

Recycle

Among the new no-nos:

■ Shredded paper. Junk mail, greeting cards and other paper still is accepted, but if it's shredded, keep it out, Posegate said. And don't toss in a brown grocery bag full of paper. The bags are recycled separately, so dump them out, fold and put in on their own.

■ Plastic jars such as peanut butter or mayonnaise containers, and plastic cups, such as yogurt, salsa, cottage cheese or hummus containers. Only 12 ounce or larger beverage containers or soap and cleaning product bottles are now accepted.

■ Egg cartons.

■ Take-out clamshells, aseptic milk and food containers, and freezer food packaging. "Anything in the fridge or freezer that touches food at all, throw it away," Posegate said.

Even before China's crackdown, contamination of recyclables was a huge problem. At Garten Services, between 9 percent and 13 percent of everything coming in the door is trash that Garten must pay to dispose of, Posegate said.

The top contaminant: Dirty diapers.

Recycling changes

Beginning March 5, only the following items are allowed in the mixed recycling roll cart:

Paper: Newspaper, including inserts; corrugated cardboard; magazines and catalogs; junk and direct mail; cereal and other small boxes; and office paper.

Other fibers: Corrugated cardboard boxes, cereal boxes, cracker boxes and shoe boxes.

Metal cans: Steel, tin and aluminum cans.

Clean plastic: Beverage bottles that are 12 ounces or larger; soap, shampoo and cleaning solution bottles; and milk, juice and detergent jugs.

There are no changes to the rules for the red bin.

Other common items include shoes, clothing, kiddie pools, garden hoses, huge metal parts, and pots and pans, Posegate said.

People may think Garten employees will pick out the items and dispose of them properly, he said, but that's not the case.

"We've got a thousand tons of this stuff coming out of a truck that crushes it all," he said. "Maybe we'll find that bowling ball, but come on. People have gotten way out of line with what they put in there."

Officials aren't expecting customers to catch on to the new rules right away.

"This change in the markets happened so fast that we don't even have updated literature, so we don't expect customers to be 100 percent compliant overnight," said David Lear, general manager of the Mid-Valley Garbage and Recycling Association.

But they would like customers to do their best, and certainly to keep garbage out of the blue bins.

"Please be strict with that list," Posegate said. "Or you're just giving your trash to someone else to deal with."

OBITUARIES

Shirley D. Cavanaugh

June 10, 1932 – March 5, 2018

Shirley D. Cavanaugh, 85, passed away in her home on March 5, 2018.

She was born on June 10, 1932, to John and Dolores (Vastine) Kipper in Rocky Ford, Colorado; she was an only child. Until she was 13, Shirley lived in Rocky Ford, but an early death by her mother and later abandonment by her father led Shirley to live with various families in various places until she was 18 and graduated from high school.

On March 17, 1951 she married Patrick Daniel Cavanaugh Sr. in San Antonio, Texas; they had a daughter and son. As a military family, the Cavanaughs lived in a number of different places including three years in France and four years in Germany. After retiring, Pat and Shirley traveled around the United States for 28 years, attending local, regional, and national conventions for clock and music box collectors. Both Shirley and Pat were involved in the life of their church and of their community.

Shirley is preceded in death by her husband, Patrick.

She is survived by her daughter, Becky Hopkins of Silverton and son, Dan Cavanaugh of Allen, Texas; six grandchildren: Ian Goetting, Kalah Goetting, Krista Hopkins, Grady Hopkins, Connor Cavanaugh, and Meridan Cavanaugh.

A Memorial Mass will be held at 11 a.m., March 17, 2018 at St. Paul's Catholic Church in Silverton Oregon. Remembrances may be made to First Christian Church Wednesday Night Dinners, 402 N 1st St, Silverton, OR 97381. Arrangements with Unger Funeral Chapel of Silverton.

Fletcher Lee Prince

September 7, 1926 – March 3, 2018

Fletcher Prince

Fletcher was born on September 7, 1926, and he died on March 3, 2018.

He was 91 years old, and passed away at the Orchard House in Mt. Angel, where he lived with his wife of 71 years, Ruth.

Fletcher was born to parents Jim and Isabel (McCabe) Prince in Anadarko, Oklahoma; he was 1 of 5 children. Fletcher was raised and attended school in Oklahoma. In 1944, he joined the Navy at 17 years old; he was a Seabee, and was stationed on Okinawa, Japan.

In 1946, Fletcher met Ruth Ann Gann in the Salinas Valley, California. They were married on October 7th, 1946, in Soledad, California. They had 3 children. He and his family moved to Oregon in 1962, settling in Silverton. Fletcher enjoyed boating, fishing, golfing and gardening; but most of all spending time with his family.

He is survived by his wife of 71 years,

Ruth Prince; children: Jimmy (Cathy) Prince of Silverton, LaDonna (Larry) Barstad of Silverton and Rob (Dee) Prince of Woodburn; 10 grandchildren, 19 great-grandchildren and 3 great-great-grandchildren.

A memorial service was held on Friday, March 9, 2018, at the Silverton Assembly of God Church, located at 437 N James St. Private interment will be held at a later date at Bethany Pioneer Cemetery. Arrangements by Unger Funeral Chapel of Silverton.

Nora Ann (Polk) Schar

Nora Ann (Polk) Schar passed away on January 31, 2018 after a year-long struggle with multiple illnesses. She was 79. There will be a celebration of her life on March 24 at 1:00 p.m., St Stephen Lutheran Church, 290 W Gloucester Gladstone.

She was interred at Wilhelm Portland Memorial Funeral Home.

Roundup

"Thinking back to all the years, it's just been a long run and I never thought it would come (to an end) this fast," McCarty said.

Silverton returns three starters next season – Paradis, Schmitz and sophomore post Riley Traeger – so the Foxes figure to be formidable again.

Boys consolation championship

When Silverton's dream of winning the state championship ended in a quarterfinal loss Wednesday to No. 8 seed Churchill, the Foxes didn't dwell on what could have been.

No. 1 seed Silverton (25-2) defeated No. 5 seed Springfield 67-35 in the consolation semifinals Thursday, and culminated an outstanding season Friday with a 61-50 victory over No. 7 seed South Albany in the consolation championship.

The Foxes, who were state champs in 2015, took home the fourth-place trophy "I'm so proud of 'em," first-year coach Jamie McCarty said.

"I told 'em after we lost that first-round game that this a chance in their life where they'll look back in 10-15 years and say, 'How am I a better person because of this?'

"We knew we had to get up the next day and get our head off the pillow as fast as we could and we had a chance to get better."

Silverton led the entire way against South Albany (21-7), a team they beat by 27 and 25 points in two regular season matchups en route to going undefeated in the Mid-Willamette Conference.

In his final high school game, Silverton senior wing Cade Roth had a team-high 15 points, with six rebounds and four assists.

"I feel like we really proved ourselves. We can compete on any level," said Roth, the Mid-Willamette Conference Player of the Year. "Even though we may not have gotten first, we were gonna get the next best thing we could."

"I love this group of guys. I wish I could play with them for another four years."

Silverton led 27-18 at halftime and extended its lead to as much as 17 points in the third quarter.

The Rebels cut the lead to 57-50 with 1:27 left, but junior forward Levi Nielsen scored on a fast-break layup and Silverton was not threatened in the final minute.

"Obviously it was disappointing that we lost the first-round game cause we wanted to go as far as we could, but coach told us we couldn't sulk," said Nielsen, who had 10 points and seven rebounds. "We had to bounce back and do the best we could."

Sophomore guard David Gonzales (14 points) and sophomore forward Grant Dunn (11 points) joined Roth and Nielsen in double figures.

With three starters – Gonzales, Nielsen and junior forward Josiah Roth (Cade Roth's first cousin) — due back next season, along with key reserves like Dunn and junior guard Drake Ulven, Silverton could be in position to make another run next season.

"It's gonna be difficult losing some of the guys we have, but we definitely have some young talent on this team coming up and I'm really excited for next year," Nielsen said. "Hopefully we can make it back (to the state tournament) and be better."

Girls consolation championship

In a tight consolation game final, No. 9 seed Crescent Valley edged No. 3 seed Central 44-42.

Central (22-6) led 12-3 after a strong first quarter, but the Panthers lead was cut to one point at halftime.

Central took its final lead at 37-35 on Katelyn Trevino's 3-pointer with 3:55 remaining.

Crescent Valley (24-5) edged in front, but Lexy Barba's 3-pointer tied the game at 42-42 with 42 seconds left.

Cali McClave made two free throws for the Raiders with 6.7 seconds left to close the scoring. Trevino was fouled on a drive to the basket at the 0.2 mark, but she was unable to convert at the foul line.

The Panthers, who were making their first state tournament appearance since 2010, took home the sixth-place trophy.

"It's kind of an unbelievable feeling because I never thought from freshman year that we'd get to this point," said Central junior post Annike Riddell, who had nine points and 13 rebounds. "It's really cool that we actually get to experience this."

Central and Crescent Valley split two regular season games in the Mid-Willamette Conference.

With four starters due back next season – Riddell, sophomore guard Meagan Mendazona, and junior guards Elizabeth Chavez and Trevino, the future appears bright for Central.

Barba, a senior guard, led the Panthers with 13 points.
