Ballard's Horehound Syrup
Immediately relieve hoarse croupy cough, rattling, rasping and difficult breathing. Henry O Stearns, Druggist, Shullsburg Wis. writes, May 20 1901: "I have been selling Ballard's Horehound Syrup for two years and have never had a preparation that has given better satisfaction. I notice that when I sell a bottle they come back for more. I can honestly recommend it. 25c, 50c, $1.00.—Newlin Drug Co.

A Dandy For Burns
Dr Bergin, Pana, Ill. writes: "I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment: always recommended it to my friends as I am confident there is no better made. It is a dandy for burns. Those who live on farms are especially liable to many accidental cuts, burns, bruises, which heal rapidly when Ballard's Snow Liniment is applied. It should always be kept in the house for cases of emergency." 25c, 50c $1.00 bottle.—Newlin Drug Co.

A Long Session of the City Council

the side-walks covered with goods, wares, merchandise, boxes, kegs, and many other things not proper to be upon the sidewalk.

I also call your attention to the fact that in one or more places upon the main streets of the city, parties have put in water pipes, and left the pipe and faucet standing a considerable distance above the sidewalk in a manner very dangerous to persons traveling along the walk. This should not be allowed, and if the ordinances of the city are not sufficient to stop the practice the city attorney should be instructed to at once prepare the necessary ordinance and that they be at once put in force.

It may seem unnecessary that I should again call the attention of the council to the fact that there are very many places and premises within the city that are open nuisances from the fact that the owners of the premises deposit in the alleys and on such premises garbage and waste material until the premises and alleys, as well as the streets are very offensive to the sight and otherwise.

I also urge upon the council and recommend that in case the city is in need or expects to use any material of any considerable amount, an estimate of the same be made before hand, and that the furnishing of the same be submitted to bidders and contracts let for the same to the lowest responsible bidder, and that the provisions of the charter that no member of the council shall be interested in contract work of the city shall be rigidly adhered to. I strongly recommend the practice of each officer of the city purchasing his own supplies at his own will be discontinued and that before any supplies are purchased at the expense of the city requisition for the same be made, and that the same be ordered by the council or some committee for the purpose.

My attention has been called to the fact that the ordinance prescribing licenses has been in many cases, and probably most cases ignored, and that hacks, trucks, and drays have been for months, and are now running without licenses in accordance with the licenses provided. I recommend that the finance committee at once thoroughly examine the books of the water superintendent, the recorder, treasurer and all other officers of the city, through whose hands any funds of the city pass, or who has had during the past year or years the purchasing of material or employment of men and such work, from this city.
Yours respectfully,
J D Slater
Mayor

How I Came To Be An Osteopath

A T Still, M D, Founder of the science,
In the year 1874 I proclaimed that a disturbed artery marked the beginning to an hour and a minute when disease began to sow its seed of destruction in the human body; that in no case could this be done without a broken or suspended current of arterial blood, which by nature was intended to supply and nourish all nerves, ligaments, muscles, skin, bones and the artery itself; and that he who wished successfully to solve the problem of disease or deformities of any kind in all cases without exception would find one or more obstructions in some artery or its branches.
At an early day in my medical studies this philosophy had solved for me the problem of malignant growths and their removal through restoration of the normal flow of the arterial fluids—which, when done, transfers the blood to the venous circulation for return and renewal after the process of renovation is completed by the lungs, excretories and porous system. Fevers, flux, headaches, heart and lung troubles, measles, mumps and whooping cough, and all diseases met and treated since that time according to this theory have proven to my mind that there is no exception to this law.

The rule of the artery must be absolute, universal and unobstructed, or disease will be the result.
I proclaimed then and there that all nerves depended wholly on the arterial system for their qualities, such as sensation, nutrition and motion, even though by the law of reciprocity they furnish force, nutrition and sensation to the artery itself; and further proclaimed that he brain of man is God's drug store and has in it or subject to its control, all liquids, drugs, lubricating oils, opiates, acids and every quality of chemical that the wisdom of God thought necessary for human happiness and health.

In my study I began with the bones I associated them in attachments by adhesive ligaments, which bind every bone to every other bone of the body. These receive and operate belts, straps, pulleys, aprons, and all of the necessary forms of the softer parts of this great machine which is to be operated by the force known as animal life. Having completed the study of bones—the relations of one to all others in form; how beautifully they work, how nicely they are attached; how well formed to receive attachments of muscles and ligaments; how nicely divided and spaced in such condition as to allow the blood vessels and nerves of all kinds to ramify through all other tissues and deliver all fluids of life and action in every minutia to the common whole—I was lost in wonder and admiration.

I was led to ask the question: "On whom or what does this engine depend for its motive force?" Whence all this skilled workmanship—seen in full motion, quietly, heroically and with infinite exactness heaving, delivering its nicely prepared elements to each and every station where construction must receive and blend with, out a murmur with the next motive force? Whose duty is it to keep a vessels, channels and routes for all substances cleaned and purified by the invigorating powers of bodily fluids as these flow over, nourish, oil smooth, lubricate and water—from the great system of aqueducts commonly known as lymphatics—the bones, blood-vessels, stomach, bowels heart, kidney, and every part of the body?

God has placed all the principles of motion, life and all its remedies to be used in sickness inside this human body. He has placed them somewhere in the structure if He knew how, or else. He has left his machinery of life at the very point wherein His skill should execute its most important work. As we are unwilling to attribute to Deity anything but perfection, and would be highly offended at any one who should even hint at such an idea, we must see that our acts are in line with our words—Osteopathic Health.

You don't have to hire a Cab

The La Salle Street Station in Chicago, which is used by the trains of the Rock Island System, is located in the very heart of the city, less than a block from the Board of Trade; less than two blocks from the Post Office; within easy walking distance of the principal hotels, theatres and stores.

You don't have to hire a cab to reach them. The "union loop" is right in front of the station. Pay 5 cents, get aboard the elevated, and you are whisked to any part of town you wish to reach.

Let me give you other reasons why you should use the Rock Island System. There are lots of them.
