For Mother's Sake

With an exceptionally large cast, and a capable one, a wealth of special scenery, and a plot of engrossing human interest are among the promises concerning the new story of New England Life, "For Mother's Sake" which will appear at Stewards Opera house Thursday Jan 12.

The first act is laid at Lawrentown on the shores of Lake Megantic among the pines of northern Maine, and is set in admirable taste. The second act is the exterior of Mrs. Pemberton's cottage, and dooryard forming a very homelike picture. The third act is a mining scene among the mountains of Colorado giving excellent opportunities for fine scenic display which the management has taken complete advantage. But the scene of stage setting is seen in the fourth act, when the snow storm is seen raging through the lattice window and blow in at the door as the characters enter. It makes you feel so snug and cozy when the door is shut and you see the cheerful fireplace, the lighted Christmas tree and the village tots singing their Christmas carols, and making merry over the return of their play-fellow and favorite Jo Pemberton.

Bent Her Double

"I knew no one, for four weeks, when I was sick with typhoid and kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Annie Hunter of Pittsburg Pa, "and when I got better, although I had one of the best doctors I could get, I was bent double and had to rest my hands on my knees when I walked. From this terrible affliction I was rescued by Electric Bitters, which restored my health and strength, and now I can walk as straight as ever. They are simply wonderful." "Harry Duckwell, aged 25 years choked to death early yesterday morning at his home in the presence of his wife and child. He contracted a slight cold a few days ago and paid but little attention to it. Yesterday morning he was seized with a fit of coughing which continued for some time. His wife sent for a physician but before he could arrive, another coughing spell came on and Duckwell died from suffocation.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat Dec 1 1904."
