ST. PATRICK'S BALL A GRAND SUCCESS

The St. Patrick's dance given last evening at the Commercial Club hall by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen was a success in every sense of the word, and even exceeded the expectations of the railroad men. It was probably the best attended dance that has ever been given in the Commercial Club, and all went "merry as a wedding bell." In honor of St. Patrick, the hall was decorated and festooned with appropriate colors of green and white, arranged in artistic and attractive manner. Green lanterns altogether were hung in front of the portals of the building, while on the inside of the hall the surrounding walls were lined with all colors of railroad lanterns, an immense cluster of them was placed in the centre of the hall. In one end of the large dancing room was placed a locomotive headlight, and at the opposite end, upon the stage, was the mouth of a black tunnel, with the rear end of a caboose just disappearing in its depths, while at the side stood a trainman with a lantern in each hand. The entire display was unique, the decorations most artistic and appropriate to the celebration of the day and to the railroad employees.
