EARTH AND ROCK

A Mountain Rent Asunder And Tons of Earth and Rock Blown Into the Air.

Grants Pass Nov 7—By the explosion of 8000 pounds of dynamite in the Galice district Sunday afternoon the entire diggings of the Royal group hydraulic mines, lying between Rocky and Rich Gulches, were blown up and a mountain was rent asunder. Hundreds of tons of earth and rock were blown skyward, and the entire Galice district trembled as by an earthquake. The report was considerably muffled by the mountain into which the 8000 pounds of explosive was set, but the report was heard for many miles.

The purpose of the explosion was to loosen up the cemented gravels and strata of the Royal Group diggings, making it available for washing down by the giants without further blasting. Ordinarily blasting is done a little at a time throughout the mining season. Places of bank are frequently encountered that are too stiff for the giants to gnaw through, and a stick of dynamite is necessary. To do this the giant streams are turned aside, and just that much time is lost. Manager Harvey has done all of his blasting at once, and believes he has saved much valuable time. It is a new departure in Southern Oregon placer mining, and the result will be watched with interest.—Grants Pass Journal.
