Garfield Begins Report

(By Scripps News Association)
Washington May 23—Commissioner Garfield has begun work on his report of the oil investigation. It is understood by the commissioner's present attitude that the oil business in the future shall be entirely open, and that the small producers shall be allowed the advantages of transportation at the same price that the Standard Oil Co. receives. In order to accomplish this, it is believed that Garfield will recommend that Congress declare pipelines common carriers.

It Would Seem So

One of the Spokesman Review headlines of the 10th reads:
"Two Days May Bring Together Mighty Fleets Which Are Bent on Destroying Each Other" It may be so, but it does seem to some of us that if they were "bent" very much they would have been together long ago.—Flora Journal.

Worthy Of Patronage

One of the greatest treats that theatre-goers of this city have experienced during the season was the production of the "Rajah of Puzala", which was produced at Steward's opera house last evening by the Williams Opera Company. This company is composed entirely of children thirteen years of age and under, and their performance is rarely if ever equalled by an aggregation of this kind. The production was intense and interesting from the rising of the curtain until the end. The ability displayed by the little folks seems marvelous, and the audience was carried away with their songs and their quaint acting. Seldom is it found that children of this age have such complete control of the voice, as well as such wide compass as some of the singers displayed. Manager Steward has certainly secured a rare and exceptionally good entertainment for the people of La Grande, and it would behoove all lovers of good music and all lovers of bright, intelligent children to attend the performance tonight.
