BELIEVES IN SPRAYING

"I know of orchardists in places in Eastern Oregon, who throw away enough call apples every year to buy a spraying outfit and enough spraying fluid to last a year, because of the worms in their fruit," said Conductor Frank Coykendall to the East Oregonian today.

Mr. Coykendall has just shipped to this city from La Grande one of the finest lots of apples ever raised in Oregon, there being no culls or bruised apples in the entire car. He is an enthusiastic fruit grower at Grande Ronde valley, and is interested in seeing the law requiring orchardists to spray their trees rigidly enforced. He has found that it pays and hopes to see others enjoy the same benefits from proper care of their orchards.

Because of the excellent quality of his winter apples, Mr. Coykendall has just sold a shipment to California buyers at 85 cents per box, while the local market price was but 65 cents. He has found that it is a good investment to spray trees and has just purchased a $250 spraying outfit for his Grande Ronde orchard.—Pendleton E. O.

Oregon Apples

The Youths Companion a Boston Mass., paper of January 20, says: "Oregon apples sell in the Boston market for sixty and seventy cents a dozen, a higher price than is asked for good oranges in the same market. The reason is that they are carefully packed and selected. The fact and the reason are commended 'to whom it may concern.' But if our apples were not good, no amount of selecting and packing would make them bring such prices. The packing and selecting only takes them to Boston as they grow in Oregon.

Correcting a Mistake

Editor Observer:—
 I notice you made a mistake in yesterday's Observer in extending an invitation to the general public to attend the Caledonian Reunion. This Reunion is given by the Burns Society of La Grande and is open to all who are members of this Society or who are eligible to become members. Any person can become a member who is a native of Scotland or who is a descendant of Scotch parents or who is married to a Scotch husband or wife. The Society would be glad to entertain the general public if it were possible to do so, but there are about two hundred members of the Society and those eligible to become members and this is about all the Society can entertain. A cordial invitation is extended to all persons eligible of becoming members as above set out. The only expense is a dollar a year dues charged to the men, the women free. The dues are used to cover the expense of this annual reunion. Yours very truly,
