A Tale of The Fair

Mr William James and wife, of this city who have lately returned from an extended visit to the East, where they visited friends in Michigan and Iowa, stopped over to visit the great St Louis Fair.

Mr James reports that the St Louis Exposition is the greatest show on earth, and that there are no restrictions on grafters. To use his own expression, "grafters are thicker than fleas on a hog's back in polkberry time."

Among other interesting and amusing incidents, Mr James tells of a visit he and his wife made, while at the Fair, to see the skull of John the Baptist, for which they paid the sum of twenty five cents per capita. While they were listening spellbound to the wonderful story of the "speller" concerning the skull; the immense amount of money it cost to put it on exhibition at the St Louis Fair; how and when it was taken from the tomb by relatives and retained in their possession for ages; how it would be an exhibit at this fair only, and at no other in time to come while all this was going on, an old lady pushed her way through the crowd and told the fakir that she did not believe that it was the skull of John the Baptist. The speller assured her that she was mistaken, for the skull he had on exhibition was surely the skull of John the Baptist. The old lady then told him that he was not telling the truth, for there was another man at the other end of the grounds who had just showed her the skull of John the Baptist. The ready wit of the grafter was exhibited when he replied "Oh, the skull exhibited at the other end of the grounds is the skull of John the Baptist when he was a boy."

Train Wreck

A wreck occurred this morning at the railroad crossing on Greenwood Street which resulted in some little loss of property, but no loss of life or serious injuries to persons.

As the East bound freight train was pulling out past the switch at this crossing, the engine and twenty one box cars passed safely over, but the switch jumped or was thrown just at this time, and six box cars were derailed and thrown upon the side track tearing up the ties and rails for a distance of about one hundred and fifty yards. Two of the box cars were completely overturned, but the wreckers with a large crew of men is rapidly raising them and putting them in place again, while another large crew of men are at work replacing the ties and rails.

A Startling Feature

One of the most startling features of the Fourth of July demonstration will be the wonderful feat performed by the famous trick bicyclist who will ride his wheel from the top of the highest building in town to the street on a ladder. This event will positively take place. He beats the high dive.

Runaway

A runaway occurred at the crossing of the railway track on First Street Saturday evening, which came very near resulting seriously to the driver of the train.

Just after passenger train No 5 had passed the First Street crossing and pulled up to the depot, Mr Jack Riley the lumberman from Hilgard who was driving a span of horses, attached to a light buggy, up First Street, attempted to cross the track at that place just as the switch engine was approaching the crossing. The team became frightened and bolted, and although Mr Riley displayed great presence of mind and attempted to stop the frightened animals, they dashed up the railway track on a dead run and struck the first switch, about sixty feet from the crossing.

When the left fore wheel of the buggy hit the switch one of the single trees was torn off and the logs were torn out or slipped off, thus freeing the horses from the buggy, and Mr Riley, who was struggling with the lines was jerked violently out of the buggy. Although severely shaken up, bruised and scratched Mr Riley sustained no severe injuries but will no doubt be very sore and stiff for several days. The horses, after breaking away from the buggy, still harnessed together made a bee line for the livery of Joe Woods on Jefferson Ave., and there was a beautiful race until they struck the post which supports the sign in front of the stable, when they were separated, one going on either side of the post, and one being thrown in the door way.

The damage to the buggy was a broken front wheel, a twisted front axle and tongue and a broken dashboard.

Most people don't know what economy means. Merely pinching the price isn't economy. Real economy thinks last of price and first of QUALITY. Economy is in what you get, not in what you pay. Saving money at the expense of QUALITY isn't economy, it is extravagance. When we buy our goods we look first to QUALITY both in material and workmanship. When we sell our goods we give you good QUALITY at prices that are never higher than such goods are worth. The best QUALITY shoes are cheapest in the end by far.
