Among the Elks of this city who left this afternoon by private conveyance to be present at the funeral of the late Hon. E. C. Jennings, of Joseph, were J. H. Pearce, F. S. Ivashoe, J. C. Smith, M. H. Kirtley, Chandler McKennon, W. W. Pankey, John Dodson and C. H. Bidwell of Island City.

Every fisherman, who has returned from any of the mountain streams this season, has made a vow that he will join the association for the purpose of scouring fish from the government to restock all streams. All that is required is to file the number they can properly use and see that they are placed in the streams upon their arrival. We have the streams, the government has the fish and if the streams are not properly stocked, who is to blame?

Captain H. E. Coolidge, per his personal request, has been relieved of the command of Co. L, O. N. G., and as soon as the transfer can be made a special election will be held by the company to elect a captain. First Lieutenant Adna Rogers is now in command of the company. Capt. Coolidge sent in his resignation several months ago but through the solicitation of the Colonel of the regiment he consented to remain until after the recent encampment. Captain Coolidge has had several years experience in military circles. For several years he belonged to the Utah national guard and as member of such, accompanied his company to the Philippines. He states his reason at this time for resigning is that his private business requires all his attention.

There will soon be a demand for puttermilk pails. The new creamery will start on the first to churn.

In a few days the best harvest will demand several hundred laborers to dig, top, and haul the product to the factory.

While the hay crop of the valley is considerably larger than for many past seasons, on account of the shortage in the Willamette valley, Portland will furnish a much better market for the better grade than usual.

A. V. Oliver who is over on the Mission with A. Prosser and family sends in word that there will be need of a hatchery on that stream soon as he and his party are getting more fish than would supply a fish market in Oro D. I.
