OREGON MUSICAL CLUB CONCERT

Better music, better singers, and a greater attraction than ever. That was the opinion of the audience that gathered last night in the auditorium of the High School building to hear the concert marking the 5th annual tour of the University of Oregon Glee and Mandolin Clubs. The boys show the benefit of the excellent and painstaking training of Professor Irving M. Glee, their instructor.

It is not numbers that count in college glee and mandolin clubs, but quality of the music sung and the manner in which that music is rendered. In that department the Oregon College boys hold their own, giving a clever entertainment that will rival that of the large universities of the East. Indeed, as the present writer has cause to know from personal experience, on several occasions crack college clubs from well known New England towns did not present the splendid entertainment offered last night by the boys of old Oregon. The programme was well selected, mostly of the amusing order of things. One of the notable baritones on tour is E. R. Abbott, president of the Glee and Mandolin Clubs, and his strong, mellow voice was heard to advantage in "Floating Idly" (Atkinson). There was real laughter in the "Ha, Ha, Ha," chorus, and most ludicrous acting in Heart's "Love's Language."

Robert O'Rourke, of this city, is the club's funny man, and a most excellent choice has been made in his case. He has composure, good stage address, and genuine mirth in his makeup. Nothing finer in recent years than his "Peter Gray" has been heard here by college boys. The mandolin club boys played well, and their selections struck a popular chord. In fact, every member of the programme was encored, and in two cases there were triple encores. The club's itinerary: Tomorrow, Athena; Tuesday, Pendleton; Wednesday, Baker City; Thursday, La Grande; Friday, Union. Oregon on tour, season '04-'05, here's to you. You're all right!—Portland Oregonian. Seats on sale at Van Buren's
