THOMAS E. WATSON'S LETTER

Thomas E. Watson the Populist candidate for President completed his letter of acceptance at his home in Birmingham Alabama; O'P Goodall, kindly handed the Observer a copy of the letter a few days ago. The letter is a long one covering twelve columns in the newspaper in which it was printed but long as it is it is Tom Watson from start to finish, without a dull paragraph or an obscure sentence. There is much in the letter which the Observer does not subscribe to, yet the candor, clearness and frankness with which Mr Watson expresses his views, challenges our administration for the man though failing to convince as to the soundness of the doctrine set forth.

Watson's letter like Roosevelt's sets forth in clear homely English the convictions of the writers on the public questions discussed. There is no mistaking the meaning of either. Neither convinced the slightest, desire to secure a vote or modify opposition by shrinking from giving a bold and manly expression of their individual opinions.

But the treacherous pen of Watson failed to convince us that it is the part of wisdom to call a halt in our present career of progress and prosperity or hazard a change from the employment of the policies that have worked out so well in practice and made the United States the richest and most prosperous people on earth and experiment with untried theories. Let us recall the conditions of 1893-6 with their soup houses and hard times.

TURN OUT

Attention must again be called to the importance of a full vote at next month's election. It is going to be of the highest importance that the vote of this should compare favorably with that of the State of Washington. There the interest in the contest between Mead and Turner is keen and will bring out a great vote; perhaps 125,000. Here there is no such local contest and effort must be made to get the vote out. Washington will give between 20,000 and 30,000 for Roosevelt.

But in Oregon there will be no 30,000 Republican majority, or 25,000 if the election is allowed to take its course without energetic effort to get the vote out. In 1900 the State of Washington cast 106,624 votes and the State of Oregon cast 84,195 votes. The total vote of Oregon in 1902 was 99,698 and of Washington was 91,561. In 1900 at the Presidential election we cast 84,000 votes, but in the state election eighteen months later the contest on state and local issues brought out 90,000 votes. If there should be some such discrepancy this year, the total of 98,000 votes cast last June might dwindle to 87,000. How will it look if Washington returns a total of 125,000, with a Republican majority of 35,000 and Oregon returns a total vote of 85,000 with a Republican majority of only 20,000?—Oregonian

An exchange remarks that if a man had a $50 pup he would look after it carefully and not let it run all over town. But if he had a boy it is much different. The boy is turned loose at a tender age and let go to the bad. The people wonder where the great army of tramps, loafers, dead beats and sots come from each decade. They are germinated from the pure seed gathered from our homes and sown abroad cast upon the streets and alleys. It may be your boy is starting in that direction. At all event the boy ought to be given an equal chance with the pups.

A Georgia editor went buggy riding last week and let his sweetheart fall out. An Oregon editor would never have been guilty of such gross carelessness.

Loss of the Clever

Any one who carries about a few saved clevers will be lucky and will have the power of discovering ghosts or evil spirits. With it under the pillow the sleeper may insure dreams of the beloved one. A fragment in the shoe of a traveler insures a safe journey. Or the preserved clever it is declared that if it be worn on the left side of a man's dress or fastened behind the hall door the Christian name of the first man who enters will be the same as that of the future husband. The power of the four leaves shamrock for good is familiar to all. From Lever's once popular and peppy soap the speaker in which pictures what she would do should she find the magic plant:

I would play the enchanter's part and scatter bliss around,
And not a tear or sighing heart should in the world be found.

How dear to my heart is the old-fashioned washboard
That mother used to wash on when I was a boy,
With its sine-covered ridges the suds used to play in
And soap bubbles gambled to my childish joy.
Ofttimes have I watched her when wearing her knuckles
As over the ridges our dears she would rub,
I ne'er will forget how she smiled and she slathered
The old fashioned wash board that stood in the tub.

CHORUS

The old fashioned washboard!
The sine-covered washboard;
The back-breaking washboard that stood in the tub.
Some folks always kick about up-to-date laundries,
And say they wear out their clothes every day;
But give them to me, so I will have a hot dinner
At home, with the smell of the soap suds away.
I know that the washing machine is much easier
On all our clothes than to take them and rub.
Till the buttons and bosoms are lost and worn out
By the old-fashioned washboard that stood in the tub.
We are not the old fashioned kind.

Beautiful Pictures

On next Monday night, Oct. 24 1904, there will be an entertainment given under the auspices of the Epworth League at the M E church in this city. This entertainment will present a full original Steel and Fraeland illustrated concert, and will include beautiful illustrative and amusing pictures, music, songs all of which will be illustrated.

This concert with Mr Steel as baritone soloist, is reported as standing at the head of all entertainments of this kind. Rev. Smith, of Elgin, who had the pleasure of seeing this same production in Chicago, says that it is the best production of moving pictures that it has ever been his lot to see. The purpose of the entertainment is to procure money for the purchase of a new set of song books for the Methodist church, and during the lengthy program consisting of
