SILVERTON BRIEFS

McNary administrator to be Silverton principal

An assistant principal at McNary High School in Keizer will be next year's Silverton High principal.

Silver Falls Superintendent Andy Bellando announced that Justin Lieuallen will take the Foxes' top job, while current principal, Mark Hannan, is leaving to take a new job at Silver Crest School as halftime principal, halftime district program manager.

Lieuallen was also runner-up in the search for a new principal at Newberg High School this winter. In Silverton, the staffing switch goes into effect this summer, following board approval on June 13. Lieuallen has been an assistant principal at McNary for 12 years; currently he's the assistant principal in charge of counseling and curriculum, Bellando wrote in an email to staff.

"Justin's selection is the culmination of weeks of effort and input from a cross-section of people from throughout the school and community," Bellando wrote. "I appreciate the efforts by everyone involved."

Prior to his position at McNary, Lieuallen was an educator in the Beaverton and Hillsboro school districts, where was a high school science teacher and coach. He began his school career as an educational assistant in a special needs program.

Eugene Field School attracts buyer

A potential buyer made an offer on the Eugene Field School property in downtown Silverton shortly after it was listed last month for $1.45 million.

The school, at 410 Water Street, is set to permanently close this summer. The 3.46-acre property includes the 35,000-square-foot school building, the land on which it sits, and three tax lots across A Street to the north. Sperry Van Ness Commercial Advisors has the listing.

The offer's details weren't public at press time on June 13. At a June 6 executive session, board members emerged from the closed meeting with a statement authorizing Superintendent Andy Bellando to conduct early negotiations and pledging to vote on the matter in public.

Separately, the Silverton City Council voted on June 4 to pursue changing the property's zoning from a "commercial fringe" to a "downtown commercial" designation.

"Downtown commercial zoning has to do with setbacks and build-to-lines," said Councilor Dana Smith. "It's a very pedestrian-friendly atmosphere."

This designation requires new construction to sit back from the sidewalk no more than 5 feet, and residences can only exist above storefronts, said Community Development Director Jason Gottgetreu

"Commercial fringe" zoning incorporates the historic homes on the edges of downtown, most of which are set back from the road and some of which are still used as freestanding residences, Smith said.

The Mt. Angel City Council also voted this month to approve an $8.4 million budget.

weather, making it a perfect space to host an Oregon event in unpredictable June. Of course, we will still offer plenty of covered space in case the weather turns on us."

While the outdoor setting may change the ambiance of the annual beer-lover's event, it will still feature the favorites: beer, music and food. This year's offerings include 120 handcrafted beers, ciders and mead from 60 different breweries from across the nation complemented by a variety of foods ranging from barbecue and beef jerky to sandwiches and sausages.

The music will be on a central stage under a tent in the forest, allowing guests to enjoy it from numerous locations. The Friday night headliner is Dead Wood Standing, of which the garden's horticulture manager is the lead singer. Saturday's headliner is Sassparilla.

Families may be interested to know that minors will be permitted at the event from noon to 5 p.m. Saturday, in addition to, as in previous years, all day Sunday. There also will be a kid's craft area on Sunday. The new location, which is closer to the Children's Garden, allows families to be near event festivities and entertainment for kids at the same time. A child's ticket is $5 and includes a free root beer.

A one-day pass is $15 and includes a tasting glass and five tasting tickets; a three-day pass is $30 and includes a tasting glass and 10 tasting tickets; and a VIP pass is $55 and includes a tasting glass and 35 tasting tickets. Additional tasting tickets may be purchased for $1; four tickets is a full glass of beer.

Tickets purchased at the door are the same cost as in advance except that a one-day pass is $20 after

We Are Here to Help Answer All Your Questions!

Who do I call first?

When a death is unexpected and a person is not on hospice, nor in a licensed care facility, your first phone call may be to the funeral home. However, the police must be notified first. Often the funeral home will call and notify the police for you.

Once police are notified, they will come to the place of death and assess things. They will also contact EMT to come and certify the time and that a death has occurred. Afterward, the police may phone the nearest funeral home to assist in transportation of the individual. In certain cases, the medical examiner's deputy may also be requested at the scene to determine if an autopsy may be required. In other cases, an autopsy may not be necessary. If family wishes to pursue an autopsy, they should notify the funeral director.

Is embalming required?

No. Only in certain circumstances. Embalming is required in cases of communicable disease or prolonged public viewing (6 hours or longer). Most often times the funeral home will utilize mortuary refrigeration, as required after the first 24 hours of death.
