Quite a lengthy program was arranged and carried out, in which were many learned discussions of questions of great importance.

A county that requires a train every other day in the year to transport our products to the world's markets, should make a sensation in the way of representing Union county day on the fifth of July at the fair. Now let some one with diplomatic ingenuity come to our rescue with the necessary suggestions.

Mr Clair Gillilan has secured authority from the Pacific States Telephone Company to get out a directory for the La Grande, Island City and Farmers exchange, and will visit the merchants this week to solicit advertisements from them. The directory will contain the name and number of each of the six hundred and fifty members of the exchange.

The census enumeration is practically completed, but as it will be several days yet until the reports of the country districts are in, before the books are closed, it would be well if any one who has not been enumerated would call at the assessor's office and have their names or family properly recorded. The figures now filed will place the population slightly in excess of four thousand one hundred.
