PROF. TAIT IS HURT

While Attempting to Board a Street Car in Seattle--Head Considerably Bruised.

Seattle (Post Intelligencer)—R P Tait, an aged resident of La Grande Or., was painfully and, it is feared, seriously injured at the corner of First avenue and University street on Monday afternoon, while attempting to board a south-bound North Seattle car. Tait is at present confined to his room in the Ciller hotel and is being attended by Dr. Ghent.

At the time the accident occurred Tait was in the act of boarding the car. He had placed his grip on the platform, when he says, the car began to move. The conductor seized the grip and attempted to assist him on the platform. As the car gained headway, however, the conductor loosened his hold on the catchel and Tait who was gripping it tightly fell headlong on the brick pavement. A deep gash was cut in his forehead and his eye is swollen closed. He yesterday complained of intense pain at the base of the brain, but Dr. Ghent is of the opinion that the skull is not fractured.

The street car company claims that Tait attempted to board the car after it had gotten in motion. The latter, however, denies this, asserting that the car was at a standstill when he attempted to step upon the platform.

The family received a wire Wednesday and a letter yesterday stating that Mr. Tait was not so badly injured as was thought the first day and after visiting his son Robert at Bremington will be home in about two weeks.
