The score cards were in ink drawings by Mrs. Lilly all having the picture of a baby in different positions. "On Thursday afternoon at two Most happy I will be if you Will please accept my invitation And join with me in recreation "Whist we will play, and while at table, Will try and see if we are able To keep the rule the same applies And Whist! our talk as the moment flies.

Then we will quickly count our scores And banish whist to further hours Let conversation reign supreme, Where woman is acknowledged Queen"

An Interesting Relic

Russel W. Cross who now resides in this city, yesterday brought to this city a bead collar which he made while a prisoner in Libby prison during the three months which he was held prisoner in that, the greatest of southern prisons. The collar is a handsome piece of work and represents many hours of careful and painstaking work. It is a valuable relic and will be treasured by the family during generations to come. Mr. Cross was a soldier in the Union army during four years of that most awful struggle, and was captured at the battle of Fort Republic June the seventh 1862 and remained a prisoner exactly three months to a day. He was a member of Co. C twenty-ninth Ohio Infantry.

THE DIFFERENCE IN MEDICAL SCHOOLS

The first cardinal difference between Osteopathic and all other medical reasoning can be explained right at this point. The old-school diagnosis emphasizes the importance of each of these varying and perhaps evanescent symptoms, and according to slight shades of variation, constructs and names different diseases. It literally constructs disease out of symptoms, and therefore regards, in the main, the symptom as the disease. It prescribes drugs to combat and change these symptoms. It therefore "doctors" symptoms instead of causes.

The Osteopath in his original way seeks out the cause, which he finds in most all cases to be anatomical. Over coming the cause is Osteopathic treatment.
