PAYS HIGH TRIBUTE TO PRES. ROOSEVELT

Ex-Secretary Root Scores Political Boodlers and Says "There is a Better Way." Thinks Roosevelt the Right Man in the Right Place

Edna Root, retiring secretary of war, addressing the Union League Club at New York Wednesday night, paid a glowing and eloquent tribute to President Roosevelt. Patriotic citizens everywhere, regardless of party connection, will applaud Mr. Root for saying:

"I am told that President Roosevelt is not popular in the city of New York. There they say he is not safe. He is not safe to men who prosecute selfish schemes. He is not safe for men who wish to drive the President of the United States to a corner and make whispered arrangements which are not known by his constituents. But I say that he has been, during these years since President McKinley's death, the greatest force for the protection of property and of our institutions in the city of Washington.

"There is a better way of protecting property, capital and great enterprises than by buying legislators. There is a better way of dealing with labor and keeping it from running into tumult and riotous riot than by starving it or by buying or corrupting its leaders."

Camel Carriages are not common conveyances in most parts of India, but on the great trunk road leading to Delhi they are frequently to be seen. They are large, double-story wagons drawn sometimes by one, sometimes by two or even three camels, according to their size. Iron bars which give them a conoidal appearance were originally intended as a defense against robbers, and the camels were probably also used for the conveyance of prisoners. "The most picturesque property of the Punjab government," says John Lockwood Drilling, "is a large char-haulie in which is harnessed a team of four or six fine camels with leopard skin harnesses and gayly attired riders." Neither camel nor bullock carts command themselves much to the western traveler, but in out of the way places the latter are often found very useful.

How to Ventilate Sick Rooms.
Sick rooms should be ventilated even more conscientiously than the rest of the house. Many an amateur nurse forgets that the sick require pure air quite as much as the well and so neglect to secure all the air space that is necessary or available. All draperies, hangings and stuffed pieces of furniture that are not absolutely necessary should be banished from the sick room. To stir the room without giving the patient cold place an extra blanket or coverlet over the bed, draw the sheet up over the patient's head and face and let a strong draft blow through the room for a few minutes. This will effectually dislodge any layers of foul air that may have collected. Continuous ventilation should be maintained both day and night by means of an open window in an adjoining room, the door between being kept open.

How to Prevent Stoves Rusting.
By applying kerosene with a rag ten you are about to put your stove away for the summer it will prevent them from rusting. Treat your farming implements in the same way before you lay them aside in the fall.

Congratulations.

Mr. John H. Cullom, Editor of the Garland, Texas, News, has written a factious congratulations to the manufacturer of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, as follows: "Sixteen years ago when our first child was a baby he was subject to croupy spells and we would be very uneasy about him. We began using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in 1887, and finding it such a reliable remedy for colds and croup, we have never been without it in the house since that time. We have five children and have given it to all of them with good results." For Sale by all druggists.
