PROHIBITION AT HOME

Under the Local Option Law Union county Voters will decide the Question Nov 8—Not a party Issue—Words from the Oregon Anti Saloon League.

The following extracts are from a tract entitled "Twelve arguments Against Prohibition."

"Prohibition will kill a town. Drive trade away."

Yes, the trade of saloon hangers-on But not one in a hundred would follow, like carrion feeders, the removal of the saloon. Remember that the women do most of the shopping. And those who remain will have much more to spend for the necessities of life. The average receipts of a saloon are not less than $10.00, or $3000 per annum. Multiply this by the number of saloons in your town, and you will approximate the loss to your groceries, dry goods stores and other legitimate lines of business. Every dollar spent for liquors is a dollar less for shoes and clothing. The beer bill is always paid first.

Hear what business men of Oregon say:

"My experience has taught me that collections are much better in towns without saloons. In my judgment the saloon is a detriment to other lines of business."—J. J. Tyson (Gen'l Mer.andise, Philomath Ore.

"Milton has not had a saloon for 13 or 20 years and during that time the population has increased 300 per cent. Business is good in all lines of trade."—N. A. Davis, Cashier Bank of Milton.

"The effort toward Local Option made in Ashland during the past eight months has been very successful. The city is growing as never before, business is good, and morals of the community are excellent."—Stoner & Gilham, House Furnishers, Ashland.

"With an experience of 10 years in general merchandising in a saloon town and 5 years in a prohibition town, I am thoroughly convinced that the saloon is of no assistance whatever as to drawing trade in a general way to a town, and is of no benefit whatever to any legitimate business."—S. M. Daniel, Dealer in General Merchandise, Monmouth Ore.

2. "The saloon revenue is necessary to build our sidewalks and to make public improvements."

Milton, Newberg, Dayton, Forest Grove, Monmouth, Philomath, Halsey, Brownsville, and Ashland have no saloon revenue, and yet they are as well improved as other towns, and could not be induced to adopt the licensed saloon. They do not believe in paving their streets with the wrecked lives and skulls of their citizens. The rum shop does not enrich a town but impoverishes it by increasing its police and court expenses, producing idleness, and by sending away large sums of money for liquors. For every dollar the saloons pay into the public treasury they take ten dollars from the purses of the citizens and demoralize society. It requires men, men of strong character, brains and industry to build up a town—not saloon men and gamblers.

"Voe to the town that is built on blood and the city that is established by iniquity."

3. "Prohibition will increase our taxes."

Not the taxes of our country people. Other states divide the saloon revenue with the county and the state, but in Oregon it is all annually retained in the municipal treasury for corporation purposes, while the entire county is taxed to maintain the jails, asylums, penitentiary, courts and poor houses that are caused largely by the liquor traffic. The annual expense of maintaining the state penitentiary is $40,000; jails, $25,124; poor fund, $105,582. The county tax payers are assessed for a large portion of this without a penny of revenue from the corporation saloons, which are responsible for seven eighths of the expense. In self defense, every country vote should be "For Prohibition."

Neither will it increase the taxes of towns.

Total tax rate of Portland Ore., notwithstanding $162,800 saloon revenue, is 40 mills. The total estimate of her police department is over $90,000, and her arrests average 22 per day to increase court expenses.

How can a trade that causes more expense than it yields in revenue diminish the tax rate? Then, it is the consumers, the citizens, who indirectly pay the license fee, while they are being converted into beggars and criminals. Luxuries, not vices, are to be taxed.

The total revenues from liquors in the United States is $141,000,000. The annual cost of the traffic is $2,578,000,000, nearly twenty times as much.

4. "Prohibition will throw 15,000 men out of employment in Oregon," as stated by the President of the Brewers' and Wholesale Liquor Dealers' Association.

There are 1600 saloons in the state. That would average nine men to the saloon, quite a liberal estimate! It requires only three men to make a barrel of beer, but twenty-five men to make a suit of clothes. The capital now used in breweries, if invested in woolen mills, would give employment to eight times the number of men to furnish clothing for their families in place of rags provided by the rum shops. The chief profit goes to the brewer, and that is the reason Mr. Weinhard could erect so many large buildings. Every man who drank a glass of his beer added a brick to his buildings to help make him a millionaire, while the drinker lives in a rented cottage.

"You can never stop people drinking the best way is to regulate the business by high license or else you will have blind tigers, or drug-store saloons."

But the trouble is it refuses to be regulated so long as you allow it to live. The only law regarded by the liquor traffic is "Might makes right" Wherever it dares do so, it will defy the law.

Drug-store saloons? Much less loading, gambling, treating, drunkenness, knockout drops and robbing than in the licensed saloon. But read the Local Option law on sales druggists and this argument will vanish into vapor, for no druggist would risk the heavy penalty and imprisonment.

6. "County local option is not just. It permits the country to force prohibition upon the towns and cities."

County local option is the law of sixteen states of the Union. They consider it just. The county is the unit of taxation to provide for the support of the jails, poor houses, asylums and criminal courts made necessary by the liquor traffic. Under former laws our rural population have taxation without representation. The towns are dependent upon the country trade for their prosperity, so the farmer should have a vote in deciding the moral conditions of the communities where his family go for trade, school and church purposes. Especially so as it will improve the morals of the town and city and whatever benefits can not be unjust.
