Great Assembly

Berne, May 9.—In response to an invitation of the Swiss federal council delegates, representing nearly all the countries of Europe, assembled in international conference in Berne today to discuss several questions relating to the conditions of labor. It is proposed that an international agreement should be arrived at by which the employment of white phosphorus in the manufacture of matches should be prohibited, and also prohibiting the employment of women and children in industrial night work. The prohibition of the use of white phosphorus, which is very injurious to the health of the workers, has long been sought by the Belgian and other governments, and it is believed that the conference now being held may result in something tangible in this direction.
