Os-te-op-a-ty

Osteopathy does better than cure it prevents diseases. The prevention lies in a timely correction of the disease.

Osteopathy keeps children well. They may have acute attacks, they may have accidents injuring the bony framework, which will cause disease; but if the trouble is taken in time, the normal can be properly restored; the disease dispelled before arresting the growth by impairing the health of the child.

A healthful child grows steadily and attains great vigor and a mental development commensurate with the physical.

Osteopathy in the hands of the skillful practitioner is accomplishing these things.
