It is a disease of ambitious, industrious men and women. It does not come to the sluggard. The nourasthanic race is underliably to the swift—it is a penalty exacted by Nature for to much wear and tear upon either of twin Nervous Systems.

It is unavoidable that nervous exhaustion and brain fag should go hand in hand; in fact, they are the same thing. They have a common origin, run a like course, ordinarily manifest theto selves at one and the same time in the same individual, and together respond gratifyingly well to osteopathic tentment. The condition is one of latigue of the Cerebro-Spinal or the Sympathic Nervous Systems, belabored and dull mental effort, an aversion to train work, inability to scale the heights of one's usual mental a bisyment, the desire or new environment, most likely coupled with incomnia, waich is the symptom of the malady we designate it "brain and locate the trouble mainly in the cerebro Spaul System; while impaired digestion, a sense of weight or pain in the pic of the stomach after eating, irregular heart rhythm a clear case of discurbed circularion throughout the body, malaise, coupled with irritability of temper, and most generally constipation, constitute the other picture when the Sympathetic Nervous System has been most shatler-ed. Now it is said the patient suffers from "nerve wrack" "nervous exhaust-ion" "neurasthenia."
