.
The egg from which the silkworm comes is so small that it takes one hundred of them to weigh a grain.

One valuable lesson the manure spreader has taught is the use of small quantities applied frequently. It makes possible what can be, but is seldom done—light application.

Beauty in Expression.
If the great number of women who believe that they are sadly lacking in beauty who pass valuable time and money in vainly trying to acquire it could but be brought to realize that the highest form of beauty is that of expression! This is attained by the possession of inward graces, which frequently transform a so-called plain face into one more beautiful and perfect than the combination of a perfect complexion and regular features.

Simple Club Doing.
While Mrs. W. was busy in her kitchen preparing the light refreshments for her bridge club, which includes the more well-to-do of the neighboring county, Sally Hill, a poor farmer's child, came in with a donation of home-made pickles. "My mother bore me to a club, too," said Sally. "Does she? And what do they do? Play cards?" "No." "Sew?" "Oh, no; they just draw names out of a hat to see who'll have the next meeting."

Should Have Some Superstition.
We would not give a rap for the person who is without all superstition. We would a little bit prefer the man whose superstitions are pessimistic to the one who is an exceedingly superior as to think there is no luck in life, no favor nor disfavor in anything that may happen or in any circumstance that may surround our lives.—Exchange.

Origin of Popular Saying.
The origin of the saying that it takes nine tailors to make a man is derived by some to be a corruption of "nine tailors make a man," the "tailors" being another name for "tolls" of a toll. The English custom was to strike three times three tolls or "tollers" on the passing bell for the death of a man. It was three times two for a woman.

Two-Edged Sword.
Curiosity is finding out something about somebody else that doesn't concern you and which would make you mighty mad if somebody else found it out about you when it didn't concern somebody else.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Woman of Narrow Mind.
A woman lacking true culture is said to betray by conversation a mind of narrow compass, bounded on the north by her servants, on the east by her children, on the south by her ailments, and on the west by her clothes.—Burton Kingsland.

African Ants.
These insects sometimes set forward in such multitudes that the whole earth seems to be in motion. A corps of them once was seen to attack and cover an elephant quietly feeding in a pasture. In eight hours nothing was to be seen but the skeleton of that enormous animal completely picked. The business was done, and the enemy marched on after fresh prey. Such power have the smallest creatures acting in concert.

Must Be Warned.
The Prussian building code has just received a rather remarkable amendment. It provides that the huts for the use of laborers connected with building operations must be suitably warmed between November 1 and April 1—when the outside temperature reaches fourteen degrees, that is, eighteen below freezing.

Fleeing Shade.

Different Kind.
Wife (anxiously)—I do wish you were in some other work, dear. I am in constant fear that you will touch a charged wire at the shop." Hub—"Oh, the charged wire at the shop doesn't bother me; what I have more dread about is the charged account at the store."

"After giving her only two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound she is now enjoying the best of health. I cannot praise your Compound too highly. I want every good mother to read what your medicine has done for my child."—Mrs. RICHARD N. DUNHAM, 311 Exchange St., Rochester, N. Y.

Stoutsville, Ohio.—"I suffered from headaches, backache and was very irregular. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and before I had taken the whole of two bottles I found relief. I am only sixteen years old, but I have better health than for two or three years. I cannot express my thanks for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I had taken other medicines but did not find relief."—Miss CORA B.
