PUBLIC NOTICE ANNOUNCING THE AVAILABILITY OF AN ENVIRONMENTAL ASSESSMENT

US DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE Rural Business Services (RBS)

Bighorn Solar Site: Notice of Availability of an Environmental Assessment

AGENCY: Rural Business Services, USDA

ACTION: Notice of Availability of an Environmental Assessment

SUMMARY: Notice is hereby given that the Rural Business Services, as required by the National Environmental Policy Act, is issuing an Environmental Assessment (EA) in connection with possible impacts related to a project proposed by the Bighorn Solar, LLC (Applicant). The applicant is proposing the construction of a 2.2 megawatt (MW) solar facility (Project) located approximately 1.7 miles southeast of the town of Hayesville in Marion County, Oregon. The proposed Project consists of an approximately 12-acre portion of a larger 367-acre parcel in Marion County.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Michael Beyer, State Environmental Coordinator at (503) 414-3368, 1220 SW 3rd Avenue, Suite 1801, Portland, Oregon 97204 michael.beyer@usda.gov.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Applicant's proposed project would use ground-mounted, fixed tilt solar arrays, consisting of photovoltaic (PV) modules, inverters, and associated racking and electrical equipment. The Project would have a generating capacity of 4,064 megawatt-hours (MWh) of energy per year and would sell this energy to Portland General Electric (PGE) under a long-term fixed power purchase agreement. When constructed, the solar arrays and associated components would be no more than 10 feet in height and would be surrounded by 7-foot tall chain link security fence. The facility will be located on privately-owned property in Marion County, Oregon.

Environmental Resources Management, Inc. consultant, prepared an Environmental Assessment for RBS that describes the project, assesses the proposed project's environmental impacts, and summarizes, as applicable, any mitigation measures used to minimize environmental effects. RBS has conducted an independent evaluation of the Environmental Assessment and believes that it accurately assesses the impacts of the proposed project. No significant impacts are expected as a result of the construction of the project.

Questions and comments should be sent to RBS at the address provided. RBS will accept questions and comments on the environmental assessment for 14 days from the date of publication of this notice.

Any final action by RBS related to the proposed project will be subject to, and contingent upon, compliance with all relevant Federal environmental laws and regulations and completion of environmental review procedures as prescribed by 7 CFR Part 1970, Environmental Policies and Procedures.

Camping

The program saves about $450 to $500 that would normally be charged for a camping experience that includes the rental of five yurts or cabins at each participating park.

The program, called the Explorer Series, is geared toward organizations or nonprofits that can bring members on the camping trip. Those looking to participate must submit an application by March 6 "detailing an ability to administer the program and commitment to serving communities that are underrepresented in the outdoors," a news release said.

"Surveys show some segments of Oregon's population do not camp or visit state parks, or at least not in numbers that parallel their population," said Cailin O'Brien-Feeney, director of the Oregon Office of Outdoor Recreation.

O'Brien-Feeney said the idea arose when Oregon Gov. Kate Brown's Task Force on the Outdoors looked at surveys showing who was visiting state parks — and who wasn't.

Non-white minorities make up 24 percent of Oregon's population but only 12 to 13 percent of state park visitors, according to the surveys. He said those with disabilities and members of the LGBTQ plus community had similar gaps.

"In partnering with community-based organizations, we hope together we can make the outdoors more accessible to these populations," O'Brien-

Feeney said. "This is a pilot program and will be a learning experience."

A panel of state parks staff and others will evaluate applications and select recipients.

"Organizations will be responsible for selecting program participants, and supporting them in preparation for the camping trip," the news release said. "Preference will be given to organizations that demonstrate a plan to continue to support participants' engagement with the outdoors after the camping trip ends."

The program will cost the agency around $4,500 in lost fees. That gap will be made up with funds coming in from the "flexible fees" program that will see the cost of camping increase at some of Oregon's most popular state parks this year, to pay for discounts at others.

The parks open to the program span the state, including from Cape Lookout on the Coast to Silver Falls in the valley and Prineville Reservoir in Eastern Oregon. The trips will take place at different times of the year.

"So much research shows that spending time outside corresponds with better mental and physical health," Sumption said. "We need to do what we can as an agency to ensure all Oregonians have equitable access to state parks and the associated health benefits."
